HOUR GIVEN TO DEATH

Florida Honors Storm Victims

Funeral Services Conducted for Thousand Lying in Common Graves

Grief Grips Crowds That Pause in Labors to Pay Final Tribute

WEST PALM BEACH (Fla.) Sept. 30. (AP)—Battered blossoms, windwhipped and shredded, tattered remnants of gardens and hedge rows that bloomed two weeks ago in colorful splendor, tonight carpeted the common graves of nearly 1000 victims of the hurricane disaster.

Today this community, itself battered and torn by the hurricane of a fortnight ago, paused an hour in its efforts at rebuilding to pay tribute to those whose lives were taken by the wind and flood of Lake Okeechobee.

Simple funeral services were conducted in two cemeteries, one stretching along the city's principal thoroughfare and the other where the bodies of negro victims of the storm have been buried.

Thousands paused in their labors for the funeral hour, designated by Mayor Oaksmith as belonging to these dead.

SIMPLE SERVICES

A song or two by massed choirs, brief memorial addresses and prayers comprised the service in the White Cemetery, where lie buried sixty-nine victims, each identified with a metal tag marking the spot in the community grave.

Drama ruled at the services of the negro victims where the moans of widowed women and orphaned children frequently drowned out the words of the ministers and the measured cadence of old-time hymns.

In the negro cemetery, which lies on a sun-drenched ridge, unadorned and approached by a dead-end street terminating at the wreck of a building supply yard, 674 bodies have been buried. These are the unknown dead, hauled in from the lake's rim in trucks, and the coffins laid side by side in a trench dug by a steam shovel.

UNIDENTIFIED DEAD

None of the mourners know what relatives were buried in the big graves, yet each regards it as a resting place of loved ones.

PLANS COMPLETE

FOR BENEFIT AT BEACH

Preparations for tonight's Florida flood-relief benefit on the Venice Pier were completed yesterday by concessionaires, the Venice Amusement and Business Men's Association, Venice Woman's Club, Chamber of Commerce and other organizations. All money taken in at the Venice dance hall, on the pier, is to go to the relief fund and amusement men are putting up cash and other awards at various concessions. A large crowd is expected for the event tonight.

The Story of TAMMANY

BY EDWARD C. KRAUSS

(Mr. Krauss, the writer of these articles, spent more than fifteen years in New York State and city, as a newspaper worker, and knew this city as only a newspaper reporter can—from the inside. For several years he had intimate contact with New York politics and political personages, and on one occasion instituted an inquiry which resulted in removal of a grafting judge from the bench. He is now an editorial writer for The Times.

Tilden's part in virtually suppressing Tweed's revelations made to Atty.-Gen. Fairchild has never been satisfactorily explained. Both Denis T. Lynch, biographer of Tweed, and M. R. Werner, historian of Tammany Hall, charge that they involved too many friends of Tilden, too many up-State Democrats who had been Tweed's beneficiaries in the Legislature, and that it was largely due to Tilden that no one else than Tweed was punished for the ring's misdeeds. But the evidence they offer does not appear conclusive.

After the defeats of Tammany in 1871 and 1872 and Tweed's conviction, Tammany underwent one of its periodic reforms. "Honest John" Kelly had been a newspaper office boy, a stone cutter, a volunteer fireman, handy with his fists, elected Alderman, twice elected to Congress, three times Sheriff. The latter office made him wealthy through fees and perquisites. The New York Times accused Kelly of charging $30,000 too much for the care of prisoners and of charging 133 per cent more than the legal rate for transferring convicts to Blackwell's Island.

Mayor Havemeyer, who had succeeded Mayor Hall, once wrote to Kelly: "Fraud permeates every part of your bills to such an extent that one honest spot would be a sort of relief. . . . I think you were worse than Tweed, except that he was a larger operator. The public knew that Tweed was a bold, reckless man, making no pretensions to purity. . . . Men who go about with the prefix of 'honest' to their names are often rogues."

In his reorganization of Tammany, Kelly made the venerable and respectable Augustus Schell, Grand Sachem, and associated with him were Tilden, Horatio Seymour, August Belmont, Abram S. Hewitt and other men of excellent reputation. These men were window-dressing; the power was Kelly's and he worked to make it absolute. His fellow "reformers," one by one gave up, or were forced out, Tilden among them.

Kelly owned two newspapers, the Star and the Evening Express. He ordered the Board of Excise Commissioners to refuse to grant a license to any saloon-keeper who could not show two paid-up subscriptions to the Star; and this helped keep opposition papers out of the places where Kelly expected to gain most of his votes. But he had some stiff opposition within his own party and in 1881, when he was up for Sachem, he found it necessary to pack the Tammany Society election to win. But he won, and clung to control from 1872 to 1886.

Kelly originated the system, still used by Tammany, of assessing candidates for their nominations. His theory was that for each candidate to make an individual campaign was a waste of money and did Tammany no permanent good, so he instituted a general campaign fund and saw that no one who did

NINE HELD IN POLL PLOT

Chicago Officials Arrested

Crew Seized in Raid Accused of Writing Names Into Election Books

Record Registration Indicates Women Turning Out to Support Hoover

CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (AP)—While the ink dried on the names of 882,212 persons registered yesterday in Chicago for the November election, election board officials acted on charges of registration fraud.

Seven men and two women, judges and clerks in one registration place, were arrested by police in a raid on an apartment. The raiders say they found them writing names into their poll books.

The election workers, in turn, told a story of having been kidnaped.

The tip on which the raid was made was furnished by a small boy with an accurate memory for automobile license numbers. He burst into a police station to inform the sergeant that he had seen the election workers kidnaped by men with guns. The police found the "kidnapers'" auto and the apartment where they were working, but found no guns or any evidence of violence.

James D. Broda, Republican precinct captain, reported to police, two hours after the arrests had been made, that he had been kidnaped as the result of a Democratic plot.

Police said they found that three of their nine prisoners are Democrats. The election officials declared the police raid took place too soon after the polling-place closed to have permitted the entry of more than a few names.

Harry A. Lipsky of the election board will conduct the questioning of the workers.

POLITICIANS PONDER OVER REGISTER GROWTH

CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (Exclusive) A record-breaking registration of voters for the coming election in the Chicago district, particularly the great increase in women voters who will declare their preferences November 6, has set politicians to pondering. Leaders of both party organizations are considerably confused but the Republican managers profess confidence that the big bulge in the registered vote means added majorities for Republican candidates in Illinois and the doom of Al Smith's hopes in the prairie State, even with the support of the admittedly large vote of the wet element in Chicago.

The total was 882,212, an increase of 313,343 over the number on the first day for the Presidential election four years ago.

Analysis of the city totals showed that the men added 39.6 per cent to their total for the corresponding day in 1924, but the women did considerably better than twice as well, jumping their registration 84.4 per cent, the increase for all voters figuring 55 per cent. The women's vote is concededly a Hoover vote.

Mrs. Rinehart Decries Vote on Wet Issue

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. (Exclusive) Most of the women of the country are going to vote for Herbert Hoover because his stand on prohibition appeals to them, asserted Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, noted author, in a statement made public today by the women's national committee for Hoover.

Indorsing Hoover's record as a humanitarian, Mrs. Rinehart said that prohibition is "political dynamite," and added, "to elect Al Smith because he is a wet is like electing Woodrow Wilson in 1916 because he had kept us out of war."

The statement, according to the announcement of the women's committee headed by Mrs. F. Louis Slade, was dictated to a representative at Mrs. Rinehart's ranch at Wolf, Wyo., where she has been spending the summer.

Mexican Planes to Greet Mail

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 30. (AP)—Plans were announced tonight for a Mexican escort for the first American mail plane which will leave San Antonio tomorrow morning for Mexico City. The Mexican planes will meet the other at the border point of Nuevo Laredo. Postal authorities will receive the pilot on his arrival at Valbuena Field near here.

Beginning Tuesday a regular Mexican air-mail service will connect with the United States air mail. Planes will leave Mexico City at 9:15 a.m. and will be due at Nuevo Laredo at 6:25 p.m.

Sprayed by Gas, Burns to Death

MARYSVILLE, Sept. 30. (AP)—James Dutra, 35 years of age, workman on the Henry Reis ranch near here, was burned fatally today by gasoline which ignited after it had been sprayed on him by the carburetor of a tractor. He died in a hospital here.

Walter Phillips, who was working with Dutra, suffered slight burns. He blamed the accident on the motor's backfiring.

FLYERS PASS FORTY HOURS

Brock and Schlee Wing Steadily Toward Goal of World's Endurance Record at San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Grinding off miles with monotonous regularity after more than forty hours aloft, William P. Brock and Edward Schlee were still in the air here tonight confident they can bring back to the United States the world's record for sustained flight.

The huge Bellanca plane spent the day shuttling between Coronado and Imperial Beach at altitudes of 200 feet or less, keeping above the surf line to take advantage of the smoother air there. At nightfall it went to 1000 feet, but kept on the same course. Later the plane dropped to 500 feet when a high fog rolled in.

END FAR AWAY

To break the world's record Brock and Schlee must remain in the air until 1:15 o'clock Tuesday morning. The present record is held by German flyers and to break it officially the local aviators must stay up an hour longer than the present mark of 65h. 25m.

Apparently the flyers have abandoned their plans to fly back and forth between San Diego and Los Angeles tomorrow as they have requested that planes bearing news bulletins meet them over their course tomorrow and deliver messages. Late this afternoon the flyers asked for a special report on wind velocity and this was sent up.

A message asking them how much gasoline they were using was delivered, but no satisfactory estimate was made. During today's flying the plane at times dropped to a speed of fifty-four miles an hour and the engine probably was not burning more than ten gallons an hour.

HAD NO SLEEP

Flyers who took messages up to Brock and Schlee today reported the airmen appeared to be in the best of spirits and seemed to be well satisfied with the progress of their flight. Whether they are getting sleep is not known definitely, although aviators who flew alongside the Bellanca today thought the two pilots had had no sleep since they started.

TWO TAXI GARAGES BLOWN UP

Bomb Outrages in Chicago Believed Reprisals for Recent Fatal Shooting

CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Two Yellow Cab Company garages were bombed simultaneously today. Police fear the outrages are reprisals for the fatal shooting last week of a Checker Taxicab driver by a Yellow Cab chauffeur.

No one was reported injured in the first police information. The two garages, however, were said to be wrecked. Both are located on the North Side; one in an exclusive residential district and the other in one of the most prosperous business districts.

Lindbergh Back in New York

CURTISS FIELD (N. Y.) Sept. 30. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here today in a flight from Chicago accompanied by Parmalee Herrick, son of Ambassador Herrick, and Harry Knight of St. Louis.

The last leg of the flight was made today from Hazelton, Pa., where Lindbergh landed for the night because of fog after taking off from Cleveland, O., yesterday.

Col. Lindbergh refused to comment on a report that he is engaged to marry Miss Blanche Satchel. Asked about it, his only reply was, "That is interesting, tell me some more about it."

Will Rogers Remarks:

SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) Sept. 30. [To the Editor of The Times:] Saw that polo game Saturday in New York. That was the greatest game ever played, the best men and the best horses in the whole two Americas. Don't miss the next one Wednesday, no matter where you have to come from.

Al made one great mistake in his prohibition speech Saturday night. He said "We can't expect anything from the Republicans." Well, I don't know how we could possibly expect more than we have unless a man has unlimited expectations. But Herb won't answer. He is pulling a Coolidge and is getting the Democrats' goat.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

HUNT FAILS FOR COUPLE LOST IN BAY

Aviators Scan Waters in Vain at San Francisco as Result of Vanishing

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Further scanning of the waters and lonely shore lines of San Francisco Bay today failed to disclose any hint of the fate of Miss Grinel Gette Heynemann, young society beauty, and Lieut. Paul L. Woodruff, United States Army flyer, who have been missing since they set out Friday evening for a moonlight paddle in the cove near the Heynemann estate at Belvedere.

Though the frail craft in which the young couple went boating was found waterlogged but still afloat in the cove, no paddles have been found either on the surface of the water or along the shore. A frayed mooring line tied to the canoe together with the fact of the missing paddles has encouraged members of the girl's family to cling to hope that she and her aviator escort yet may be found alive.

Airmen friends of the lost army aviator here from Riverside especially to join in the plane search made another flight today. They are Lieut. George Henry and Lieut. Carl Manse of March Field. Flying low over the bay in their plane they scanned the surface of the waters for a trace of floating bodies and isolated spots along the shore where they might have been cast up by the waves or found refuge, but in vain.

Maj. Gerald Brandt, commandant at Crissey Field, from which numerous planes went out on the search Saturday, said that hope of finding Woodruff and Miss Heynemann alive has been given up.

England Flayed by MacDonald on Arms Stand

BIRMINGHAM (Eng.) Sept. 30. (AP)—The Conservative government was accused of having put obstacles in the way of disarmament by Ramsay MacDonald this afternoon at a large assembly which met as a prelude to the Labor party conference here tomorrow.

MacDonald, home from Canada completely recovered in health, told his auditors the United States should have been brought into the naval negotiations with France. He said he had prepared a long statement for delivery at the conference on Tuesday, which will be moved as a resolution. It calls for "drastic reductions in all forms of armaments by international agreement."

Cornelius of "Musketeers" Laid to Rest

FORT SMITH (Ark.) Sept. 30. (AP) Lieut. William Lewers Cornelius, second of the "Three Musketeers" of the United States Army Air Service to die recently in line of duty, was buried in the National Cemetery here with full military honors today.

The body arrived early this morning from Antlers, Okla., where Cornelius's relatives live. It was accompanied by a guard selected from the Antlers American Legion post and Lieut. Irving Woodring of Enid, Okla., last surviving member of the famous trio.

Lieut. Cornelius was killed at San Diego, Cal., last Tuesday, when his plane collided with another plane in the air.

The first of the three flyers to be killed was Lieut. Williams of Seattle, who crashed in the recent National Air Races at Los Angeles.

Jurist Dies in Traffic Smash

MONTEREY, Sept. 30. (Exclusive) Judge Treat, for many years a prominent figure in the public and legal life of Monterey county and Superior Court judge in Salinas for four years, was killed late last night and his wife critically injured when their automobile overturned eight miles from here in a three-cornered automobile crash.

As a result of the accident John Stoer Hampel, 35 years of age, Oakland, assistant field representative of the Travelers' Insurance Company of San Francisco, is in the City Jail here charged with being a hit-and-run driver and failing to give aid to an injured person.

Miss Earhart Forced Down in Utah Flight

SOLID SOUTH CRUMBLING

G.O.P. Surveys Nine States

Intensive Republican Flank Move Consternating to Smith Forces

Col. Mann, Head of Southern Work, Reports Sweeping Hoover Support

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—For the first time in history the Republican leaders believe that Hoover and Curtis will win electoral votes in the so-called solid South. Never has such an intensive flank movement been attempted by the Republican managers. Until now the work has been quietly and effectively carried on by Col. Horace A. Mann who has been in charge of the southern region made up of nine States—North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana. In a report made today to Chairman Hubert Work of the Republican National Committee, Mann reports that organization is completed in all of these States and in spite of a lack of support from the hostile Democratic press the Republican ticket has a chance to gain at least some of the ninety-eight electoral votes that heretofore have been conceded to the Democratic party.

"Were the election to be held tomorrow, it is my opinion that Mr. Hoover would be given an overwhelming majority of these ninety-eight votes," Mr. Mann asserts in his report.

HOLD TO HOOVER IDEALS

"I need not assure you that the campaign in the southern States under my direction has been conducted in full accord, both as to spirit and letter, with Mr. Hoover's high ideals. We have attempted to follow in the path he has pointed out. We believe we have done so.

"It has come about, despite an unfair press, that through our public speakers, southern people are becoming conversant with the issues of the campaign. There is no State in the South where this is not the case. There has come a sweep toward our candidate of those who yesterday were our political opponents. This movement has reached [illegible] and that it will result on election day in our not only obtaining electoral votes from the South but a majority of all the votes the South will cast.

"Many thousands of Hoover clubs have been formed in the nine States. The Democrats themselves have organized thousands of such clubs and are continuing to do so.

"Upon taking over the work here, I found our political organizations at a low ebb in many sections of the South. We have taken counsel from our new-found friends in strengthening these organizations. In some States the majority of the electors pledged to our candidate are from the ranks of those who have long opposed us. In one State the entire electoral ticket is made up of Democrats.

QUOTES REPORTS

"As an evidence of the change in sentiment in the South today, I quote brief extracts from telegrams received from the campaign managers in the southern division.

"North Carolina—The following from Stuart W. Cramer, chairman of the Republican State finance committee, Charlotte: 'July in North Carolina was the month of speculation and claims. August was the month of taking stock and the formative stage in organization. September ushered in hard organization work and a speaking campaign by both local and national speakers gradually tending toward increasing bitterness, especially between the Smith Democrats and the anti-Smith Democrats. [illegible] The result has been the shaking

G.O.P. ASKS FOR FUNDS

Million Donors Now Sought

Dollar or More Will Be Accepted to Finance Campaign Cost

Hoover Approves Plan to Spread Contributions Over Whole Nation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. (AP)—Herbert Hoover indorsed today a nation-wide program for spreading the cost of the Republican campaign over 1,000,000 contributors, or ten times the 1924 total of donors.

With the Presidential nominee's specific approval, J. R. Nutt, Republican National Committee treasurer, after a conference with Dr. Hubert Work, the national chairman, launched a project for establishing a "new basis for nation-wide participating in financing a Presidential campaign," by the organization of the Hoover-Curtis legion in every State with the slogan, "One Million Contributors."

HOOVER INDORSES

"Campaign contributors should not be limited to the few," Hoover declared in a statement indorsing the plan. "I believe there should be the widest participation in raising the necessary expenses of the campaign.

"Every Presidential campaign is an important educational period in national issues. It is the duty of political parties to present their views and the issues to the public. This involves a legitimate expenditure of money, all of which is publicly accounted for. Therefore, all those who are interested in the issues and the Republican party should assist the committee in this work."

"DOLLAR OR MORE"

Nutt pointed out that while only 20,604 persons contributed to the Coolidge campaign fund, 15,725,016 votes were cast for him in 1924 and "we are asking that one in fifteen of these voters join the Hoover-Curtis legion and con[illegible]

[illegible] to the women as [illegible] up this organization of 1,000,000 givers."

Mr. Hoover left campaign worries at his personal headquarters today while he worshiped and rested in his customary quiet manner.

Unmindful of the reverberations of his flat repudiation of the injection of religion into his campaign for the Presidency, the Republican candidate attended church at the Quaker meeting-house on I street, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, their son, Allan, and a neighbor, Mrs. Charles Walcott. He spent virtually the entire afternoon in the peace of his S-street home.

GENERAL DENIAL

Having twice denounced in unmistakable terms an appeal sent to women Republican workers in Virginia over the signature of Mrs. Willie W. Caldwell, national committeewoman for that State, for funds to aid in saving the United States from being "Romanized," the nominee turned from that subject toward his next personal step in the campaign. His denunciation of the use of the religious issue was coupled with a repudiation by Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee, of such tactics, and a denial by Mrs. Caldwell she had used such a term in dictating the letters sent out.

The candidate will leave Washington on Friday night to carry his campaign into the Eastern Tennessee mountains where, at Elizabethton, he will speak on Saturday afternoon at an industrial and historical celebration. His speech for that occasion, already virtually completed, will be as nearly non-partisan as a President candidate could deliver in the heat of a campaign.

Radio Communication Dispels Doldrums Resulting From Rains and Uneventful Sailing

ON BOARD THE AMERICAN BARQUE CITY OF NEW YORK, FLAGSHIP OF COMMANDER BYRD'S ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Out in the Pacific gradually drawing near the equator, we find ourselves caught in the doldrums with equinoctial rains and squalls certainly not helping the progress of this old windjammer.

Since leaving Panama other than the sight of an occasional battle between sawfish and schools of porpoises, there has been little local excitement.

We have had, however, little opportunity for any serious loneliness, thanks to our hard-working radio men, Berkner, Grenlie and Petersen, and to the co-operation they are evidently receiving from the radio department of the New York Times and from other stations.

FRUITFUL YEAR IN SOUTHWEST

Business Survey Discloses General Prosperity

Railroad Finds Conditions Extremely Favorable

Good Crops and Markets Do Much for Region

TOPEKA (Kan.) Sept. 30. (AP)—The Southwest will count 1928 as one of its best years, maybe the best, the agricultural development department of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway said in a summary of agricultural and business conditions for the territory issued today.

"Certainly this territory is more prosperous now than it has been at any time since the World War, and conditions are more stable than they were during 1918-1919, when prices climbed skyward steadily, and trading reached the peak," the report said.

"The reasons assigned for the favorable outlook are good crops, dependable markets and a desire on the part of the public for those things which make for better living—a desire sustained by the wherewith to gratify it."

The survey covers twelve States served by the Santa Fe, namely: Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Mississippi, Iowa and Illinois.

MURDER NOW THEORY FOR MEAD DEATH

Coroner and Chemist Add New Facts in Mystery Shooting at Santa Cruz

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 30 (Exclusive)—Developments came in rapid succession today to heighten interest in the death of Mrs. Cora Mead, big-game huntress, whose body was found in the kitchen of a poultry ranch house last Wednesday night after her screams for help had been heard over a telephone wire.

Coroner Congdon announced he had established that the explosive bullet which blew off the top of Mrs. Mead's head did not enter the roof of the mouth and that the weapon was fired from some other position than in front of her.

J. H. Boden, chemist, reported to Sheriff Sinnott that the hair found clutched in the hand of the dead woman is not her own, as first believed, but is like that of L. A. Thornewill, former member of the Canadian Mounted Police, infatuation for whom led her to desert her husband, millionaire bicycle manufacturer of Chicago.

Thornewill has engaged the services of Harry I. Stafford, attorney of San Francisco, to represent him. Taken into custody Saturday, Thornewill is being held pending investigation.

Sheriff Sinnott, Coroner Congdon and other officials say that the trend of the probe is beginning to indicate strongly that Mrs. Mead was not a suicide, as at first thought, but was murdered.

The fact that the death weapon was fired from some other position than in front of the woman, according to Sheriff Sinnott, weakens the suicide and strengthens the murder theory.

FARMER IN KIDNAPING CONFESSES

Illinois Suspect Admits Holding Ranieri Boy on Orders From Abductors

CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (AP)—The owner of the "kidnap farm," where Billy Ranieri was held prisoner for ransom, has confessed he held the boy under orders from abductors who demanded $60,000 ransom, police learned today.

Andrew Cappallano, farmer of Bourbonnais, Ill., where the 10-year-old boy was held thirteen days, admitted his part in the affair, police said, after his arrest in Herrin, Ill., last night. His wife and four of his ten children were found in Herrin today. All were held awaiting arrival of Chicago police.

Cappallano, found at the home of his brother Frank, at first insisted he had not fled from his farm, fearing capture by police.

"Yes, I kept the boy," he said after declaring he had left the farm due to a sudden impulse to see his brother. "Yes, I knew he was kidnaped and I knew they were trying to get money for him."

Then Cappallano refused to answer further questions. He denied, however, that other children at his farm were victims of extortionists, asserting they are his own. Police said ten children were at the farm when Billy Ranieri was held there.

Billy tomorrow will see Tony Cappallano, nephew of the "kidnap farm" owner, who was arrested as a suspect. Police believe he may have been the driver of the car in which the boy was kidnaped.

Robbers Make Rich Gold Haul

The robbery was discovered this morning when a day watchman went to the plant and found the two night watchmen blindfolded and handcuffed together.

While in Panama, the flagship was the main attraction throughout the entire Canal Zone, and the hospitality extended to the crew was a delightful surprise.

At Colon, Capt. Melville was the guest of honor at a dinner which the President of Panama and other notables extended him. Capt. Melville was also feted by many of his old friends among the officials of the United Fruit Company and was the recipient for his hospital of 500 stems of gross michel bananas in various stages of ripeness, besides a larger quantity of other local fruits.

Here the United States steamship City of New York sent its first consignment of mail back to the United States, each piece of letter post bearing the special postmark of the Byrd Antarctic expedition. So much interest was aroused among the local populace that the postal force, consisting of the captain and the doctor, worked until the early hours of the morning stamping and sorting the hundreds of souvenir letters.

During our passage through the canal we knew we would be royally received at the Panama city entrance for a seaplane alighted near the ship on Gatun Lake and after ascertaining that Sergt. Csegka was aboard sped away with the promise of big things ahead.

CREW TAKEN IN HAND

At Balboa, the crew was individually and collectively taken in hand by several clubs, organizations and by private individuals and received a degree of hospitality that warmed our hearts. Hotels and stores were opened for us alone and we were entertained as the heroes of the day. The enthusiasm being due largely to the fact that three of their own boys would go with us.

The swarm of well-wishing friends visiting the ship reminded one of the last days when we sailed from New York. In return Dick Konter, Sverrestrom and others entertained the citizens of Balboa with ukulele and accordion and the writer made an appearance with his Irish harp.

In short, we spent very busy days and very enjoyable evenings in Panama and left with a feeling of real affection toward the kind friends who helped make our canal transit a delightful interim in our long voyage.

The oldest and heaviest member of the expedition, John Jacobson, the sail maker, is receiving congratulations today, this being his sixtieth birthday.

SUIT-CASE HUNT OPENS IN NORTH

Northcott's Baggage Sought by Canadian Police

Flashlight Used at Death of Boy Reported Found

Traveling Bags Believed to Contain Evidence

BY JAMES M. KENDRICK
"Times" Staff Representative

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Sept. 30.—Two additional suit cases asserted to have been abandoned by Gordon Stewart Northcott in his flight through Canada were the object of a search through an isolated canyon between Vancouver and Okanagan Landing by provincial police today.

According to information received by Inspector Criuckshank, the suit cases were hidden by Northcott two days before his arrest at Okanagan Landing on charges returned in Riverside, Cal., accusing him of four murders at his Wineville chicken farm.

Search for the missing suit cases was spurred when Riverside officers here to return Northcott to California, declared a flashlight used to illuminate the scene when Walter Collins was asserted to have been slain was found in one of the two suit cases turned over to the Riverside authorities by provincial police last night.

FOUND COVERED

The two recovered were found hidden in a Burnaby cemetery, five miles from Vancouver. They apparently had been covered hastily with dirt. The mound was found by the cemetery keeper.

Information of the missing suit case was obtained when police were investigating Northcott's story that he attemped a suicide hoax during his flight. Two days before his arrest he visited the canyon, Canadian authorities learned, and drove his automobile to the edge of a steep cliff overlooking a deep stream. At the same time he scattered some of his belongings about the scene of the supposed suicide leap.

A search of the scene had failed to verify his hoax story, Inspector Cruickshank said, but has heightened police belief that he discarded the two missing suit cases there.

Northcott carried seven grips on arrival in Vancouver, Riverside authorities said they were informed, and he discarded two at the Burnaby cemetery and arrived at Okanagan Landing with only three.

BOY'S CAP FOUND

A boy's cap with the lining and all identification marks torn from it is being rushed to Sheriff Sweeters at Riverside in an effort to have it identified as belonging to either Louis or Nelson Winslow, of whose slaying Northcott also is accused.

Canned food and camping equipment in the two grips inspected last night indicate, police said, that the youth intended to hide in some isolated section of the province.

Investigators Quinn and Kelley of Riverside say they have positive proof that the flashlight is the one referred to by Sanford Clark, Northcott's nephew, whose story, corroborated by his sister, Jessie Clark, opened the so-called murder farm investigation.

The California authorities also declare that five sheets of stationery found in one of the recovered cases is identical with the paper on which a note was written by one of the Winslow boys to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. N. Winslow of Pomona. The letter was posted at Corona several days after the two boys disappeared on May 18, last.

EXTRADITION PLANS

Frank Lyons, representing young Northcott, who is held in Oakalla prison, announced today that he will request the attorney for Mrs. Louise Northcott to ask her voluntarily to return to Vancouver and have a joint extradition hearing with her son.

Mrs. Northcott, who is charged with complicity in the asserted death of the Collins boy, is held in the Calgary jail, and is scheduled to appear in court there tomorrow morning for a hearing on the warrant under which she is held.

Riverside authorities declared the arrangement would please them and that if she agrees to it, they will allow her a one-hour conference with her son out of hearing of any officer.

Lyons also indicated that he will confer with the Riverside officials tomorrow.

Although he refused to say what the conference will concern it is believed the waiving of extradition will be the topic.

Mrs. Winifred Clark, mother of Jessie and Sanford, failed to appear as scheduled last night and has been indefinitely delayed, California police said they learned.

Mrs. Clark's visit to Vancouver, they said, was reported to them from Calgary to be for the purpose of raising funds to aid her mother and brother in their California trial in case they are returned. Mrs. Clark has been living near her mother in Calgary but has not visited her, police are informed.

Northcott, California police stated, had only $89 at the time of his arrest and his mother's funds were reported "very low."

According to California authorities Mrs. Northcott will have to return to California before certain matters pertaining to the Wineville ranch can be straightened out in order to sell the place. The ranch, the Riverside officers said, is valued at $5500.

COUNTY GRAND JURY WILL RECEIVE EVIDENCE

Evidence seeking the indictment of Gordon Stewart Northcott for the murder of the unidentified Mexican youth whose decapitated body was found on the road near Puente will be laid before the Los Angeles county grand jury Wednesday, it was announced yesterday.

Evidence gathered by deputy sheriffs under Capt. Bright, chief of the homicide detail, will be presented.

The Los Angeles action will be purely a precautionary move, Deputy District-Attorney Thoms, head of the homicide department, said yesterday in admitting the planned procedure.

"We have an excellent case against Northcott but will not endeavor to take the case from the hands of the Riverside authorities who have already indicted him," Thoms said.

Thoms, with Deputy District-Attorney Menzies and Capt. Bright, will confer with Dist.-Atty. Ford of Riverside on the matter but the conference today is not expected to influence the present plan of the local authorities.

Dist.-Atty. Ford today will forward the extradition papers for Northcott and his mother, Mrs. Louisa Northcott, to Gov. Young for his approval. They then will be rushed to Washington and then to Investigators Quinn and Kelly in Vancouver.

Announcement that two more pieces of a skull bone have been found in evidence found by officers in a pile of lime and ashes across the road from the Northcott ranch, was made yesterday by J. Clark Sellers, criminologist retained by the Riverside authorities.

The criminologist will go to Riverside today or tomorrow to confer with Dist.-Atty. Ford and lay before him the results of the investigation to date.

Curry Directs Fire at Raskob Over Malone

ALBANY (Or.) Sept. 30. (AP)—George Law Curry, Jr., Oregon delegate to the Democratic National Convention, who startled the State prior to the Democratic National Convention by announcing he would not vote for Al Smith at Houston, last night mailed a letter to W. C. Culbertson, State Democratic committeeman, assailing National Chairman Raskob for sending Dudley Field Malone to campaign in Oregon, and scoring Culbertson for permitting the move.

Curry's letter brands Dudley Field Malone as a virtual traitor to his party and denounces the party leaders for selecting to tell Oregon Democrats how to vote a "man whose malicious and personally insulting attacks on President Wilson during the World War are yet fresh in the minds of the Wilson Democrats of Oregon."

Get a flying start on 1929

Flying fingers write the hours. Days, weeks, months skim quickly past. The year is nearly gone. To many this must be a regret rather than a spur.

To others who have been striding forward to success it is the challenge of opportunity. They see in the last quarter of this year—three months in which to get a flying start for the year to come. More than 34 thousand of these far-sighted people this year chose Pacific States Savings to safeguard their savings. This choice was not one of chance. They investigated Pacific States Savings and learned its long and splendid record of stability. They measured its financial strength, analyzed the outstanding factors of safety it provides for its savers' protection—and finding this institution, in every phase, all that the cautious saver could wish for, they have placed their funds here to grow safely and rapidly through 6% compounded.

WRITER GRANTS OUTH TO SMITH

rth Carolina and Florida Given to Governor

nessee and Kentucky in Hoover Column

ie for G.O.P., But Can't So Vote, Henning Says

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Sept. 29. (Exclusive)—I am concluding a survey of the political situation in the South with the feeling Gov. Smith will not likely to lose any State in the region which never has given a electoral vote to a Republican candidate for President since the days of reconstruction.

Although the twin issues of prohibition and religion have split the Democratic party throughout Dixie, North Carolina and Florida are the only States consistently Democratic since reconstruction that Mr. Hoover stands a reasonable chance of winning. They are unquestionably doubtful States at this time and probably will remain so right up to election day, but I think the chances are Smith will pull through in both.

The two other doubtful Southern States are Tennessee, which Hardin carried in 1920, and Kentucky, which went Republican in 1896 and again in 1924. These States, I believe, are more likely to be carried by Hoover than by Smith. They are close States at best and in each there's a strong Republican party which in this election will be bolstered by a considerable proportion of the Democratic party. Then, too, in these two States there are no franchise restrictions such as operate in other Southern States to hold down the insurgent Democratic vote.

CARRY ALL STATES

Such is the extent of the Democratic disaffection in the South that the voters in that region were to register their convictions and prejudices fully and freely, Mr. Hoover would be likely, in my opinion, to carry every State south of the Potomac.

If Smith is elected on November 6 it will be for the South a case of chickens coming home to roost with a vengeance. The churchmen, the women, the Anti-Saloon League, the W.C.T.U., the Ku Klux Klan, and other elements of the southern opposition to Smith will realize how they tied their own hands by the franchise restrictions and electoral regulations adopted to eliminate negroes from a voice in government. With the disfranchisement of the negroes, who virtually constitute the Republican party in the South, the general election became merely a formal Democratic ratification of the results of the white man's primary and only a fraction of the Democrats have taken sufficient interest in the general election to qualify to vote therein. Now, tens of thousands of Democrats who would vote for Hoover find themselves barred from the ballot box by the ingenious regulations devised to prevent the negroes from voting.

OUR REPRESENTATION

Furthermore, by virtue of the enforcement of the Fourteenth Amendment to penalize abridgement of the franchise, the southern States have approximately sixty more Representatives and therefore sixty more electoral votes than they would have were this constitutional amendment to be observed with the fidelity demanded by the southern drys for the Eighteenth Amendment. But if there is any subject that rouses the southern drys to greater fury than a suggestion of nullifying or modifying the Eighteenth Amendment it is the demand now and then voiced in the North for enforcement of the Fourteenth Amendment by reducing southern representation in the House at Washington in the proportion that the southerners have reduced their qualified electorate by the disfranchisement of the negro.

Were the Fourteenth Amendment observed there would be sixty fewer electoral votes in the Solid South today and the dry anti-Catholic South would not be shuddering at the possibility of the election of the New York Governor. Without those sixty votes Smith would not have a Chinaman's chance.

LITTLE TAMMANIES

Also in the interest of maintaining white supremacy, the southerners who are now holding up their hands in holy horror at the iniquities of Tammany, have condoned, aided and abetted for a generation the development of little Tammanies in southern States which are past masters in intimidating voters, manipulating election results and otherwise ruling by right of the strong arm. In most of the southern States these little Tammanies and the election machinery are in the hands of the regular Democrats loyal to Smith, a circumstance which I found the anti-Smith Democrats everywhere viewing with the utmost alarm.

Likewise, the anti-Smith Democrats find the tables turned on themselves by their share in the sedulous cultivation of prejudice against the Republican party as a menace to the perpetuation of white supremacy, as a result of which it became a disgrace in the South to be known as a Republican. So strong is this feeling in Dixie that tens of thousands of Democrats who are opposed to Smith, but unable to bring themselves to vote the Republican ticket will either vote regular or remain away from the polls altogether.

To the South, which is overwhelmingly Protestant and strongly prejudiced against Catholics, which is overwhelmingly anglo-Saxon and strongly prejudiced against foreigners, the nomination of Smith and his subsequent acts are like repeated blows in the face. To nominate Smith, a wet Catholic who proceeded to attract prohibition and advocate lowering the immigration bars to aliens, was bad enough from the southern point of view, but to appoint John J. Raskob, who stands high in the Catholic church, is an official of the association against the prohibition amendment and a representative of the "newer immigration," to manage the Smith campaign was adding insult to injury.

Under the present immigration restriction law, which limits the number of Europeans admitted to 2 per cent of their number domiciled in this country in 1890, European immigration is now 158,000 annually. Gov. Smith has indicated that he woul use the 1920 European-born population as a basis in which event, if the 2 per cent limitation were retained, approximately 250,000 would be admitted and the character of the immigration would be materially altered. Fewer British, Germans and Scandinavians would be admitted but vastly more Italians and other Mediterranean Europeans.

THIS ISSUE STIRS

Next to religion and prohibition, the immigration issue stirs through most deeply. Much of the literature disseminated by the anti-Smith Democrats dwells on the theme that if Smith is elected the bars will be lowered to a horde of undesirable aliens.

As to the negro issue few intelligent southerners really believe that negro domination will be revived even if Hoover were to carry the entire Solid South.

From the ranks of the regulars the anti-Smith Democrats are painting Smith a "negro lover" as Judge Locke phrases it and dwelling on racial equality in New York and the support of Smith by the negro voters in Harlem.

"HAPPY WARRIOR" WEEPY

"Whimpering Campaign" Charged to Smith by Allen as Result of Midwest Tour

CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Henry J. Allen, director of publicity of the Republican National Committee, referred today to Gov. Smith's campaign for the Presidency as a "whimpering campaign."

"Every speech Gov. Smith made on his western trip," declared Allen, "left us wondering why they called him the 'Happy Warrior.' He was unhappy about something everywhere he spoke. At Oklahoma City Gov. Smith denounced the whispering campaign and substituted a whimpering campaign.

"At every place he whined as no happy warrior should have done, appealing to sympathy against 'attacks' which he did not locate very definitely. He recorded all opposition to himself as hostility.

"At no point did he rise above the level of commonplace. His speeches had the quality of those of an ordinary politician who might have been campaigning for a local office.

"The result of such a campaign was exactly what any man acquainted with the Midwest could have foretold. There is probably no section of the country where a man is submitted to so severe a test as in the agricultural Midwest. These people take their Presidential candidate seriously.

"Of any candidate for the Presidency they expect dignity, logic, tolerance and a broad discussion of national issues. He left us with the impression of having been overclever and under-candid."

SMITH HEADED FOR NEW YORK

Next Stop at Rochester State Convention

Then He Goes to Albany for Rest of Week

Governor Believes Trip Has Aided Cause

GOV. SMITH'S TRAIN, EN ROUTE TO ROCHESTER, N. Y., CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (AP) — Convinced that his first stumping tour has netted him votes, Gov. Smith is headed toward home tonight, with only a stop-over at Rochester for the New York Democratic State convention between him and a few days' rest in the seclusion of the executive mansion in Albany.

The Presidential nominee of the Democrats said good-by this afternoon to Milwaukee, where last night he ripped into prohibition and called for modification of the Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead Act on a State's right basis.

TRAIN HEADS EAST

Before sun-down his long special train on the next to last lap of a 6000-mile journey, moved through the railroad yards in Chicago and pointed its nose toward the East.

Less than a half-dozen stops, all for train-operating purposes, were on the schedule before arrival tomorrow morning in Rochester, when Gov. Smith will start conferences with Democratic leaders, chiefly with a view to shaping up the State ticket, and tomorrow night will address the convention. He said today he will discuss the political situation in his home State, and discuss his "record."

No decision as to where he will speak on his next campaign trip, he said, will be made until after he returns home. He has no intention, however, of taking to the road again before next week.

RESULTS OF TRIP

Asked what he thought he had accomplished on the tour, just ending, which carried him into the West for six speeches, Smith summed up his views this way:

"In the first place, I think I have brought home to the people all the issues that I spoke about. I think I gave them some pretty good plain talks on the things that were brought up in the course of the two weeks' travel and I am satisfied that it was very effective. I judge this by the large number of telegrams that keep following the train and by what I hear from the people who listen in on the radio.

"I think the people of this country are fed up on set speeches with meaningless phrases in them. It is an innovation to them to talk right out, talk plainly and give them, as I put it at St. Paul, the 'low down' on the situation. They never get that in set speeches."

The Governor was asked to comment on the statement in Lincoln, Neb., of Senator Borah, in which the Idaho Republican said that as Governor of New York, Smith was under as much of an obligation to enforce the prohibition law as he would be if elected President, but the nominee's only observation was: "The Senator does not know anything at all about the conditions in New York."

Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, one of the Governor's closest friends, joined him in Milwaukee, for the trip to the Rochester convention.

Senator Wagner, who had been campaigning for two weeks in Wisconsin, assured the nominee he will have no difficulty in sweeping the State. He predicted that nearly all the independent Republicans in the State, aligned with the La Follette faction, will support him, and said he had found he was particularly strong in the rural sections of Northwestern Wisconsin.

The Governor and his family attended high mass in the morning at St. John's Cathedral in Milwaukee, where Rev. Father Francis J. Murphy had taken for the text of his sermon, "Religious Intolerance." He paid tribute to the distinguished visitor to the church and expressed the appreciation of the congregation for the Governor's attendance.

BORAH ON AIR THIS EVENING

Idaho Senator to Address Monster G.O.P. Rally at Minneapolis

One of the most important speeches of the Presidential campaign will reach Los Angeles tonight over the air when Senator Borah of Idaho addresses a monster Republican gathering in Minneapolis. The speech will be broadcast over KFI between 6 and 7 o'clock, Los Angeles time.

Senator Borah for many years has been one of the outstanding orators at Washington. During the campaign he has been scheduled to address only four important Republican rallies in the East and the Middle West.

ROBINSON'S TALK TOUR ANNOUNCED

Democratic Candidate to Make 33 Speeches in 34 Days All Over Nation

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. (AP)—A program of thirty-three speeches in thirty-four days covering the country from Ohio to California and from Minnesota to New Mexico was announced today by the Democratic National Speakers' Bureau for Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic Vice-Presidential nominee.

Senator Robinson will speak every week day but two from tomorrow to November 3, inclusive, with seven addresses scheduled for the last six days.

His itinerary will take him to Los Angeles October 10.

CURTIS AT HOME FOR BRIEF REST

Warning Given by Physician on Danger to Voice

Week's Program to Stand as Mapped, However

Departure for Chicago Set for This Evening

TOPEKA (Kan.) Sept. 30. (AP)—Returing home today from an arduous campaign tour of the West, Senator Curtis, the Republican Vice-Presidential nominee, was ordered by his physician to give his voice an immediate rest lest the remainder of his contemplated campaign be endangered.

Nevertheless, the Senator announced he will go ahead with the program mapped out for him this week, and tomorrow night he plans to leave Topeka for Chicago where he speaks on Wednesday night. He will remain in Chicago during the week, going to Gary on Friday on a short trip into Northern Indiana.

The party's speakers' bureau had hoped to have Senator Curtis go back into the Northwest next week on a trip leading through Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin, but definite arrangements for this are being held up by the nominee pending a rest and conferences in Chicago this week.

SENATOR BATTLE WORN

Senator Curtis showed the effects of his intensive two weeks of campaigning in the West as he left his private car here shortly after dawn to go to his home. A badly mashed finger forced him to carry his right hand in a sling. A worn-out voice forced him to keep the throat under wrap of a heavy muffler, but he was smiling the old smile to the few friends he met on his early ride through the city.

In fifteen days on this trip the Vice-Presidential nominee spoke in thirteen States. He spoke from two to fourteen times a day and spent every night on the train. It was perhaps as strenuous a campaign as has been undertaken by any national candidate in recent times.

TIRED BUT HAPPY

"I am tired but happy too," Curtis said upon his arrival here.

"The enthusiasm and attendance at all the meetings has been surprising and pleasing. There can be no doubt of the interest in this campaign and of the activity of the women as well as the men. The West is safe."

Going to the old family home where a sister, Mrs. Rome Colvin, and her husband reside, Curtis immediately called in a physician and devoted the morning to an examination by him. The Vice-Presidential nominee was pronounced physically fit except for the voice and finger and the doctor believed both will respond rapidly to treatment during the week.

Throughout the day hosts of friends called at the family residence on Topeka avenue and the Senator seemed to get the relaxation looked for in meeting the many callers.

In the kind of carbon they form you see a vital difference in oils

Carbon deposited by ordinary oil is hard, flinty. It will tear paper; it will scratch brass—wear away steel

The carbon that Shell Motor Oil forms—1/3 to 1/5 as much as even the most expensive oils—is soft, soot-like. Most of it blows away through the exhaust

Motors that miss, knock, lose power. Clogged with carbon from burned lubricating oils—oils that would be satisfactory lubricants except for this tendency to form hard carbon.

In fact, the vital difference in oils today is in the carbon they form.

How much? What kind?

Carbon is deposited by ordinary oils in flint-like layers. Abrasive bits chip off and grind through bearings. Larger particles hold valves open, the stems burn, power is wasted.

Shell Motor Oil forms only 1/3 to 1/5 as much carbon as even the costliest oil you can buy! And that little is soft, sooty—blows away through the exhaust.

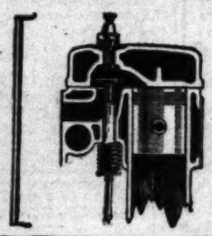
The secret is in new Shell methods. So carefully is this oil refined that none of its sturdy lubricant body is lost. It will withstand heat that would ruin ordinary oil.

And while Shell Motor Oil is giving you finer lubrication it is saving the destructive damage of carbon—actually adding thousands of miles to the life of your car!

Remember these facts when you buy oil next.

SHELL MOTOR OIL

Shell 400, the new "dry" gas that explodes cleanly and keeps out of the crankcase, is the ideal running mate for Shell Motor Oil. Even Shell Motor Oil can be ruined by "thinning" with a "wet" gas



To owners of newer models

Today's high compression motors have as little as 1/32 inch "clearance." Even a thin layer of hard carbon causes trouble. Shell Motor Oil, forming less carbon, soft carbon, is almost an essential to proper performance of such motors

Congo green is here in this and other smart shapes.

Congo Green—the new Stetson Hat Color

WOMEN TO OPEN FIGHT ON SMITH

Campaign in New York and New Jersey Planned

National Party Outlines Its Drive for Votes

Speakers to Talk from All Points of Vantage

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—The National Woman's party will carry its campaign for Hoover and Curtis on the equal rights issue into Gov. Smith's stronghold, New York City, according to an announcement today by Miss Maud Younger, in charge of the election activities of the party. With headquarters in New York City, the women's party will concentrate its campaign in New York and New Jersey, as two pivotal States which may decide the outcome of the election. The campaign will open, Miss Younger states, on October 9, next, with a campaign conference of members of the national council and officers of the New York and New Jersey branches of the National Woman's party in New York City. On that date headquarters will be established at 14 Fifth avenue. Miss Mabel Vernon, national executive secretary, will go from Washington to take direction of the work at the campaign headquarters. Mrs. Clarence Smith of New York City, national chairman, and Mrs. Lidbet Whittie of Syracuse, N. Y., State chairman, will lead the campaign in New York and Miss Leila Enders of Ridgefield Park, chairman of the New Jersey branch, New Jersey.

According to Miss Younger's announcement meetings of every kind will be held—at balls, drawing-rooms and on street corners. Many of the speakers and workers will be experienced campaigners who won their laurels in the suffrage fight.

PARIS HOTEL— IT'S THE CATS'

Felines of Furred Variety Catered to by Newest Boarding-house

PARIS, Sept. 30. (AP)—The cats' boarding-house solves the problem of many Parisians who don't know what to do with the household pet when they take the month's vacation which every Frenchman regards as a birthright.

For 4 francs (16 cents) a day Mme. Blanche takes four-footed boarders, making a living at her favorite occupation of handling cats. She likes them and they seem to enjoy her company.

Her business isn't big yet but news of her institution is spreading, and just now her apartment is full of all kinds of cats, Angoras, Siamese and the alley variety.

OWEN YOUNG LIKES SMITH AS "LIBERAL"

General Electric Leader Declares Governor Does as Citizenry Directs

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. (AP)—Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of directors of the General Electric Company, in a statement made public today by Chairman Raskob of the Democratic National Committee, said he is supporting Gov. Smith because he is a "liberal in the truest sense and . . . I think it would be helpful to put the liberal party in power."

"I am supporting Gov. Smith," the statement said, "because he is a Democrat and a liberal in the truest sense. He believes in the intelligence and the honesty of the masses of the people, so much so indeed that they are always his court of last resort, not only when an election is on and he is a candidate for office, but every time a great issue arises he naturally goes to the people themselves for guidance and support. . . .

"I am supporting Gov. Smith because I think it would be helpful to put the liberal party in power. . . . The conservative party cannot help being the party of the people who have; it cannot help for the same reason being somewhat insulated from the people who have less."

SHE'S NO LONGER "BEARDED" LADY

Indiana Woman Coughs up Wheat "Whisker" After Many Years

BICKNELL (Ind.) Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—For twenty-eight years Mrs. John W. Bicknell had been troubled with severe pains in her throat and bad coughing spells which physicians were unable to relieve.

Westerday she had a hard coughing spell, causing a severe pain in her throat, which suddenly ceased. She found she had coughed up a wheat beard about two inches long.

Twenty-eight years ago while riding, she swallowed what she thought was a horsehair. An attempt to dislodge the "hair" was futile and the incident was forgotten.

WIFE POISON VICTIM WHEN HER PLEAS FAIL

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Her attempt at reconciliation with her husband having failed, Mrs. Lillian Myers, 38 years of age, a nurse of Redding, swallowed poison in a hotel here yesterday, according to the police. She was declared to be in a critical condition at a local hospital. She had come here to visit her husband in hopes of ending their estrangement, police said.

SOLID SOUTH BREAKING UP

Republicans Gain Despite Unfriendly Press

Many Democrats Organizing Hoover Clubs

Workers Report Electors Being Won Over

out of weaklings and doubtful ones and the solidifying of all the elements opposing Smith. There is undoubtedly now more pro-Hoover sentiment than since the campaign opened.

" 'All factions are working especially hard on club, county and precinct organizations. The present outlook is for a Hoover majority of 5000 to 15,000. Democratic whispering, or rather wimpering, talk undoubtedly is hurting Smith. Attacks on Hoover personally by Democratic speakers and especially by Smith himself are helping Hoover. Fifteen thousand Hoover majority will be the result if Smith and his speakers continue these tactics.'

SMITH FORCES ALARMED

"Georgia—The following from George H. Hastings, chairman Hoover-Curtis campaign committee at Atlanta: 'In Georgia conditions distinctly favor Hoover at this time. The reactions from both Republican and anti-Smith Democratic activities have created consternation in the Smith-Georgia headquarters. For the first time in fifty years a real campaign is being waged for the Presidency.

" 'Experienced campaigners estimate North Georgia majority for Hoover at 25,000; South Georgia Hoover by 10,000 to 15,000; in Middle Georgia Smith has the edge slightly but not enough to overcome the Hoover lead in North and South Georgia.'

"Florida—The following from Glenn B. Skipper, Republican national committeeman, Miami: 'The Hoover campaign in Florida is steadily gaining strength.

" 'Campaign headquarters have been opened at Miami, Jacksonville, Pensacola, Orlando and Tampa. Hoover-for-President Democratic organizations are functioning throughout practically the entire State. Every county has been thoroughly organized except two, where the work is now in progress. There are now more than 250 Hoover clubs, mainly Democratic, throughout the State and more are being formed daily. The women's organizations also are working effectively for Mr. Hoover's election.

" 'I am in daily contact with all of these organizations. Florida's electoral vote, without question, will be cast for Hoover and Curtis. This, despite the fact that fully 90 per cent of the daily press of Florida is against us. The people of Florida, so far as the daily newspapers are concerned, hear only one side of the question. The weekly press, however, is about 90 per cent with us.'

WILL CARRY ALABAMA

"Alabama—The following from Joseph O. Thompson, chairman, Hoover-Curtis agricultural group, Montgomery: 'Hoover has steadily gained ground since July 1. As it stands today he will carry Alabama by a minimum of 25,000.

" 'Reports from all sections of the State show almost unbelievable situations. Some communities are almost solidly for Hoover and two towns have streamers stretched across Main street reading "This town 100 per cent for Hoover."'

"Mississippi—The following from Lamont Rowlands, chairman of the Hoover-Curtis campaign committee, Jackson: 'Fast growing sentiment for Hoover. The Republican organization is functioning in all counties. Chairmen organizing each county will hold group meetings contacting with Hoover Democrats. Hoover clubs expected to be organized in every precinct of Pearl River county, Gov. Bilbo's home county by Saturday.

LOUISIANA DOUBTFUL

"Louisiana: The following from O. A. Cotton, chairman, Hoover-Curtis campaign committee, New Orleans: 'Louisiana may well be placed in the doubtful column today and if sentiment continues to grow along with the completion of the organization work as it covers the State, Mr. Hoover may find the ten electoral votes of the State in his column.

CAMPAIGN INTENSE

"Tennessee: The following from Marion Richardson, Republican State campaign manager, Nashville: 'Our campaign has been under way in Tennessee for nearly one month. We have in this time endeavored to get an active organization started in each Congress District that would carry on down through the county organizations. This would mean effective precinct committees that will take care of the vote on election day.

" 'There is already an intense interest in this campaign. We believe conditions will improve for Mr. Hoover during the next thirty days.'

"Kentucky: The following from J. M. Robison, Republican State campaign manager, Louisville: 'Registration in sixty-six cities of Kentucky shows a commanding lead for Hoover. He is much stronger in the mountain regions and rural sections.

" 'We are confident that Hoover will carry Kentucky by not less than 50,000 majority. Sentiment for him is growing; he is much stronger now than in July.' "

Who is your choice for President—

SMITH OR HOOVER?

Well, anyway, that's your "business". My business is "clothing the men of Southern California", who help to elect the presidents.

And these said men like my 2 for 1 POLICY because of its "money-saving" tendencies.

They realize that it produces a volume that reduces the selling cost and profit on the first suit.

They realize that the second suit does not require any.

They also realize that the aforesaid volume cuts down the shop overhead.

They realize that there is a great saving when two suits are cut to the same measurements at the same time.

They realize that a great advertising advantage accrues from an offer like the 2 for 1.

Summarily, they cannot help but approve my great offer.

2 SUITS or SUIT and O'COAT for 1 PRICE

featuring 2 SUITS or O'COAT & SUIT for $34.50

featuring 2 SUITS or O'COAT & SUIT for $39.50

featuring 2 SUITS or O'COAT & SUIT for $44.50

featuring 2 SUITS or O'COAT & SUIT for $49.50

My stock of suitings will amaze you. I have SERGES, TWISTS, HERRINGBONES, HARD WORSTEDS, CASSIMERES and CHEVIOTS in rich colors. You'll also be pleased with my overcoat materials. My offer 2 garments for $34.50 and up, beats all.

JOFFRE REVEALS STORY OF MARNE

Pleaded With Gen. French to Join in Attack

British Leader Consents After Seeing Plans

Memoirs of Great Marshal Settle History

(Copyright, 1928, by Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, Sept. 30. — How Gen. Joffre motored to the British headquarters on the afternoon before the first battle of the Marne, opened and personally pleaded with Gen. French to participate in the offensive, is described in the veteran marshal's memoirs, soon to be published.

"I showed Gen. French my plans for all my armies massing to attack in the battle on which issue the entire war depended," writes Gen. Joffre. "I told him no one would understand why the English army watched such a struggle without taking part in the decisive operation. Then I appealed to Great Britain's honor, knowing it never was invoked in vain."

After Gen. Wilson had translated his speech—as Gen. Joffre did not speak English, and Gen. French did not speak French — the British commander extended his hand and said:

"I will do everything possible."

Gen. Joffre outlines how the swirling invasion of gray and green hosts of Germans swept over Belgium and France so fast they outstripped their communications and supplies. But here and there certain German armies encountered unexpected resistance, breaking up their alignment and leaving flanks in the air, which the French troops developed into open breaches.

The first check of Gen. Moltke's plan occurred on August 27, when the Duke of Wurtemburg's army suffered a sharp set-back along the Meuse from the fourth French army and the Duke was forced to call for assistance from Von Hausen's army on his right, which wheeled southward into Gen. Foch's troops.

Then the German extreme right, Von Kluck's first army, passed the Somme River when on the night of August 29 they received a radio from Von Buelow urging him to close up toward the left of the French fifth army, engaging in a fierce battle near Guise. Von Kluck immediately swerved toward Noyon Compiegne.

VON MOLTKE'S ORDER

Von Moltke then issued a fateful order by radio on the night of September 2:

"The intention of the supreme command is to cut off the French armies from Paris, driving them in the direction south. The first army will follow the second army in echelon, assuring protection of the flank."

"But on the first of September Von Kluck, having crossed the Oise, resumed contact south of Compiegne with the English, who immediately broke off the engagement," says Gen. Joffre. "Without bothering about the English, whom he believed hors du combat, Von Kluck turned southeast after Lanrezac's army, which German airplanes signaled was retreating toward the Marne between Dormans and Chateau Thierry. The same night Von Kluck's left reached the Marne at Chateau Thierry.

Von Buelow was held up before La Ferethen at Rheims, and scarcely was able to push forward to Vesle. He ordered a forced march to reach the Marne near Chatillon.

"Thus, when Moltke's radio ordered the first army to follow the second army in echelon to protect the flank, Von Kluck already was a day's march in advance of his neighbor, Von Buelow.

RUSH TOWARD TRAP

"Instead of being cautious and wary of the adversary, Von Kluck accentuated his disobedience next day by thrusting the weight of his forces toward Meaux and then started to march toward the Seine, hoping to destroy Lanrezac's army.

Thus, the German armies rushed toward a trap.

"But the Imperial General Staff saw the danger, and on the evening of September 4 Moltke radioed for the first and second armies to stand, facing east toward Paris, the first between Oise and the Marne and the second between the Marne and the Seine.

Von Kluck read the order the next morning with stupefaction. He ordered the arrest of the advance between the Oise and the Marne, whereas he had already nearly reached the Seine.

"Then Col. Hentsch arrived from the German headquarters, explaining that the enemy had escaped the enveloping attack and the region of Paris was a serious menace through the formation of new armies from the French reserves.

"Von Kluck hoped to have time to retire north of the Marne, but during the morning of September 5 received word the super enemy forces were thrusting him back.

SIGNAL FOR ATTACK

"On September 4 at 10 o'clock at night, I signed an order giving the signal for our attack on the morning of the 6th.

"One obscure point existed—the British army. Having suffered extremely during the retreat, Gen. French, conforming with orders from London, was reconstituting his forces.

"It required the French government to intervene with Kitchener to obtain instructions to keep the English forces in line. We wondered if Gen. French would consent to do battle beside the French armies.

"I only had such authority as the French cared to admit, and if the English continued to retire, our battle line, so difficultly formed, would be broken.

"I went to Gen. French's headquarters on the 5th of September and obtained Gen. French's adhesion to my plans.

"Assured that the entire Allied line was ready, I gave the signal to open the battle which was destined to become the greatest conflict in history."

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Dr. C. T. Guilfoyle, district veterinarian, is convinced that there may be a cross between a domestic cat and a skunk.

In a local household is a 2-months-old kitten carrying a striped black-and-white coat and a bushy tail, and with more than indication of a musky odor when the animal is irritated.

The hybrid has an attractive appearance, its coat, save for coloring, approximating that of its Angora mother.

California Ends Birth Blindness

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Blindness at birth has been virtually eliminated in California, it was revealed at the monthly meeting of the Governor's council.

No cases of congenital blindness have been reported to the State Board of Public Health in two years, said Dr. Walter M. Dickie, head of the board.

More than 25 per cent of all blindness in California was congenital as late as twenty-five years ago, it was learned from statistics furnished by Dr. Dickie.

Southland-Bay City Service Efficiency Cited

Report by Guggenheim Fund Sets Forth Showing

Data on Performance Sent to Utilities Commission

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—A record of operating efficiency made by the Western Air Express, Inc., was tabulated by the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics and submitted to the Public Utilities Commission as a portion of the report appearing late this summer.

An excerpt from the record states: "For the new passenger line between Los Angeles and San Francisco the Daniel Guggenheim Fund has provided three trimotored Fokker monoplanes.

"The service started May, 1928, after the three planes which are to make regular trips between the two California cities had completed a transcontinental tour. On their return to California, the planes took up their regular duty, the job of flying daily between Los Angeles and San Francisco, covering the distance in three hours.

"The fastest trains take better than twelve hours for the same journey. In a few months a complete report will be made and it is expected to show that aerial passenger transport has proven a success from every standpoint—comfort, time saving, and financially."

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—The Santa Fe system has been granted permission by the Railroad Commission to withdraw its agent at Arrowhead station, San Bernardino county, for lack of sufficient business to keep him occupied.

HYBRID CAN'T BE POPULAR

Angora-Skunk Cross Told by Arizona Veterinarian; No Apartment Pet

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Dr. C. T. Guilfoyle, district veterinarian, is convinced that there may be a cross between a domestic cat and a skunk.

In a local household is a 3-months-old kitten carrying a striped black-and-white coat and a bushy tail, and with more than indication of a musky odor when the animal is irritated.

The hybrid has an attractive appearance, its coat, save for coloring, approximating that of its Angora mother.

California Ends Birth Blindness

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Blindness at birth has been virtually eliminated in California, it was revealed at the monthly meeting of the Governor's council.

No cases of congenital blindness have been reported to the State Board of Public Health in two years, said Dr. Walter M. Dickie, head of the board.

More than 25 per cent of all blindness in California was congenital as late as twenty-five years ago, it was learned from statistics furnished by Dr. Dickie.

COAST AIRLINE IN NEW RECORD

Southland-Bay City Service Efficiency Cited

Report by Guggenheim Fund Sets Forth Showing

Data on Performance Sent to Utilities Commission

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—A record of operating efficiency made by the Western Air Express, Inc., was tabulated by the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics and submitted to the Public Utilities Commission as a portion of the report appearing late this summer.

An excerpt from the record states: "For the new passenger line between Los Angeles and San Francisco the Daniel Guggenheim Fund has provided three trimotored Fokker monoplanes.

"The service started May, 1928, after the three planes which are to make regular trips between the two California cities had completed a transcontimental tour. On their return to California, the planes took up their regular duty, the job of flying daily between Los Angeles and San Francisco, covering the distance in three hours.

"The fastest trains take better than twelve hours for the same journey. In a few months a complete report will be made and it is expected to show that aerial passenger transport has proven a success from every standpoint—comfort, time saving, and financially."

ALL READY FOR GOOD-WILL TRIP

Coast Industrial Chiefs Set to Visit South America

Group Will Sail on Lassco Vessel Next Saturday

Cannery Men Elated Over Report From Mexico

An eminent list of Pacific industrial leaders will represent organized commercial interests on the thirty-four-day good-will cruise on which the Lassco flagship City of Los Angeles will depart next Saturday in circumnavigation of South America, according to announcement made yesterday by Robert F. Cullen, general passenger agent of the Los Angeles Steamship Company.

David Hamburger, retired capitalist and special vice-president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, will represent that body. He will be accompanied by his wife and their daughter, Miss Florence. Other official representatives among the 250 travelers to make the South-Americas tour will be Wade Warren Thayer, president of the International Trust Company of Honolulu, to represent the Honolulu Chamber of commerce; C. A. Huffum, Long Beach capitalist, representing the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, and James Irvine, leading a committee from the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

The cruise will have a real "deep-water" chaplain in Rev. Harold H. Kelley, head of the Seamen's Church Institute of San Pedro. Mr. Kelley, qualified able seaman, has been specially engaged for the cruise.

The trip was given additional official prestige yesterday when the Department of Commerce instructed Spencer A. Greene, United States Trade Commissioner in South America, to make the trip as a government representative. Mrs. Merle Sproull, widely known as hostess of the Moana Hotel at Waikiki Beach, Hawaii, will be the ship's hostess.

Mr. Cullen also announced that transport requirements have been received by a number of the Central and South American countries which the City of Los Angeles will visit, while at all others requirements have been reduced to a minimum.

ORD RECEIVED FISH TAX CUT

Southern California canneries were elated over word from Mexico City yesterday that the Mexican government is in process of reducing the export tax of $35.40 to $7.40 on fish, and that it may become effective today.

The contemplated reduction, obtained following the secret visit here of a high Mexican official, is heralded as the greatest boon to California canneries in years, and is expected to prove of equal value to Mexico in restoring revenues.

The slash first had to be approved by the Mexican secretary of agriculture. Then it was rushed through the Department of Treasury, and is to become a law ten days after publication.

BOATS DUE TO START

The reduction will cause the immediate dispatch of several dozen additional small boats to Turtle Bay, Lower California, for skipjack and yellowfin tuna. A separate understanding also has been reached permitting California's large bait boats, now operating only on the high seas without paying Mexico no tribute, to anchor within Mexico's three-mile limit and receive other benefits for the payment of $5 on each ton of fish taken to California ports.

Obviously the same privileges accorded the tuna boats will be granted to the fleet engaged in catching for the fresh fish trade.

Heretofore the export tariff and incidentals have cost California fishermen $39.80 a ton, so that instead of 60 small boats fishing off Turtle Bay this fall there are only thirty to date. The tariff also forced fishers to evolve the large type of boats, which avoid Mexican ports entirely, and consequently pay no tribute.

REVENUE REDUCED

Cut with the reduced tariff, scores of small craft will clear for Turtle Bay, and the larger boats will pay only $5 a ton for anchoring in Mexican waters. The prohibitive tariff, coupled with the creation of the big bait boat fleet for high seas fishing, has cut seriously into revenues collected by Mexico, the latter's collections last year totaling nearly $600,000.

To date California canneries have packed approximately 600,000 cases of tuna and have set their limit for the season at 1,000,000 cases. Last year 1,200,000 cases were packed, resulting in a slight overage on the markets.

The quality of this season's fish is declared better than heretofore, due to persistent runs of baby skipjack and yellowfin. Canners accepted much of the smaller size, but three days ago banned all skipjack under six pounds and yellowfin under ten. This action was taken partly due to extra labor and extra cost in handling the small catch, but also as a conservation move. The industry discountenanced the taking of the one-year-old fish, weighing two and three pounds, when the same fish will weight thirty to forty pounds if left for two years.

On her last voyage under the house flag of the Panama-Pacific line, the liner Manchuria will sail from San Pedro this morning for New York with 400 passengers and 8000 tons of California freight. The Manchuria and her sister-ship, the Magnolia, have been purchased by the Dollar Line to be used as replacement or "stand-by" units in the company's trans-Pacific and around-the-world fleets. Dollar officials plan to expend approximately $1,500,000 in reconditioning the Manchuria.

The Manchuria will be replaced in December on the coast-to-coast run by the $7,000,000 electric liner Virginia, second to be completed of six turboelectric liners which the Panama-Pacific Line is building. The first of the fleet, the California, already is in service, while the third unit, the New York, now is building at the yards of the Newport News (Va.) Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company.

Shipping interests here regard the new Japanese Diesel-carrier Taihei Maru as the last word in cargo motorship development. She sailed yesterday after visiting the port on her maiden voyage. She was built at Tama for the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, Ltd., in the company's own dock yard, and has a speed of fourteen and one-half knots, which she exceeded on her voyage across the Pacific. Her entrance in the trade gives the Mitsui Line six fast freighters in the Los Angeles-Yokohama trade, with an arrival every three weeks. Banning & Co. are local agents.

BY ROSE E. PATTERSON

(Copyright, 1928, by The North American Newspaper Alliance)

NDON, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—V. Gordon Childe of Edinburgh University, distinguished archaeologist, has just returned to London from the Orkney Islands. He describes a remarkable discovery there of an ancient underground village, complete with streets and houses, near the stormy Bay of Skaill, on Mainland. The village, which has been partly excavated, is considered by Prof. Childe to constitute a discovery unique in Western Europe. So far the ruins have been unearthed, with their floors, stone shelves and cells, the Picts of the early Christian era lived and died. The streets, covered over with great stone slabs, are not more than four feet high. The skeleton of a woman 5 feet 6 inches tall has been discovered.

HUMAN BURROWS

The subterranean streets are narrow and winding, with irregular bends and turns. The houses, out of which these people lived, open off the streets at intervals of about fifteen feet. They are good-sized living-rooms, built square, with the rounded corners now dear to the hearts of the modern housewife. The paved floors, walls with recesses, and leading off are sunken fireplaces, or "beehive" cells, shown by all probability where Mr. and Mrs. Pict and the little Picts curled up to sleep and slept when the fires were cold.

Decorative carving and inscriptions of a crude kind, discovered by Prof. Childe, show that even in the days A. D. the pater familias was ...Impressive carving and inscrip... of a crude kind, discovered by ...Childe, show that even in ...A. D. the pater familias was earnestly trying to achieve the "home beautiful." At that time, possibly owing to the encroaching of the sea, the village of Skara Brae was abandoned.

ANCIENT SEWER

Even an attempt at drainage had evidently been made in one of the huts. A sloping trough ran across its floor, covered with stone slabs and leading away toward the sea through a tunnel in the wall opposite the doorway. It has not yet been discovered precisely where the tunnel leads, but it certainly ends either in a sand bed or in the sea itself.

Animal bones, picked clean, were found on the floors of most of the huts, with the remains of numerous meals and other traces of human life.

The furniture of those remote times was of stone and consisted in the main of a kind of family table and benches. Plates and dishes were either of whalebone or baked clay of crude design.

PICT PREPAREDNESS

The warlike side of the adult Pict's nature was indicated by stone ax heads and great mace heads found in the streets and huts. The professor believes the people must have hunted above the ground in the daytime and at night have climbed down, by ways not yet discovered, into their subterranean streets and crawled on all fours to their homes, where they ate around the family table and retired for the night.

The discovery of the village was due to the action of the sea in breaking away part of the sand dune in which the town had become imbedded.

Two more skeletons besides the one referred to were found, both excellently preserved. When examined by an anthropologist these will undoubtedly yield valuable data regarding the origin of the people of Skara Brae.

PURPOSE UNREVEALED

Prof. Childe feels sure the Pict ordinarily camped above ground, but is not quite certain why he chose to live this subterranean life. He may have done so as a measure against attack, but more probably because of adverse climatic conditions.

The streets, though not more than three feet wide, are definite thoroughfares along which, says the professor, thousands must have crawled.

It has not yet been determined whether there was in the village anything in the way of a City Hall, how far the street area extended or by what means the Pict climbed up and down from his lair.

The village will be preserved as a permanent monument accessible to visitors.

CHICAGO GUNMEN AND BOMBMEN MAKE LIFE 'TOUGH' FOR ANTHONY

CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Life for Anthony Giancane, owner of an ice cream plant, has developed into just one attack after another.

Within twelve days three violent gestures have been made against him, the third one last night. Twelve days ago a bomb exploded at the rear entrance of his plant. Wednesday night the bombers went around to the front door and tossed another. These bombs resulted in several thousand dollars damage not only to the plant but to buildings in the neighborhood.

Last night the enemy became personal. Three armed men drove up to the ice cream factory in front of which Giancone was seated with two friends. The visitors opened fire but Giancane and one of his companions, Russell Russo, but so much distance between themselves and their attackers that they escaped uninjured. Tony Grinelda was somewhat slower and a shotgun slug caught him in the leg.

Giancane says he cannot understand why he should be attacked.

AIR MAIL LINKED TO RAIL SERVICE

More Frequent Inspection Becomes Necessary

Division Superintendents to Get Responsibility

No Changes in Personnel Will be Made

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Due to the continued growth of the air-mail service, the rapidly increasing number of air-mail routes and the desirability of maintaining closer supervision over their actual operation, Postmaster-General New announced today that, effective tomorrow, the air-mail service will be divided among the fifteen railway-mail service divisions in accordance with divisional lines in so far as practicable.

At present, the air mail is carried more than 26,000 miles every day and today's action by the Postmaster-General is another step in the direction of speeding up the transportation and delivery of letters and packages dispatched by air.

More frequent inspection of the air-mail routes now in operation is necessary, the statement said. The expansion of the service has reached the point where it is impracticable to handle it with the present official force and it would be impracticable to increase this force to the extent of covering the far-flung routes throughout the country. The railway-mail service, through its division superintendents and chief clerks, is situated so as to be in a position to keep in close touch throughout the country with the air-mail service in conjunction with its other duties.

The new arrangement will not result in any change in the personnel of either the air-mail service or the railway-mail service, it is announced.

Studies indicate a supply of products considerably in excess of consumption requirements often results in low returns to the producers, without necessarily affecting retail prices in proportion."

This warning, it was indicated, is prompted by the experience of the grape industry, which is now engaged in a nation-wide campaign to pull itself out of a serious overproduction situation by encouraging greater consumption of its product. The Department of Agriculture is co-operating with the grape growers in every way possible and three of its experts were the speakers on a radio program from here last Tuesday night which helped inaugurate National Grape Week.

GIVES FIGURES

Along with the warning the department gave out its latest figures on the movement of the fruit and vegetable crop. These showed that 12,000 more cars of lettuce were shipped from California and other points in 1926 than in 1924. Peaches in the same two years showed an increase of 20,000 cars; sweet potatoes about 7500 cars; apples 16,000 cars, and watermelons 10,000 cars. These figures cover only shipments by rail and boat and exclude those transported by motor truck which is rapidly becoming one of the chief factors in getting perishables to the market.

All-Electric Craft, Triumph of Economical Operation, Built In Clyde

GREENOCK (Scotland) Sept. 30. (AP) — A 9000-ton ship which one man could take across the ocean has been built here for an American firm.

It is an all-electrical ship, the Brunswick, built by Scott, Ltd., for the Atlantic Oil Shipping Company of Philadelphia.

At its trials on the River Clyde one man at a switchboard operated the whole ship. The vessel steers automatically, does not require engineers to start or stop the Diesel-electric engines. Once the course is set the steering does not require further attention.

POLISH COLONY FOR CALIFORNIA

San Francisco Cleric Plans Forming Community

He Discloses 5000 Families Will be Brought in

Stanislaus County Scene of New Enterprise

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Five thousand Polish families will be brought into California by Father Stanislaus Przybyss of San Francisco, who has acquired 20,000 acres in Stanislaus county either by purchase or option. The cleric, in making this announcement here, said many families already have arrived with the intention of founding an agricultural community, the projected city of St. Stanislaus.

While holding the exact location of the projected colony a secret, in order to prevent speculation in land values, Father Przybyss (pronounced Psheebeesh,) said further details of the land project will be announced soon.

SKILLED FARMERS

The cleric's plan is to bring Poles from settlements in eastern cities, where living conditions are too crowded to give them the opportunities they may find in California. Most of those who already have arrived with their families are American citizens, naturalized, he said. They are skilled farmers and under the terms of the plan will go into diversified farming on an intensive scale.

The Polish pastor-colonizer established several settlements of Poles in Florida, but after investigation said he is convinced California offers greater advantages to an agricultural people.

PLANS ANNOUNCED

The town of St. Stanilaus will be in the heart of the farming district acquired for the settlers. A Polish church and school and a recreation park with a swimming pool will be constructed. The Polish Felician Sisters plan erection of a motherhouse.

Father Przybyss said Cardinal Hlond, primate of Poland, and Bishop Nowak of Przemysl will visit California in the spring to take part in the dedication of the Polish colony.

HOOVER'S WORK ENDLESS

Republican Presidential Nominee Starts Early and Works Unceasingly Far Into Each Night

BY MARY BAINBRIDGE HAYDEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. (AP)—Herbert Hoover has learned that the day scarcely ever is done for a Presidential candidate. The first at his office and frequently the last to leave, his work carries on far into the night in his study at his home, to be laid aside only against the coming of another dawn.

Conferences, decisions, research, writing—thus runs the round of his day which begins around 7 a.m., and ends anywhere up to midnight. Although he reaches his office frequently before the janitors have finished tidying up the desks, he has accomplished much even before that time in three days out of five.

He frequently has one of his political advisers or a friend upon whose judgment he relies in for a breakfast of ham and eggs, one of his favorite dishes since his mining days, when he "fried them on both sides" himself over an open fire.

OFFICERS NEAR HOME

After breakfast the nominee goes to his offices a little more than a block away. By the time his personal assistant, George Akerson, and James Francis Burke, veteran counselor of the national committee, and the various secretaries arrive at G.H.Q., as headquarters now are familiarly known, the Republican Presidential nominee is already deep in work in his own office, the big, quiet, mahogany-finished library of the old Moran Home.

Conferences soon are in order as visitors arrive singly or in groups and the nominee receives reports from many sections; gets a lot of advice and more often imparts more than he receives. Much time is given to the telephone as leaders in far distant places call up for advice on this or that subject.

In between time must be given to correspondence that Hoover himself must answer and then frequently he is able to break the monotony of sitting at his desk, pacing up and down with his hands deep in his pockets and his head bent. On rare occasions he emerges for a five-minute chat with Akerson or Burke or for a brief ride in his car on some necessary errand about town.

"That's about all the relaxation he gets," Burke explains, "and even then, more often than not, he talks shop."

CONFERENCES AT LUNCH

Luncheon time often finds him engaged in conferences. The nominee does not attempt to accept invitations away from home during the campaign, except on very rare occasions, and only then, when they have to do with his political work. But as he has a theory that talk at table is easier, more friendly and more satisfactory than across a desk top, personal friends and campaign workers frequently are invited to share "pot luck" at his home.

After luncheon, Hoover returns to headquarters to carry on for another five hours. At 6 o'clock or later Hoover's bulky figure, with its inevitable arm load of bundled papers, may be seen hurrying down the steps and into a waiting car, or on foot up the street toward his home, sometimes with his son Allan, but more often alone.

Even when reaching home he faces a long evening of work. Often midnight finds him still hard at it, in conference, or working on speeches, or a thousand overflow jobs left over from the day. The Hoover General Headquarters is closed for the night, but Hoover's working day still goes on in the quiet of his study.

Young's Peach Policy Scored

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 30. (AP)—A "bungling fiasco, with 'watchful waiting' the policy although the peaches are fast approaching the rotting stage," was the indictment of Gov. Young's peach conference committee sounded tonight by S. J. Lubin, president of the Sacramento Citizens' League.

"The job has been bungled miserably," said Lubin. "It seems that the performance has been characterized by the adoption of futile measures leading to undesirable ends. The mode adopted by the State in response to the farmers' prayer is fundamentally wrong."

SMITH ATTACKED AT CONFERENCE

Methodists Told Democrat Wants Nullification

Newby Analyzes Wet Stand of New Yorker

Church Folk Asked to Work for His Defeat

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Calling upon the moral forces of the nation to defeat Gov. Smith in the Presidential election in November, Attorney Nathan Newby and Dr. Elmer E. Helms, Los Angeles leaders, branded Gov. Smith as a nullificationist in two attacks at the evening meeting of the fifty-third annual conference of the Southern California Methodist Episcopal Church in session here.

"This nation," Newby declared, "cannot exist half wet and half dry. Abraham Lincoln said the same thing about slavery, and it is as true today as it was then.

WET THEORY SCORED

"What is Gov. Smith's plan for supplying the thirst of the nation with liquor? He says that every State should have the right to define what is intoxicating liquor. Doesn't Gov. Smith know what every other citizen should know, that the principle of States' rights has been repudiated? The very argument upon which he has based his assertion that prohibition cannot be enforced makes impossible his plan for evading prohibition. If, as he declares, liquor from abroad cannot be kept out of the United States, how will it be possible to keep New York liquor out of New Jersey if the States' rights plan is adopted? It was for that very reason that the Eighteenth Amendment was written into the Constitution.

"Gov. Smith said in Milwaukee that he would modify the Volstead Act and declared that the provision which makes liquor containing more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol as intoxicating, is unscientific. That definition came from the revenue laws of the United States. It was put there more than forty years ago at the request of the liquor interests to protect themselves.

PLATFORM NULLIFIES

"Gov. Smith's platform is nothing more than nullification of the Constitution and it would be a shame to elect such a man President of the United States. Even if for no other reason I would oppose him because of his Tammany affiliations."

Dr. Helms repeated most of the charges made by Newby, urging women to enter the field and work for the immediate registration of voters. He stated that the country's moral leaders are opposing Gov. Smith, and supported Newby's statements that the Democratic candidate is a nullificationist.

Murder Pair Deny Stories of 'Pampering'

JOLIET (Ill.) Sept. 30. (AP)—Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, under life sentences here for the murder of Bobby Franks, today denied they are "pampered pets" in the State prison.

The prisoners, interviewed for the first time since they entered the penitentiary under dual sentences for kidnaping and murder, declared they objected to publicity concerning their prison life. They have not discussed the question of a possible parole with relatives, they said.

A statement by Hinton S. Clabaugh, chairman of the board of pardons and paroles, that the youths are "pampered pets" led to the interview. An error in the mittimus under which they were sentenced, he said, offered a possible loophole for their parole within a few years.

Arizona Route Gets New Plane

PHOENIX, Sept. 30. (AP)—Landing here this afternoon in a new 425-horsepower monoplane from Douglas, Jack Frye, president of the Standard Air Lines, Inc., and Walter A. Hamilton, vice-president of the organization, declared that the ship is to be put into service Wednesday on the air route between Phoenix, Tucson and Los Angeles.

Frye stated that it is necessary to put another plane into service between Tucson and Los Angeles due to the heavy increase in passengers. Fifty passengers were turned down during August, he said.

Spanish Hotels Abolish Tipping

MADRID, Sept. 30. (AP)—This was the last day for tipping hotel employes in Spain. Members of the hotel association, meeting here, decided to place an immediate ban on gratuities.

The order applies to hotels, restaurants and casinos in the cities of Madrid, Toledo, Avila, Ciudad Real, Cuenca, Guadalajara and Segovia, as well as provincial hostelries.

Not content with this emancipation of the tourist, the hotel men decided to continue to study the proposal to abolish tips in cafes and beer shops.

Hoover Women Pick Chairmen

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. (AP)—Mrs. F. Louis Slade, chairman of the women's national committee for Hoover, today announced the appointment of thirty-eight State chairmen in as many States. They are charged with directing State committees in a get-out-the-vote campaign. The appointments include Mrs. Lloyd Christy, Phoenix, Ariz.; Mrs. Parker Maddux, San Francisco, and Mrs. J. T. Anderson, Los Angeles.

THE THOMAS
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

To the Public:--

My original discovery for the prevention and elimination of baldness is fundamentally and scientifically sound. It is not the result of guesswork!

This fifteen year proven method is absolutely original. It is carried out in my forty-seven offices throughout the United States and Canada.

I take this opportunity to warn the public and my friends that, of late, I have found that imitators are claiming that they are using my original Thomas System. These statements are not true. I permit nobody outside of my forty-seven offices to use my scientific methods. There is only ONE THOMAS OFFICE in the City of Los Angeles.

By now, you all realize that my continuous success is not an accident, but the golden fruit of honest delivery of genuine public service to men and women afflicted with scalp disorders which lead to premature thinning of the hair and final baldness.

Sincerely yours,
R. L. Thomas, Ph. D.

BALD?

No matter how long you have been bald, or have had Dandruff, Itching Scalp, Falling Hair or other scalp disorders — no matter how many remedies and treatments you have vainly tried, if we accept your case you are assured we feel positive we can promote a growth of new hair. We do not mean to boast of our marvelous achievements—but simply state actual facts concerning hundreds of cases in this city. Hundreds of Los Angeles men in all stages of baldness have had their hair regrown by us, real, genuine, abundant hair. The Thomas' new scientific process of revitalizing the scalp obtains quickly desired results; this is a new patented adjunct to the Thomas treatment.—We will give you ample proof of this statement. With scalp health comes hair health. Hair grows when disease goes. Remember, your hair will not improve by waiting. Start now to restore your hair.

POSITIVE PROOF
Do not take our word for it—Call any hour of the day or evening—talk with men taking treatments here—see the new hair they are growing—learn the facts before you decide. You will be amazed at the results obtained the Thomas way. No obligation on your part—First examination absolutely free.

FREE Scalp Examination
Microscopic scalp examination free and private. We treat men only.

Years ago you didn't have a competent scalp specialist to advise you when your hair started falling and the specter of baldness appeared. Highly perfumed tonics and numerous home remedies were used which only hastened baldness and your luxuriant growth of hair was lost before 40.

Today, The Thomas System is preventing baldness and growing hair because the right scientific treatment is applied to each particular case. Scientific treatment for the hair is teaching men to stop the haphazard methods previously in use.

The Thomas' thorough scalp examination will reveal the causes of your scalp troubles. Our scientific treatment builds up the scalp. Dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair and other scalp disorders quickly disappear—the hair papellae responds to action of the treatment and hair begins to grow, becoming visible usually in from 3 to 6 weeks. Come in today for free, private scalp examination.

OREGON STATE NEXT FOR S.C.

Schissler's Team Rated Best in Northwest

Orangemen Almost Defeated Foes Last Year

Jones Works on Linemen for Saturday's Game

BY BRAVEN DYER

"Look out for Oregon State."

That's the warning being flashed out of the great Northwest and today the Trojans of Southern California will start "looking out."

If you'll take the word of northern critics Paul Schissler's Corvallis creation is the strongest team ever turned out at that institution and one which is perfectly capable of beating the Trojans at the Coliseum next Saturday.

FRANCIS TAPPAAN.

Up where men are lumberjacks they can't see anything but the Oregon Staters. Rated by far the best team in the Northwest, Oregon writers figure that if the Orangemen can get by Southern California they will win the Coast championship, inasmuch as Stanford and California are not on Schissler's schedule.

EXPECT BIG CROWD

Therefore Saturday's game, the opening conference clash of the season, is one of much importance. It will do doubt be witnessed by a throng of close to 50,000 souls for Arnold Eddy, Trojan ticket manager, reports that ducats are selling with astounding rapidity.

Howard Jones will call his athletes together this afternoon for what will be a week of strenuous activity. Much must be done before the Trojans are ready for Oregon State. Schissler, if he chooses, can start an entire team of veterans against Southern California. This is rather disconcerting, inasmuch as these same men were beaten by only one point last year, 13 to 12 being the score. At that the Trojans were extremely lucky to win, Dame Fortune being their sidekick throughout the latter stages of the game.

Added to this these veterans are twice as far along in their training as the Trojans. Classes started only today at Oregon State and for the last two weeks Schissler has been drilling his charges twice daily, pointing for the Trojans.

Dick Newman, one of Schissler's assistants, saw Saturday's Trojan-Utah game and then left for the north to give his mentor the lowdown on Southern California. Jeff Cravath, who watched the Oregon boys beat the California Aggies, 14 to 0, under wraps, will be home today with all the dope for Jones.

CENTERS NEED WORK

The Trojan mentor has several things to attend to this week. His boys must block better and run better interference. Barragar and Templeton should spend a half-hour each day trying to shoot the pigskin through those holes in that canvas out there on Bovard Field. If we remember correctly, a bad pass from center gave Oregon State one touchdown last year. Give 'em one this season and it will probably be fatal.

Frank Anthony and Clark Galloway will probably go back to their tackle and guard berths. Both veterans earned a chance to start against Oregon by their work last Saturday. Seltz, while

BY BOB RAY

Marty Krug and his avenging Angels, whose sole reason for existing apparently is to beat the Hollywood Stars, wound up their final appearance at Wrigley Field yesterday by twice subduing the Sheiks. The scores were 5 to 2 and 6 to 5, and the double setback left the Stars with only a mathematical chance for the second half flag, and you can't get any money on those mathematical chances from even friends or relatives.

CLYDE BARFOOT.

Some 15,000 fans turned out for the bargain bill and saw the Seraphs again exercise their jinx over the Stars, who have been able to win but nine games from Los Angeles in twenty-eight attempts this season. The twin win gave the Cherubs the series, 5 to 2, and pushed the Stars down three games below the Seals and Solons, who are again tied for first place.

In the second game the Angels won out in the last inning, when Wally Hood singled to left to bring Gale Staley home with the winning run after Johnny Couch had retired one man. Staley got on when one of Couch's pitches barely ticked him and Jensen's sacrifice put him in position to score on Hood's hit.

ANGELS CLOUT HULVEY

The Stars at one time had the nightcap apparently sewed up, 5 to 2, but Gordon Rhodes pulled up with a sore arm in the fifth and his successor, Hank Hulvey, was batted for three runs before he could turn around. That tied it up and Hood's hit untied it in the seventh.

The opener saw Clyde Barfoot defeat the Stars for the second time this week. Barfoot limited the stars to eight well-scattered hits and was scored on only in the first and ninth innings.

The Angels sewed up the first clash in the fourth inning when they routed Frank Shellenback with a six-hit attack that produced four runs and broke a 1-to-1 tie.

Both sides, specially in the outfield, played ragged ball, no less than nine errors being made during the two games.

Bells Beaten Two Times by San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—The Seals took both games from the Missions today, winning the morning game, 5 to 4, in an exciting finish and taking the afternoon game by a score of 14 to 2. The Seals won the series, six games out of seven, and went back into a tie for first place with Sacramento.

SMEAD JOLLEY

The morning game was one of the most exciting ever seen in San Francisco. The afternoon game was a walkover for the Seals. They made five runs off Ernie Nevers in the first, and were never headed after that. Mitchell pitched the entire game for the Seals.

The Seals won the morning game in dramatic fashion. The Missions were one run behind in the ninth inning and had runners on second and first, with none out. Mickey Finn hit a line drive to right. It looked like a hit, so the runners started for the plate. But Jolley caught the ball and threw to Thurston, to double Swanson off first base. Thurston then threw to Rhyne before Johnny Mitchell could get back to second base. Mitchell was running

Beavers Take Morning Fray From Ryanmen

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 30.—Sacramento took five out of seven games from the Portland Beavers in the series that ended today and still lost ground to the Seals. That is how fast the pace is as the 1928 season draws near its close. At the beginning of the week the Senators were one game ahead of the Seals and now the clubs are tied for first place with three games to go.

BUDDY RYAN.

After losing the morning game at Stockton by a 5-to-1 score, the Solons pelted out a victory in the afternoon contest here, 9 to 5. Ten thousand fans saw the contest and had plenty of opportunity to cheer the favorites for the home boys did plenty of busting.

The best evidence of this is that Bill Rodgers used three pitchers. He started with Fullerton who beat the Solons last Wednesday and Larry French and Jack Knight saw service before the nine innings were over.

Louie Vinci opened for the Senators, but he did not have a thing, being rescued in the third by "Pudgy" Gould who enacts the relief role about every other day. Three

DIXIE SERIES EVENED UP

HOUSTON (Tex.) Sept. 30. (AP)—"Sweet William" Bill Hallahan's masterful hurling today enabled the Houston Buffaloes to even the count at two-all in the Dixie series by defeating the Birmingham Barons, 6 to 0.

Hallahan whiffed eleven opponents who faced him during the afternoon, allowed only two hits and did not issue a pass. In all except one inning he retired the Barons in order. Ed Wells, Birmingham portsider, was taken from the box in the seventh.

WAITE HOYT TURNS IN HIS TWENTY-SECOND WIN OF YEAR AND EARNS BONUS OF $2000

DETROIT, Sept. 30. (AP)—The pennant-winning Yankees closed the American League season here today with a 7-to-6 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

WAITE HOYT

Waite Hoyt, pitching the full route for New York, won his twenty-second game of the year and thereby clinched a bonus of $2000 offered him by Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the champions.

During a wrangle over salary last spring, Ruppert told the pitcher he would add $2000 to his season's pay if he won twenty-two games. Hoyt was given the opportunity to pitch today only because he needed one more game to round out the bonus-winning total. Otherwise he would have been allowed to rest for the world series.

Hoyt's triumph was marked by Babe Ruth's fifty-fourth home run of the year and his fourth of the final series. It was a drive into the right-field bleachers in the fifth inning with Durst on base.

ST. MARY'S SCORES 12-TO-0 VICTORY OVER ARMY ELEVEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30. (AP)—St. Mary's College, conqueror of Stanford last year, made its 1928 appearance in rather unimpressive fashion today when it defeated the West Coast Army football team, 12 to 0, at Kezar Stadium.

Both of St. Mary's touchdowns came as the result of breaks. After being held scoreless for the first half of the game, the Saints scored in the third period when Frankian, end, picked up an Army fumble and ran twelve yards. The other score came in the last quarter, when St. Mary's recovered a blocked kick six yards from the goal and drove the ball over in four downs.

The Army had already lost a game to the Olympic Club by a 38-to-0 score and to Stanford, 21 to 8.

PIRATE LOSES TO ACE IN PERPETUAL TROPHY RACE

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Gallantly battling her heavier rival in the usual half-gale of wind, Roger Marchetti's R sloop Pirate of the California Yacht Club bowed to Capt. Arthur Rousseau's Ace of the Corinthian Yacht Club here this afternoon in the Perpetual Challenge Cup race.

Lighter than the Ace by 4300 pounds and packing twenty-eight feet more canvas, the Pirate was no match for the Bay champion, which was built especially to stand the stiff breezes which blow on the bay. Today's brisk breeze took an early toll for the light-weather Los Angeles R. The Pirate had barely crossed the starting line when her main halyard deck block parted. That accident prevented the Pirate's crew from getting the main sheet all the way up, and ruined whatever chance Matt Walsh might have had of skippering the Pirate to victory.

The heavy-bodied Ace drove through the stiff chop to cover the fourteen-mile championship course in 2hr. 4m. and 52s. She beat the Pirate by approximately four minutes.

The southern sloop, however, won the admiration of the northern yachtsmen by gamely sticking to the job. When Marchetti decided to race the Pirate on San Francisco Bay, he did so as a matter of good sportsmanship with little hope of copping the Perpetual cup, which has been raced for since

Stanford's Defeat Does Not Hurt Cards' Chances for Coast Title, Says Howard Jon

BEATEN BEFORE BUT WON CROWN

Olympic Club Hard to Trim, Declares Coach

Kaer Given Praise for Work Against Redshirts

Mentor Says Trojans Lucky in Utah Game

BY HOWARD JONES

(Copyright, 1928, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Stanford's defeat at the hands of the strong Olympic Club team and the victory of Montana State over Idaho were the outstanding upsets of Saturday's games on the Pacific Coast.

HOWARD JONES

These two teams were tied with Southern California for the conference championship last year, and Idaho was undefeated until the final game of the season.

Victory of the Olympic Club by a score of 12 to 6 was not wholly unexpected in these parts, however, for the San Francisco team is one of the strongest teams in the country. Such players as Pat Wilson, Washington last year; Nick Kutsch, former Iowa star; Morton Kaer, ex-Southern California all-American, and Allen, formerly of Yale, are mighty capable performers.

HARD TO FOOL

Playing with other experienced athletes these men are hard to fool. After the first half of Saturday's game they had solved Stanford's attack and were on their way to victory.

Morton Kaer provided the fireworks of the afternoon with a 68-yard return of one of Hoffman's punts for a touchdown.

Of course, in early-season games blocking and tackling is never at its best and Stanford may not be scored upon in this manner again all year. However, Kaer is a mighty good man and against Stanford, his former traditional enemy, he was probably keyed up to a high pitch.

Stanford suffered a tough break in the loss of John Preston, one of Coach Warner's best ends, who will be out of the game for some time due to a broken arm.

Idaho was beaten fairly and squarely by Montana State, a team of the Rocky Mountain Conference. The difference between the two elevens was a safety, made by Burgher of Idaho in the first half, when he was forced to fall on his own blocked punt behind Idaho's goal line. The final score was 15 to 13.

Too much stock should not be put in these defeats. However, two years ago Stanford was beaten by the Olympic Club early in the season but the Redshirts went on to win the conference championship.

In early games it is often true that the supposedly better team of the two is never properly keyed up for the encounter, which gives the underdog enough of a psychological advantage to make the going exceedingly tough and in some instances actually win.

FORTUNE SMILES

As for Southern California's game with the Utah Aggies, we were lucky to win by the score of 40 to 12. Two of our touchdowns came as the result of intercepted forward passes and a third was the result of a fumbled punt, which was recovered over the goal line by a Trojan.

Utah introduced a brilliant open-field runner in Capt. Smart, who took the opening kick-off of the second half and returned it 85 yards for a touchdown. Later in the quarter he caught a pass and traveled 39 yards to score Utah's other touchdown.

The Aggies, coached by Dick Romney, were an aggressive, fighting team and had it not been for the tough breaks mentioned above, the score easily might have been much different.

The University of California at Los Angeles had a tough game with the University of Arizona, the two teams tying, 7 to 7, after a hard-fought battle.

Giants Defeat Cards in Final

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. (AP)—The champion Cardinals permitted the Giants to win from them by a score of 4 to 2 in the final game of the season, the new title-holders thus finishing with a margin of two games over the New Yorkers.

Fred Frankhouse and Karl Hubbell each allowed only six blows, but two of the New York hits were home runs by Bob O'Farrell and Frank O'Doul. Each team started with its regular line-up, but several substitutes finally entered the game. Score:

RABBIT PUNCHES

BY PAUL LOWRY

A FELLOW FEELING

MR. BERT HEISER, the chunky young man, who played such a whale of a running guard for the Trojans last year, sat in the stands at the Coliseum Saturday and shivered for some of his ex-mates. Mr. Heiser was stirred to this stage of intense emotion by the sight of two of the Trojans (Mr. Howard Jones will mention the names above a whisper at practice this afternoon) missing tackles on Smart as the Utah captain was scoring the visitors' second touchdown on a forward pass in the third quarter.

"Gosh," said Mr. Heiser, as the chills ran up his spine at the thought of it, "I'd certainly hate to be out at Bovard Field Monday night. Those guys are going to get it right." Mr. Heiser shivered anew and pulled his old varsity sweater up around his ears in spite of the warm day.

Which you may interpret, lads and lassies of football land, as meaning that Mr. Heiser didn't think that the Trojans were as hot as the 40-12 score over the invaders indicated. And he was in some degree right. Of the Trojans's six touchdowns only three were manufactured under the pressure of their own offensive steam. Two came from runbacks of intercepted passes, one for 40 yards and the other 50 yards, but the biggest break of all was Call's mess of a punt on his own goal line. In chasing a bounder he ticked it and Galloway fell on the ball over the line.

On the other hand, Utah earned both of its touchdowns, even though scored against a conglomerate line of second and third stringers and a backfield composed of Kemp, Apait, Mortensen and Bonham. Smart's 90-yard run from kickoff in the third quarter was as nifty a piece of galloping as has been seen here for a long time. And the 65-yard march that brought the other score was nice offensive work. The visitors showed a fast and scrappy team.

SOME ROUGH SPOTS

OF COURSE it's a bit early in the season to judge the Trojans harshly, but they certainly didn't uncork another Drury the other day, they didn't show a running guard as rough and tough as Mr. Heiser with all due respect to Mr. Boren's newness at the position, and they didn't unveil a twin to Capt. Hibbs.

Mr. Willis O. Hunter took time out last week to say that the Trojans looked good to him in spots and not so good in others. That judgment was good.

Don Williams looked good, superlatively so, against Utah. But that was expected. It's not a question of how good he is, but how long he holds together against the enemy. Right now Don is miles ahead of his mates. He's too fast for the remainder of the backfield and nobody on the team can hold a candle to him for drive.

Saunders looked good carrying the ball to a touchdown, but on two previous occasions when somebody else was packing the pill he looked bad in the interference when he failed to take his man.

However, the rough spots are bound to be smoothed out considerably by the time the Trojans meet Oregon State next Saturday, and the game Saturday was one of the best workouts they could possibly have had in preparation for a strenuous Pacific Coast conference race.

A KAER CHUCKLE

IT MUST have done Morton Kaer a world of good to score the winning touchdown for the Olympic Club against Stanford on a 68-yard run the other day.

Kaer, if you recall, was the U.S.C. "dodo" that "Cocky Dick" Hyland wrote about last year in his famous "true story" of college life or thereabouts.

Kaer wasn't so hot last fall, but apparently he made Stanford swallow the words of its ex-backfield flash with his flashy run Saturday.

THE BREAKS

IF GETTING off to a good start augurs well for the future the Trojans should not be bothered with their bugbear of the past two seasons—missed goal kicks from touchdown.

The Trojans kicked the first three in a row against Utah. That's one for the book.

The bad breaks seem to have gone against U.S.C.'s coming foes of the gridiron last Saturday.

Preston, the Stanford end, had an arm broken. Collins, the Notre Dame fullback, broke a wrist.

TENNIS BOOMS

SOME interesting figures on the increase of tennis popularity:

Last year the Pacific Southwest tennis tourney drew $12,000. This was for the whole meet.

So far this year the boys have banked $30,000, according to Mr. William Mellors Henry, president of the Los Angeles Tennis Club, where the matches are being held.

And the real meet hasn't started yet. The international struggles have been holding the boards for the past three days.

Athletics Bow in Last Clash

CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Bob Welland, rookie hurler from the Mississippi Valley League, made his major league debut today and pitched the White Sox to a 1-to-0 victory over Philadelphia in the season's finale.

Welland held the Athletics to seven hits, fanned nine and was so tight in the pinches that twelve Athletics were stranded on base. The winning run came in the seventh inning, when Reynolds, another rookie, singled, took second on an infield out and scored on Kamm's single.

Yerkes, Philadelphia rookie, also pitched masterful ball, limiting the White Sox to four hits. Score:

ACE WINS OVER LOCAL R SLOOP

Johnny Doeg Wins Doubles, Singles Victories

Van Ryn Scores Brilliant Match From Gregory

Cup forces of this country, scored his second victory over Bunny Austin yesterday in as many meetings. Doeg's triumph came after a hectic battle in which the local Santa Monica product dropped the initial set at 3-6, but came back to capture a win with final scores of 6-3 and 6-4.

Doeg started very badly in the initial set which he dropped to his English foe. The southpaw had only one weapon that proved at all valuable and that was his delivery. His ground strokes were very poor and as a result his errors were numerous. But in the second and final sets, Doeg's deadly slice strokes and his escapades to the barrier where his brilliant volleying found Austin unable to pass him, proved the undoing of Austin.

VAN RYN COPS

But the battle waged by this pair cannot compare with that between Van Ryn and Gregory. Van Ryn swept Gregory off the court in the first set which he won handily at 6-3. Van Ryn had things much his own way in this frame. In the second set, however, the pair battled back and forth, games going with service until the twenty-first game when Gregory's drives off the fore and backhand gave him a break of Van Ryn's service, and he took advantage of this break by winning his delivery at love, and thus taking the second set to knot the count.

The victory could not be denied Van Ryn, however, and in the final frame the Princetonian came to the fore with a 6-3 victory. Gregory failed to hold his service in the third and seventh games, which gave Van Ryn a lead of 5-3 and his service in the ninth game brought him a victory and the match.

The summary:

Doeg (U. S.) defeated Austin (Eng.) 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. Van Ryn (U. S.) defeated Gregory (Eng.) 6-3, 10-12, 6-3. Bell and Gledhill (U.S.) defeated Collins and Higgs (Eng.) 12-10, 8-6.

Seeded favorites in the men's and women's singles and doubles events of the Southwest championships advanced with ease into the second and third-round brackets yesterday. Johnny Doeg, Berkeley Bell and Johnny Van Ryn triumphed in easy fashion.

Fields Meets Thompson in North Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Jackie Fields and Young Jack Thompson, the pick of western welterweights, go to the post tomorrow night in a ten rounder that has gripped the fight fans here like no other bout has done since boxing was legalized in 1925.

No title is involved but the battle is a "natural" from every angle. Thompson, Negro flash, punched his way into prominence recently by stopping Joe Dundee, welter champion, in two rounds. The championship was not at stake but Thompson has

ACE HUDKINS FAVORED TO WIN BOUT OVER ANDERSON

Ace Hudkins rules a 10-8 favorite over Joe Anderson for their ten-round bout here tomorrow night when the Olympic expects to play to capacity of 12,000 people.

The boxers took final workouts yesterday and came through the grind without any injuries—the thing that always worries a promoter when an important match is on the fire.

The Olympic still has tickets, but the picking is getting thinner hourly. No reservations are being made by telephone. Hudkins has always been a tremendous magnet to the fans here. The fact that Anderson whipped both Dave Shade and Leo Lomski gives him rating even against the Wildcat.

JOE ANDERSON

The weight wrangle ironed itself out when Anderson trained off the extra two pounds without having to use artificial methods. Both boxers posted $1000 weight forfeits last Wednesday.

Anderson was considerably riled because Ace dictated weight to him. The Wildcat stoutly asserts he will grab Anderson's "grand" if he is an ounce over 158 pounds. The Kentuckian retorts that the ring won't be big enough to hold him if he does.

Nothing remains to be done now it seems but the naming of the referee and the two judges. Both boxers have agreed to let the Boxing Commission have full voice in this matter.

Hudkins is so confident he would let Jim Dougherty, Anderson's manager, referee the bout if the Baron was here. Anderson's preferences are known to be George Blake or Lieut. Jack Kennedy. Neither are hardly available.

Bhke is again managing Fidel La Barba to the world's bantam weight title and Kennedy has been ill on a hospital ship.

Hudkins and Anderson both look like improved fighters since they worked here before. The strength which the Wildcat shows is remarkable. He handles big heavyweights like they were children.

Another angle on Hudkins is that he has quit mauling and takes his shots in the open. But he is the same crowding, driving fighter.

Anderson has always seemed to coast along in his training in previous bouts held in Los Angeles. This time he is a serious fellow who realizes he can make himself one of the best attractions in the country by beating the Wildcat.

Some of the more hungry fans are going to try to see both the Jackie Fields-Jack Thompson battle in San Francisco tonight and jump back here for the Hudkins-Anderson affair. It requires fast traveling, but some of boxing's followers don't like to miss anything.

Both matches certainly warrant any hardship to see them. By way of coincident, Fields is being made a 10-to-8 choice in the north, the same as Hudkins is here.

Another angle is that two of the principals in both fights fought world's champions their last bouts. Thompson knocked out Joe Dundee a few weeks ago in Chicago. Hudkins met Mickey Walker in Chicago last June and hasn't boxed since.

Hudkins and Anderson had light workouts scheduled today, but they will be little more than exercises Anderson is watching his weight closely since he figures to hit 158 on the dot and not try to get under.

It was announced that Ace and Joe both would have special body guards from now on until they climb into the ring.

Hudkins is said to be receiving $15,000 and Anderson's share will be $5000. The estimated gate is $33,000.

FIREMEN SCORE EASY WIN OVER SAN BERNARDINO TEAM

There was no stopping Coach Bill Blewett's fast-coming Los Angeles Fire Department gridders at Knickerbocker Field yesterday, the Smoke Eaters crushing the San Bernardino American Legion team by a final score of 46 to 0. As a result of the game the fire laddies raised their season's total to 97 points and the team has played but two games.

Coach Bill Blewett has his men going great guns and the pep among the players was never at a higher level. Blewett used three complete teams yesterday and he's still up in the air over the squad which will go to New York October 11 to meet the New York fire team at the Polo Grounds, October 21.

"Whitey" Murwin, hard-hitting fullback, scored four touchdowns yesterday, while Art Clapper ran over the goal line for tallies twice and Tex Zumwalt once.

The Legion team became dangerous only in the third period when Blewett had his third and fourth-stringers in the game. The regulars went back in the final quarter to score twice and wind up the game but 5 yards from another touchdown.

Murwin, Clapper and Moll starred in the backfield, while the work of Capt. Casey, center, and Royce Wheeler, 190-pound end, featured on the line. Capt. Sutt and Hamlin did the best work for the visitors.

Next Sunday the fire team meets the Santa Barbara American Legion in the final Los Angeles game before the eastern trip.

MRS. KNIGHT TRAP VICTOR

Mrs. Gus Knight had no respect for age or reputation yesterday when she broke 99x100 in the century shoot at the Los Angeles Gun Club traps to lead the scatter gun artists in their try for honors. E. V. Minoch with 97 was the runner-up, Don Morrison with a well-placed 96 finished third, George Nordenholt and E. C. Crook tied on 90.

The trophy winners were Minoch, Mrs. Knight, Nordenholt and Johnson. In the double event Minoch was high, closely followed by Crook, Goodrich and Morrison.

The program on the 14th inst. will consist of 100 targets registered. Scores compiled by Fred H. Teeple, secretary, follow:

ANGELS UPSET SHEIKS TWICE

first inning of the opener when doubles by Lee and Rehg gave them a run. Barfoot, however, then put on the brakes and the Stars didn't get another chance to score until the ninth when a walk, a single by Heath, an error by Schulmerich and Twombly's sacrifice fly produced the final marker.

Truck Hannah knotted the count in the third when he lined one of Shellenback's offerings over the left-field wall for a homer.

The blow-off came in the fourth, which opened with Jensen beating out a bunt. Hood singled to left and Smith's bobble let Jensen reach third and Wally take second. Tolson's single to center scored both runners. Schulmerich forced Tolson but Bobby Jones came through with a hit. Dittmar also singled, scoring Schulcerich. Carlyle's throw to head Jones off at third, hit Bobby in the back and bounded to the stands, Jones scoring and Dittmar going all the way to third. That was all for Shellenback, Buzz Wetzel coming on the scene to stop the Seraphs for the rest of the game.

Barfoot was given brilliant support by the Seraphs, who turned in four double plays, one of which brought the game to a close.

The Stars also got off in front in the nightcap, Carlyle's single and errors by Hood and Norton giving them a run in the second. Carlyle should have been out at the plate but Norton dropped Staley's throw to let him score.

Singles by Heath, Agnew, Rhodes and Lee gave the Stars two more runs in the fourth and stretched their margin to 3 to 0.

A walk to Jensen and Hood's line-drive homer over the wall gave the Angels two runs in their half of the fourth.

SMITH HITS CIRCUIT

Elmer Smith got those runs back for Hollywood in the fifth when he followed a walk to Twombly with a circuit smash over the right-field wall.

Hulvey took the mound for Hollywood in the fifth and the Angels promptly slugged him for three runs to tie the score. Norton doubled for a starter and Bigbee, batting for Cunningham, came through with a short single to left. Staley also singled and Norton scored. Jensen bunted the tying runs to second and third. Hood singled infield, scoring Bigbee and putting Staley on third. Tolson struck out amid a salvo of boos, but Hood stole second while Glug was taking his third strike. Hank then made a wild pitch and Staley came home with the tying run. Schulmerich struck out to end the round.

When Jones led off with a double in the sixth Hulvey was lifted and Couch sent to the mound. Johnny prevented a score in this inning but fell in the seventh to be charged with the defeat.

The Stars wind up the season with three games against the Missions here this week, while the Angels are scheduled to lose three to the Seals. The Sacs meet Seattle in their final three. Scores:

OIL and MINING

SEACLIFF FIELD OUTLOOK ROSIER

Hope for Deep Production Grows Brighter

Geological Theory About to be Borne Out

Experience of Richfield Oil Cited as Proof

According to reports from the field, the Seacliff district is about to come into its own. Many geologists have been of the opinion from the outset that shallow production in this field would be full of water and other trouble, but that there should be good deep-zone production there, and probably free from water.

This theory is apparently being borne out by results obtained in the deep well known as Miley No. 1, and operated by the Richfield Oil Company. This hole went down to 6519 feet and was about to be brought in when it was learned that the hole had drifted so far from vertical that something like 1500 feet of depth had been lost.

The drillers went back up, put in a plug and made a fresh start from a point where the hole was reasonably straight, and are again down something like 6000 feet, according to field reports. The interesting thing about this hole is that just off the original bottom it showed upward of 120 feet of magnificent oil sand, which tested the lightest gravity that has yet been found in the field and is regarded by geologists as convincing evidence that the 6500-foot zone at Seacliff is closely related to the same zone in the Ventura-avenue field, six miles east—a zone which is regarded as one of the biggest oil producers in the State.

It may be a matter of two weeks before Richfield can complete the Miley No. 1 at or near the original depth, but progress in it will be watched with great interest, for if it should prove to be a big producer it might change the whole aspect of oil production at Seacliff.

Syndicate Gets Bond and Option on May Lundy

BODIE, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—An eastern syndicate, headed by Kirby Thomas, president of the Florence-Goldfield Company, has taken a bond and option on the May Lundy gold-silver mine, near Bodie. The property has been idle twenty years, but has a productive record of $3,000,000 in gold. The new control plans to reopen old workings, provide additional equipment, and explore a large area of promising country thought to contain an extension of the main ore body.

E. E. Alston, Los Angeles capitalist, has become heavily interested in the Crescent Feldspar Company, operating large deposits between Las Vegas and Nipton. The corporation is preparing to ship heavily to Los Angeles plants, and is said to be amply financed for large-scale operations. Mr. Alston for several years has been one of the large grape fruit growers of Imperial Valley.

Nevada Mining Section Active

TONOPAH (Nev.) Oct. 1. (Exclusive)—As a result of leasing activities on the Brougher and Tonopah Divide mines, together with company developments in the Gold Zone, the Divide district is experiencing its heaviest production since the collapse of the field ten years ago.

Eleven leases are in ore on the Tonopah Divide, with each lease shipping one to seven carloads of ore per month. The zone of activity ranges from surface to the 400-foot level, with considerable high-grade silver-gold ore reported exposed.

Several leases on the Brougher are producing, and the Gold Zone, adjoining Tonopah Divide on the south, has apparently settled down to a steady output. Heavy production is being made from the 500-foot level, and drifting has started from the 600-foot level to pick up an extension of the ore body. The Alto, Gold Reef and other companies are reported preparing for resumption of vigorous work.

President Kirby Thomas of the Florence-Goldfield Company announces that plans are being completed for extensive work from the 800-foot level, in the hope of developing extensions of the main vein system about 200 feet below the old workings. The shaft is 1200 feet deep, but little work has been prosecuted below the 700-foot point. The Pearson lease on the 400-foot level, north of the old Gem shaft, has opened a new ledge of promising ore in virgin ground, with one foot carrying high values. The company is controlled by Los Angeles and New York people.

GAS FIELD SOUGHT

Four Wells Drilling As Test Of Tehama County District

Four wells are now going down in Tehama county to prove the existence of a large natural gas reservoir below the valley flow. The Crockett Oil Syndicate of Texas has taken over the old Burer well, which at 500 feet is putting out 500,000 feet of gas a day.

A well is being drilled southwest of Red Bluff by D. Woven. A third well was down 2100 feet, north of Red Bluff, but had to suspend operations because of lack of funds. A fourth well is to start immediately at Flournoy, west of Gerber, by a Long Beach syndicate.

MINE AREA BOOM SIGHTED

Rich Strike Reported on Property Near Famous Oil Comstock Lode in Nevada

Nevada is again on the threshold of a mining boom and the most singular part is that the new strike was made in one of its oldest camps and within a stone's throw of the famous billion-dollar Comstock Lode.

This is the report that was made yesterday in Los Angeles by Walter D. Cole, prominent Oakland attorney and mine operator, who has just returned from the scene of the new strike. According to Mr. Cole the new discovery was made in practically virgin territory on the 300-foot level of the old Keys mine, where three feet of rich sulphide ore averaging $110 per ton was uncovered. Two carloads already have been shipped to the smelters, returning $7300 to the owners.

Old-timers who have examined the new strike and the ore, state that it bears a striking similarity to the bonanza ore mined from the Comstock Lode. They point to the Mt. Davidson andesite and the black-gray quartz with its black sulphides, identical in character to the ores that yielded hundreds of millions to the Fair, Flood, Mackey and O'Brien estates.

Adjoining the Keys mine is the property of the Concordia-Virginia Mining Company recently acquired by a syndicate of Los Angeles financiers headed by Fred V. Gordon, John McKeon, Thomas Pierce and Joseph Shale. They have also acquired the Dead Pine mine in Cripple Creek, Colo. "High-grading" led to the ore possibilities of the Dead Pine mine. According to Mr. Cole a sack of very rich gold ore was found in a Nevada assay office. On account of its rich mineral content, a search was made to discover where it came from. This resulted in a trip to Colorado. A month's search there found the source of the rich mineral and shortly afterward a deal was closed with the owners.

Active work is now in progress on the Nevada holdings where, it is reported, the shaft is being lowered to find the extension of the rich ore recently encountered on the Keys mine, adjoining.

A complete equipment of machinery is being installed on the Dead Pine in Colorado to facilitate deep exploitation as the work done by the former owners exposed large bodies of ore, but was mined to shallow depth in comparison to neighboring properties, which are now producing from below the 2300-foot level.

NEW WELL FINISHED IN TAFT FIELD

Chanslor-Canfield Gets 1000-Barrel Producer at 2900 Feet

TAFT, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—The newest 1000-barrel oil well in this district is the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company No. 84 on Sec. 8, 32-23. The hole was completed at 2900 feet, casing was set at 2038 feet and an oil string was put down to 2890 feet. When production began a week ago the oil was cutting about 20 per cent, but this has since cleared up.

Unless the Republic Petroleum Company adjoining begins offset wells it is believed that the C.C.-M. O., will noit continue with further development work at present.

The Republic Petroleum Corporation, discoverer of the deep sand, in this area, has finished drilling its No. 32 well on Sec. 8, 32-23, at a depth of 3605 feet and preparations are being carried forward to run an oil string that will include 1000 feet of perforated pipe.

From 3332 feet to the bottom of the well there are 250 feet of excellent oil sand.

Pima Wildcat Gives Promise of Production

SAFFORD (Ariz.) Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Many local business men who have visited the Underwriters' Syndicate well, near Pima, express confidence that Arizona may soon have her first commercial oil producer.

Sinking has been mainly at the expense of an eastern group, headed by William Vaughn of New York. He states that oil indications have been present downward from 1450 feet.

Gas pressure became pronounced at 3104 feet, when conditions became such, with much light oil in evidence, that drilling was stopped and casing was set to shut off 3000 feet of hot water.

Mining Merger Brings Gain in Ore Production

Since the consolidation of the Gold Dust Mines, Inc., and the Santo Nino mines in Patagonia district of Santa Cruz county, Arizona, according to Manager J. L. Fulton, production has been increased, shipments now representing four sixty-ton carloads of ore weekly.

So far this month, Mr. Fulton says, 700 tons of ore have been shipped to smelter averaging in excess of $20 per ton in copper, silver and gold, about 60 per cent of which, it is said, is net profit. Production is to be materially increased as rapidly as possible.

RUMORS OF LARGE NEW MILL AFOOT

Verde Central Project at Jerome Regarded as Merely Experiment

JEROME (Ariz.) Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—It is asserted that the 300-ton mill nearing completion on the Verde Central is considered merely an experimental plant and that a much larger one will follow if profit attends its operation. Measurements are said to show the presence of fully 1,000,000 tons of ore, of better than 4 per cent copper content, between the 1000 and 1700 levels of the mine. Concentrates are to be trucked down to the United Verde extension reverberatory-furnace smelter at Clemenceau.

Mining men point out that Verde Central readily could connect with the extension haulage tunnel, which lies 100 feet lower than the new mine's 1900 level. Thus the ores could be handled by gravity to a mill and the smelter, while perfect ventilation and drainage also could be secured. Verde Central, a Calumet and Arizona annex, thus far has spent over $2,000,000 in development and equipment.

The Verde combination property is to be taken over by a new Detroit organization, the Verde Junior Copper Company. Initial work is to be extension of the 3000-foot Mescal tunnel, to cut the United Verde contact, where values are expected. The property also has a 300-foot shaft, to a 1000-foot drift, and two other shafts, 640 and 500 feet in depth.

Development of Tulare Mining Area Forecast

CAMP WISHON, Sept. 29. (Exclusive)—The first step in what may prove to be one of the most important mineral developments in the history of Tulare county, will be the construction of a road from Camp Wishon to zinc, lead and copper claims, three miles above here, to Alder Creek. Eastern capital recently purchased several groups of claims on Alder Creek and surveys have since been made by mining engineers.

Some of the reports received have been most optimistic. One engineer states that 10,000 tons of high-grade ore can be mined with a steam shovel, after the surface has been cleared off. Zinc is the most valuable mineral found in the formation, with good values of lead and copper showing.

Following completion of the road the company plans to develop the claims. If prospects bear out the good reports and justify mining operations, the oil flotation process will be used to separate the zinc from the ore.

New Producer Extends Round Mountain Field

Drilling about three miles southeast of the area in which R. S. Lytle proved up a new field in Kern county, ten days ago, Alfred Marsten is reported to have extended the Round Mountain field fully half a mile with his Marsten No. 1 wildcat.

The well was given a production test a few days ago, and is said to have produced at the rate of about sixty barrels a day. After a few hours it sanded up.

While oil was coming out there appeared to be about 200,000 cubic feet a day of gas in evidence. This would appear to indicate that the well should be good for from 150 to 200 barrels daily. The hole is shallow, being only about 1600 feet deep, according to reports.

DRILLING RESUMED AT OILDALE PROJECT

OILDALE, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—The Lindsay Oil Company has resumed operations, evidently having cleared up litigation that was reported to have caused a recent shutdown. The well is No. 1 on Sec. 6, 28-29, in the Poso Creek area. The depth at resumption of activity was 1625 feet.

TEXAS FIELD ALARMED BY SALT WATER

Intrusion May Help Solve Overproduction Problem in Lone Star State

AUSTIN (Tex.) Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—It is not improbable that the intrusion of water may solve the problem of overproduction of oil in the West Texas fields, according to information received by the oil and gas division of the Railroad Commission.

The situation in the Hendrick field of Winkler county is especially alarming, it is stated. Salt water encroachment is already felt by a number of wells, and how the field may be protected from this invasion is a matter that is receiving attention from both the oil companies and the State authorities. The Railroad Commission has requested Atty.-Gen. Claude Pollard to give it an opinion as to whether the State can share legally the cost with the interested oil companies of employing special deputies to be stationed in the Hendrick field to look after the water-incursion situation.

The oil proration advisory committee of the Hendrick field has requested that the Railroad Commission employ a special deputy for that service. R. D. Parker, chief supervisor of the oil and gas division of the Railroad Commission, is making a personal inspection of the West Texas and Panhandle fields, and it is expected that action by the Railroad Commission will be guided largely by the report which he will make upon his return.

Drifting Work Resumed After Mine Cave-in

OATMAN (Ariz.) Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—In the Gold Road has been completion of the work of driving around a cave-in and drifting again is in progress on the 300-foot level. On this level is a twenty-two-foot vein, recently cross-cut, declared of milling value. Other milling ore is being blocked out in the Line Road tunnel, in a body said to be twelve feet wide.

Of nearly 100 tons of ore a day now being handled in the Tom Reed mill, seventy-five tons are coming from Aztec territory, through the new workings.

The Collins Western Corporation of Los Angeles, G. A. Collins, president, is reported to have bought the Silver Coin and El Dorado groups in the Union Pass section, for consolidation with other property already optioned in the vicinity. A new company is to be organized and is to be financed in New York.

Heavy water pressure has been found in diamond drilling the Katherine, from the 900-foot level. Search is being prosecuted to pick up the faulted main vein.

Expect Project at Fruitvale to Make Producer

FRUITVALE, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—While swabbing has just gotten under way at the A. L. Marsten No. 1 well in the Fruitvale area after some time lost in trying to recover an undereamer lug, it is anticipated that the hole will become a producer. Mr. Marsten decided to leave the iron in the hole and has run in 170 feet of seven-inch perforated liner. Bottom of the hole is 3808 feet. The eleven-inch pipe was set at 3670 feet.

The Pacific Eastern Production Company's No. 4 well on Sec. 22, 28-27, is down 3763 feet with sixteen-inch pipe set at 656 feet. Spots of oil have shown up in the drilling. The Lahore No. 1 well spudded in September 19, is down 950 feet and the Pacific Eastern No. 1, on Sec. 21, 29-27, is drilling in gray sand and shale at a depth of 6035 feet.

NEW MINING EXCHANGE OFFICES OPENED HERE

H. J. Amigo & Co., member of the San Francisco Mining Exchange, has opened offices at Room 820, Stock Exchange Building in Los Angeles, where direct wires have been installed for handling market quotations. The office will be under the supervision of Allen Geiger, for many years connected with San Francisco and Los Angeles brokerage concerns.

SANTA FE HOLE NEARING FINISH

Shell to Drill Out Slusher No. 12 Well Today

Completion Held Unlikely at Present Depth

Project May be Producing by Next Friday

While there is a faint possibility that the Shell company's Slusher No. 12 well at Santa Fe Springs may come in today when it is drilled out, it is considered probable that the well will not come in from fourteen feet of open hole, but that the company will succeed in its asserted plan to core ahead and perhaps drill through upward of 100 feet of the sand before trying to bring the well in. It looks as though the well may not be on production before Friday.

This well's nearest competitor is the Texas Company's Mattern No. 7, which has been reaming for several days and yesterday had about 400 feet more to go. The company is doing a careful reaming job in order to facilitate the setting of a nine-inch string to a point near the bottom of the hole. It is expected that the well will be ready to cement off on Wednesday. It may be completed a week later.

Next in line for production from the deep zone, and unlike the Slusher and Mattern wells, which are deepening from the Meyer zone, the Superior Oil Company has one of its Wardman wells down more than 3000 feet, with new hole all the way. At the rate this well is going it should finish in fifteen to eighteen days.

Many other wells are nearing the 5000-foot level, and a great many are drilling between 3000 and 4000 feet. There are nearly 200 wells on the deep-zone program of this field.

INYO MINE SUIT ENDS BY TREATY

Fight Over Watterson's Claims in Cerro Gordo Settled Out of Court

Largely through the effort of Roy C. Troeger of Los Angeles, secretary and treasurer of the Estelle Mines Corporation, the litigation between that company and the Cerro Gordo Mining Company, with properties adjoining in Inyo county, and the Watterson Brothers interest in the Cerro Gordo, has been settled out of court.

By this settlement the Estelle Mines Corporation obtained perpetual leasehold rights to Cerro Gordo holdings, with easements over the property, together with the right and privilege to the use of all underground mine workings, and the use of all mining and milling equipment, valued in excess of $400,000.

The Estelle corporation, since the consummation of the settlement, a few weeks ago, has started mining operations in La Despresiada claim in which, in 1925, a new and important ore discovery was made on the 900-foot level, and from which, for a period of three months following, $25,000 monthly was taken in ore, which averaged about $75 per ton in lead and silver, lead predominating.

Quite a force of men is now employed in breaking ore for shipment from this source, which, with more extended development, is expected to more than duplicate the record of the Jefferson ore body, near by and in the same group, which is said to have produced between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000. Adolph Ramish is president of the Estelle corporation, and Thomas L. Chapman is vice-president.

Water Pocket Strike Floods Old Dominion

GLOBE (Ariz.) Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Old Dominion's 2700-foot level recently was flooded on striking a large water pocket. There was burning out of the electric pumps and the ordinary heavy water flow added to the difficulty. Sinking pumps promptly were lowered and the flooded levels now are ready for renewed work.

About twenty miles northeast of Safford is being developed a new placer field. About 2000 acres are under lease by an association, represented by E. W. Hartman. Machinery is being trucked to the field for operations expected to employ 150 men.

OIL CREATES TEXAS NABOB

Visit of Ira Yates and Family to Los Angeles Recalls Sudden Rise to Affluence

The recent visit to this city of Ira Yates and family, from Red Barn, Tex., recalls the sudden turn in the fortunes of the family, and the golden tide which swept them before it, rolling up a bank account amounting to more than $2,000,000 in less than twelve months from the day Mr. Yates rounded up his cattle to satisfy the mortgage on the old ranch.

Fame and fortune drove the Yates family from the ranch to San Angelo, Tex., and there they were so pursued by the curious that they took to travel and finally came to Los Angeles, whence they journeyed to other big cities, seeking to lead their former quiet life. The old red barn, on the ranch is the pivot now of a teeming city of several thousand inhabitants, and that city is said to be known by the Postoffice Department and by State officials as Red Barn, Tex.

If all of the 256 oil wells upon the ranch of Ira Yates were allowed to flow their full capacity and the oil sold at current market price, the total daily revenue from this source would be approximately $3,000,000, according to reports. Of that amount Mr. Yates would receive a one-eighth royalty, amounting to a daily income of more than $350,000. At that rate he might receive the fabulous sum of $125,750,000 a year.

These are not speculative figures. They are based on actual measured potential production of the wells. Under the prorating order of the State Railroad Commission, the present production is but a fractional part of what it might be, but even now Mr. Yates is piling up a fortune from oil royalties at the rate of more than $2,000,000 a year. That is pretty good for a man who was admittedly financially flat a little more than three years ago.

During that short period he has risen from a debt-burdened cattle man with foreclosure of his land and live stock staring him in the face to the position of one of the wealthiest men of Texas. He says that he has far more money than he knows what to do with. He keeps a force of financial experts constantly employed in investing the proceeds from his oil royalties.

Underlying his ranch is the greatest oil pool, it is believed, that was ever found in the United States. Three record-breaking wells are in this Yates field. One has a measured capacity of 126,300 barrels a day; another, 125,000 barrels a day and the third and latest well, 146,000 barrels a day. There are eighteen other wells in the field, each capable of producing 50,000 barrels of oil daily, it is asserted.

When the first well was started on Mr. Yates's ranch, it was in wildcat territory, far removed from any production. Yates had lived for fifteen years upon the land and had his property mortgaged. He had rounded up all of his cattle and was driving the herd to the nearest railroad point to turn them over to the representatives of the cattle loan company to satisfy the mortgage that was held against him. The herd was bedded down within sight of the oil-well derrick, ready for an early start the next morning, when the first gusher blew in.

To Mr. Yates it was almost unbelievably good luck. He scattered his herd of cattle back on the range and began collecting royalties. He paid off the indebtedness with the first funds he received from that source. Within a few weeks the desolate ranch was a teeming scene of activity.

A town began to spring up around the old red barn which is now a thriving metropolis of several thousand inhabitants. The same land which Mr. Yates bought in fee fifteen years ago for $3.50 an acre has already brought forth millions of dollars worth of oil, and the pool has barely been touched, it is asserted by operators.

Old Normandie Gold Reopening

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Rejuvenation of the Normandie gold mine in the Deadman Flat district, four miles below Grass Valley, has been undertaken by Albert Greenwald, E. A. Featherstone and Mack Sernet of Los Angeles. The property for many years was worked along limited lines, and has yielded considerable rich ore. It is located on the same mineral belt as the Alcalde and other noted producers, and is said to contain promising veins of commercial ore.

Sugarman Mines, Inc., of Los Angeles has completed extension of electric power to the old Sugarman property, three miles north of the historic camp of Sonora, and has completed the new shaft to a depth of 225 feet. Sinking will be continued to the 400-foot level before lateral work is begun. The Sugarman for many years was a notable producer, and the new work is designed to develop extensions of the main veins in virgin territory. The main ledge ranges from one to six feet in width, and is three feet wide in the bottom of the shaft. The management reports that bunches of rich ore are mingled with milling quartz of good grade.

The Reorganized Silver King Mining Company, controlled by Southern Californians, reports that the crosscut from the 180-foot level is apparently close to the main vein of its Schoolhouse mine, near Coulterville. This ledge yielded rich gold ore above the 100-foot level, and prospecting indicates that the ore body is widening with depth.

California Premier Mines Company, working the Black Oak and Rising Sun gold mines near Colfax, has increased capitalization from 1,000,000 to 1,600,000 shares, and announced that large reserves of profitable ore have been opened in stopes from the 600-foot level. Drifting has started from the new 700-foot level to pick up the ore bodies.

MINING MEN ARE HERE

Wright W. Lawhon and Dean Woodward of Phoenix, Ariz., mining operators, were Los Angeles visitors last week, conferring with associates in mining enterprises.

ALPHA MINE SHIPPING AT EARLY DATE

Hayden Smelter to Get Ores from Property in Wallapai District

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Ore shipments are to start soon from the Alpha property, in the Wallapai section, billed to the Hayden smelter. Large income is expected from the shipments, helping in further development of the property and in the work being prosecuted to cut a distant copper vein at depth. In charge of the work is Pete Vukoye, one of the best-known Northern Arizona miners.

Three feet of high-grade shipping ore, carrying native silver and copper, is being taken from a winze below the Evahom tunnel at Mineral Park. In addition to the pay streak, much good milling ore is being stacked on the surface.

A three-mile road is being built to the shaft of the American Flag mine of the Wright Creek Mining Company, to lower the cost of ore shipments. Ruby silver has been found in a winze from the tunnel level.

In the Music Mountain section, James F. Melkie, manager of the Portland and Mispah property, is preparing to install a milling plant.

The Wishon Mining Corporation is being formed, to carry on the work of the Wishon Exploration Company, which has gone into liquidation, following death of one of its principal backers.

ACTIVITY IN SAN JOAQUIN FIELD TOLD

Start of Six Projects During Week Principal Major Operations

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Six oil wells were started last week in the San Joaquin Valley. In the Midway field the Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company got under way with its No. 16 well on Sec. 8, 32-24, near where the Republic Petroleum Corporation and the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company has been making history in a new deep sand. The Standard Oil Company started its No. 28 on Sec. 7, 32-24, in the Midway field, not far from the Honolulu well.

The Northern Oil Company has spudded in its No. 15 well in the Sunset sector on Sec. 1, 11-23.

The Reynolds Oil and Gas Company has begun activities in the Round Mountain area by spudding in its No. 1 well on Sec. 6, 28-29.

The Signal Oil and Gas Company, which has had considerable success in the Poso Creek field, has begun its No. 4 well on Sec. 27, 27-28.

C. C. Friend is going to test out his property in Kings county and has spudded in his No. 1 well on Sec. 12, 23-19.

Angeleno Grant Adds to Values in Old Selman

SUPERIOR (Ariz.) Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Declarations are made locally that another great copper mine has been added in development of the old Selman property, eleven miles off the Florence road south of Superior Junction. Superior business men and the Pinal county board of supervisors are preparing for the building of a new five-mile road to the property, to enable more direct hauling of its ores to the Magma smelter here.

The property is owned by the Pacific Lead-Silver Mines Company, a Los Angeles organization, with 500 stockholders in that city, headed by S. A. Ratliff. For more than twenty years the mine was operated by John Selman, who shipped lead-silver ores from the capping of the copper vein. Now it is said that assays above 16 per cent copper have been made from deep work on a fissure vein twenty-three feet in width. This ore mainly is chalcopyrite, with bornite, in Pinal schist.

Production of New Belridge Wells Light

McKITTRICK, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Two new wells which are small producers have recently been completed in the Belridge field. The Berry Oil Company has its No. 94 on the beam doing about forty-eight barrels of 25.6 deg. gravity oil daily. The Union Oil Company's King No. 1 on a bailing test developed thirty-five barrels during a five-hour run.

The Berry well is situated on Sec. 30, 28-21. It was completed at a depth of 685 feet. The casing was set at 644 feet and an oil string was set at 683 feet. The company now has the rig up for its No. 95 well on the same section.

The Cymric Oil Company is building a rig in the Belridge field on Sec. 26, 29-21 for its No. 1 well.

Intermittent Quests in Five Years Futile

New Well Near Test; Ano to Resume Sinking

The Cosa Mesa district, adj to Newport Beach, is under another oil-fever epidemic. On for the last five years there been waves of oil excitement but nothing of consequence been discovered.

The Jordan & Manning Co is drilling what is expected to a deep test at Nineteenth street Placentia avenue. The hole down 3200 feet, and is schedule 5000 feet. The well was testi a water shutoff yesterday.

The old Interstate Oil Co No. 2 well at Seventeenth and centia, has been shut down for time at 2500 feet, but is report be scheduled for early resumpti activities.

The Barmoor wells, which been yielding heavy oil from a of 650 feet, are still on the but are said to be making water.

Gold Reef Plan to Use Shaft Adjoining Mi

Gold Reef Consolidated M Company of Nevada, F. A. Li president, and with transfer in Los Angeles, is perfecting rangements with the Gold Zone vide Mining Company, owning joining property in Divide di near Tonopah, to use the Zone shaft in the further dev ment of its property.

At the 600-foot level of the Zone shaft, Mr. Lindlof says, a twenty-two-foot body of $25 of gold ore is exposed from wall, the Gold Reef Company start a 300-foot drift, following ledge into its own property.

It is estimated it will require ty days to make this conne and it is the intention, if the Zone vein maintains its size value when followed into Gold ground, to immediately begi campaign of ore production marketing.

The Gold Reef shaft, equi with electrically operated hoist, attained a depth of 200 feet, 400 feet more to go to reach known ore body of the Gold mine. The Gold Reef Company lieves, however, that it will more economical, with a great ing in time, to enter its gr through the avenue of the Zone shaft.

Last Minute News From Petroleum Fields and Marts of Trade

OIL EXHAUSTION FORECASTS HIT

Heating Publication Avers Reserves Ample

Points Fallacy of Estimate Made During 1926

Cites California Production to Refute Theories

All predictions thus far about America's oil supply have proved to be understatements, according to the Oil Heating Institute. It asserts that notwithstanding increased demands due to the popularity of the automobile and the household oil heater our petroleum reserves should prove ample for generations to come. Discovery of new oil fields and scientific improvements in working petroleum deposits and preventing waste have conclusively contradicted early prophecies of an oil famine.

Estimates of reserves made as late as 1926 already have been proved far too low. In 1921 the United States Geological Survey made estimates of the future reserves of oil in the United States, and in that report it was said to have estimated that California would produce 1,850,000,000 barrels of petroleum.

"California has already produced, in only six years, over one-third of its estimated possible production, and is still producing with no diminution of supply," says the Institute. "And by 1930 California alone will have produced more oil than the entire visible supply was supposed to be in 1923!"

All knowledge based on the recent discoveries of new oil fields shows that whatever our future requirements, these newly discovered fields alone will be adequate sources of supply for a long time to come.

Standard Gets Small Flow in Fellows Well

FELLOWS, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—In the Standard Oil Company's No. 83 on Sec. 19, 31-24, in the North Midway district, a production test showed about 125 barrels of oil per day with eight barrels of water. The hole was drilled to 4448 feet.

Standard's No. 91 well on Sec. 33, 31-24, has been completed and is pumping about 148 barrels per day through an oil string set at 4478 feet. Bottom of the hole is 4489 feet and there is a nine-inch string of casing set at 4357 feet.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Four Samples

KYBURG, Sept. 8.—Q.: I am sending you some specimens of Andalusite and iron ore. Could the iron be separated from the aluminum silicate without too much cost? I am also inclosing a rock which I shall put in as No. 4. Is the black stuff in some of the specimens manganese or cobalt oxide? X.

A.: It is probable that the iron and aluminum silicate could not be separated at a commercial profit—especially from the grade of the samples. This applies to No. 1. No. 2 is one of the Scapolites, (radiated silicate of lime and alumina.) When finely powdered Scapolite is perfectly decomposed by hydrochloric acid without forming a siliceous jelly (which serves to distinguish it from Meionite.) Further analysis gives proof that the specimen is of the Meionite variety of Scapolite. No. 3 seems to be partly garnetyte (rock) mixture carrying iron oxides and no cobalt. This rock is spotted with pyrite and microscopical base-metal sulphides. Sample No. 4 contains no cobalt, and the black stains present are of manganese.

Four Specimens

CIMA, Sept. 8.—Q.: I am sending you under separate cover four samples; two are country rock and the other two are of a lead variety. Am also inclosing a piece of work made by a gopher—handle it with care! Thanking you for this and all past favors. L.

A.: That variety of "gopher work" seems to be a sort of nest made at the center of a needle-palm. It is a curiosity, and it is and was handled with care. Sample No. 1 carries baryte, dendritic manganese, hematite, a trace of copper, traces of galenite, blende, and arsenopyrite. No. 2 is a spongiform, siliceous rock and is a beautiful study when a part of it is placed in the field of a microscope. In the named field handsome crystals of Vanadinite (lead vanadate) appear with traces of wulfenite (lead molybdate) and traces of plumbic ochre No. 3 is a banded shale-like rock containing tremolite, baryte, manganese, iron, traces of microscopical pyrite, and a trace of native gold. No. 4 is intermediate between jasper and altered hematite. It reacts for silica, lime carbonate, and zinc is present in low percentage.

Two Samples

Rare Diseases' Presence Noted in California

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Three rare diseases have made their appearance in California and study of them has been carried on for several months under the direction of Dr. Walter M. Dickie, head of the State Department of Health.

These diseases were named by Dr. Dickie as tularemia, malta fever and coccidicidal granuloma. The first was declared contracted from rabbits and rodents, and is seldom fatal. Malta fever is primarily a disease contracted through drinking raw, infected goat's milk. It, too, is seldom fatal, Dr. Dickie said. Coccidicidal granuloma is caused by a certain mould fungus and is often fatal.

Resident Here Loses Brother

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Dennis Dunivan, 65 years of age, a pensioner of the C. B. & Q. Railroad and a brother of Mrs. Margaret Koch of Los Angeles, is dead here. He was one of the most liked men in railroad circles, having kept the contacts he built up in his years with the company.

He leaves besides Mrs. Koch, his widow, Mrs. Amanda Dunivan; a son, Charles, Independence, Mo.; six brothers, John W., Kansas City; Daniel, Denver; Patrick, Redrock, Okla.; Thomas, Morrison, Okla., and Edward, Gentry, Ark. Burial will be in Elmwood cemetery here.

DISTILLER RUN TO EARTH

TUCSON (Ariz.) Sept. 30 (Exclusive)—Three Mexicans have been bound over for trial in Federal Court after detection in the operation of a still that had been established in a novel setting. It was in a concrete-lined chamber reached by a fifty-foot tunnel that had been dug from a dry and apparently abandoned well.

FIRE CHIEFS TO MEET

Three Governors Expected to Take Part in Coast Convention

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 30. (AP)—The governors of three States are expected to participate in the annual convention of the Pacific Coast Fire Chiefs opening here tomorrow for one week.

Gov. Patterson of Oregon and Gov. Balzar of Nevada are to arrive in Sacramento Tuesday. They will be met by a committee probably led by Gov. Young and city officials. The fire chiefs' organization embraces Pacific Coast States, Montana, Nevada, British Columbia, Arizona, the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands.

Approximately 2500 persons are expected to attend the business sessions and demonstrations of fire-fighting apparatus.

THREE HONORED FOR ROOSEVELT

Medals Awarded Lingbergh, Hughes and Chapman

Trio Held to Measure Up to American's Standard

Presentation Will Be Made on T. R.'s Birthday

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State, Frank M. Chapman, noted ornithologist, and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will receive the Roosevelt medals for distinguished service this year, according to an announcement made last night by James R. Garfield, president of the Roosevelt Memorial Association.

Mr. Hughes is honored for his work in the administration of public office and in the development of public and international law; Dr. Chapman for his studies of American bird life; Col. Lindbergh for the example he has given American youth, alike in peril and in triumph, of courage, modesty and steady judgment.

ON ANNIVERSARY

The medals will be bestowed by the president of the association at a banquet at Roosevelt House, the Roosevelt birthplace, at 28 East Twentieth street, New York, October 27, the seventieth anniversary of President Roosevelt's birth.

The Roosevelt medal, which is three inches in diameter and of solid gold, shows on one side a head of Theodore Roosevelt and on the other a flaming sword with the motto: "If I must choose between righteousness and peace, I choose righteousness." It was designed by James Earle Fraser.

The committee on whose recommendations the trustees of the association made the awards consists of Mrs. C. Grant La Farge, chairman, Henry J. Allen, Frank Knox, Arthur W. Page, Albert Shaw, Herbert Knox Smith, Julian Street, E. A. Van Valkenburg, Owen Wister.

Charles Evans Hughes, to whom a medal is awarded for distinguished service in the administration of public office and in the development of public and international law, has served the American people with power and devotion in every public office he has held, since, in 1905, as counsel for the Armstrong insurance commission he conducted the investigation into the activities of the great insurance companies.

Frank M. Chapman, to whom a medal is awarded for the promotion of the study of natural history, is curator of the department of ornithology at the American Museum of Natural History, founder and editor of the magazine, Bird Lore, and author of numerous books on birds which have had an extraordinary influence. President Faunce of Brown University in conferring the degree of doctor of science upon him in 1913 spoke of him as "one who has taught men to know the birds, and children to love them."

AFTER TEDDY'S HEART

Charles A. Lindbergh, who receives the medal for "the leadership of youth and the development of American character," has been chosen by the trustees of the association for this honor less for his achievements in the field of aviation than for those qualities of mind and character which have made him a powerful influence toward courageous, clean and intelligent living. To a generation, hearing on all sides that money is the standard of success and that the way to achievement and fame lies through aggressive self-seeking, publicity and the cultivation of the polite vices, Charles Lindbergh, living cleanly, scorning publicity, putting aside offers of untold wealth, came and achieved such a triumph as no young man in the world's history ever achieved before.

The Roosevelt awards, which were established by the Roosevelt Memorial Association in 1923, are given annually in three out of ten fields. These fields are: Administration of public office; development of public and international law, promotion of industrial peace, conservation of natural resources, promotion of social justice, the study of natural history, the promotion of outdor life, the promotion of the national defense, the leadership of youth and the development of American character, eminent contribution to literature in the field of biography, history or the philosophy of government.

Wales Beaten in Golf Game

MOMBASA (British East Africa) Sept. 30. (AP)—The Prince of Wales, representing the British Navy in a golf match with a local club today, was defeated by R. D. Browne, three up and one to play.

The Prince who is on a good-will tour of East Africa, with his young brother, the Duke of Gloucester, later attended a garden party at which he met a number of native chiefs and wound up the day with a dinner and dance at Mombasa Club.

QUEER TWIST OF FATE SAVES FAMILY'S LIVES

SCRANTON (Pa.) Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—A queer twist of fate early this morning saved the lives of a family of seven when their home was wrecked by a terrific explosion of a moonshine still and was immediately enveloped in flames which razed the house. Tony Camero, miner, his wife and five children early in the evening were at home, but decided to visit a relative. A heavy downpour kept the family from returning, and at 1 o'clock this morning the still exploded.

ANGELENO'S BROTHER DIES IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 30. (Exclusive)—Edgar T. Beeks, 72 years of age, a former employee of the government Census Bureau, died here of the infirmities of old age. He was a brother of Mrs. G. G. Goodwin, Los Angeles. He also leaves a brother, Charles E. Beeks, Baldwin, Kan., and another sister, Mrs. Laura B. Harpster, Kansas City. Burial will be at Baldwin.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

Por el Profesor R. Guerero
DEL DEPARTAMENTO ESPANOL DE "THE TIMES"

En el ejemplo 15 de mi Plática anterior dice "su contrincante" en vez de "tu contrincante", y en el 33, "parrila" por "parrilla".

Una de mis lectoras me escribe para preguntarme si, efectivamente, no existen en español vocablos equivalentes a las voces inglesas "to park" y "parking", aplicadas al acto de dejar un vehículo de transporte en algún sitio donde no estorbe el tránsito rodado de una vía pública cualquiera. Agrega mi lectora que, en un artículo sobre barbarismos locales subscrito por don Victoriano Salado Alvarez, y publicado por uno de los diarios en español que se imprimen en Los Angeles, leyó lo siguiente:

"PARQUEAR.—Este verbo me parece muy razonable y necesario. Significa colocar el automóvil en el sitio preciso para que su dueño pueda dejarlo sin pérdida de licencia inviolación de los reglamentos de policía. En Méjico mismo, donde hay cuatro carros desvencijados, ya es un problema el "parqueo", y mucho más lo es en lugares como Los Angeles, donde existen 560,000 coches para todo el distrito, amén de 60,000 y pico de carros de transporte. El problema del "parqueo" es de tal manera importante, que no sólo está ocupada buena parte de la ciudad con lugares de "parking", sino que se ha empezado a resolver la dificultad abriendo edificios especiales—ya hay seis en esta ciudad—en que por una módica suma se puede dejar el automóvil, y mediante ascensores y empleo de escaleras y rampas ingeniosamente dispuestas, se le mantiene perfectamente custodiado y a salvo de la intemperie."

Debo decir a mi lectora que don Victoriano Salado Alvarez, habilista, literato e historiador de gran mérito, es uno de los escritos más correctos que tiene Méjico, y ocupa el puesto de secretario de la Academia Mejicana, correspondiente de la Real Española. Maneja con suma elegancia la lengua castellana, y ojalá pudiera yo imitar su castizismo estilo, siquiera en las grandes ocasiones. Todo lo cual no obsta para que en esta vez se olvidara de un conocidísimo vocablo castellano, que traduce con toda propiedad la referido acepción de "to park". Es el verbo "apartar". Se dirá que éste no denota privativamente el acto en cuestión. Tampoco "to park" tiene esa significación exclusiva, como puede verse en cualquier diccionario inglés. La aceptación de "apartar un vehículo" es una de tantas que tiene "to park", si bien la de empleo más frecuente en la época actual.

He aquí la definición que de "apartadero", en algunas de sus acepciones, nos da la Enciclopedia de Espasa: "Ensanche que de trecho en trecho hay en las carreteras estrechas, de montaña generalmente, para que puedan cruzar los carruajes que caminan en distinta dirección.— En ferrocarriles, la vía enlazada por ambos extremos, o por uno solo, con la principal, cerca de las estaciones. En el segundo caso se llama "vía muerta o perdida". Sirve para dejar las locomotoras y los vagones para que quede expedita la vía general. Han de tener trescientos metros de longitud, por lo menos.— (Marina). Sitio donde permanecen ancladas las embarcaciones para que quede libre la navegación fluvial."

En vista de lo transcrito, no podremos menos de convenir en que "parking place" pueda verterse al español con toda propiedad por "apartadero", y "parking building", por "apartadero" también, o "edificio de apartaderos", o , si se quiere, por "apartadero de tantos pisos". Las conocidas frases inglesas, "Park your car against the curb" (Aparta tu coche contra el bordillo); "No parking here" (Aquí no se apartan coches; no aparte aquí su coche); "Parking prohibited between the posts" (Se prohibe apartar coches entre estos postes, se traducen como se indica entre paréntesis.

El verbo "estacionar", que se usa en Méjico para expresar la acción a que nos referimos, no es enteramente propio para el caso, pues un coche puede estar estacionado sin estar apartado; cuando se le estaciona, por ejemplo, en medio de la vía pública, o en cualquier sitio donde obstruya el tráfico.

La lectora a quien me he referido dice que no sabe a qué corresponde en inglés otro barbarismo fronterizo, que el señor Salado Alvarez cita en estos términos: EL CLOCHE ("Cloth", cierta parte del automóvil). Una errata de imprenta—"cloth" por "clutch"—es lo que impidió a mi lectora comprender el origen de tal barbarismo. "Clutch", que en español se traduce por "embrague", es el órgano por medio del cual el árbol motor o cigüeñal (crank shaft) engrana o se acopla con el árbol de transmisión que comunica el movimiento al eje trasero de un auto. Las expresiones "to let in the clutch", "to let off the clutch" se vierten por "embragar" y "desembragar". Para desembragar se pisa y empuja el pedal de desembrague; para embragar, se suelta dicho pedal.

Desea mi lectora, por último, conocer el equivalente español de "crank". Puede traducirlo por "manubrio" o "cigüeña". El que llevan los automóviles delante sirve para hacer girar el árbol motor, y lograr que la máquina arranque. En español se llama "manubrio de arranque." La mayor parte de los coches tienen ya "arranque automático" (self-starter), que se hace funcionar sin más que pisar un botón que hay en el piso del pescante.

Grain Magnate Assails Liquor Code of Smith

CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (AP)—James A. Patten, widely known grain trader, today issued a statement attacking Gov. Smith because of his stand on prohibition.

"To those who are intelligently opposed in principle to the Eighteenth Amendment and who regard it as destructive of the proper relation between the Federal government and the citizen, there is no hope for relief in the proposal of Gov. Smith to deal with that amendment," said Mr. Patten.

"Instead of a clear, courageous plan to meet and correct the evils in the present situation, Gov. Smith offers a plan which his own party followers in Congress already have declared they will not follow, which can never be operative and which at best would double the opportunities for graft and crime."

CHAMBERLAIN BANS POLITICS

Refuses Flatly to Discuss Naval Treaty

Sir Austen's Health Much Improved by Trip

British Notable and Family Guests of Fairbanks

Politics will be absolutely taboo during the fortnight that Sir Austen Chamberlain will spend in California, the British Secretary of Foreign Affairs told newspaper men who met him yesterday afternoon aboard the Dollar liner President Adams. When he left London September 2, last, Sir Austen was a miserably ill man, but his health has so vastly improved during the ocean voyage that Lady Chamberlain yesterday declared him to be "an entirely different person."

Before leaving the harbor for the motion-picture colony, where he is entertained while in Los Angeles, Sir Austen made the only formal call of his stay here. It was a visit to Admiral Pratt aboard the flagship California, but soon was terminated so that the visitor might hasten to his Hollywood friend's home.

Steamship officials informed the army of reporters who boarded the ship to interview the noted Britisher that he would positively not see any representatives, but when he was found on deck he proved thoroughly Democratic and willing to talk on all subjects except world politics.

CHECKS WIFE'S REPLY

"I have had nothing but politics for four solid years," he said, "and am trying hard to keep them out of my mind for a while, that's why I am here in California."

A reporter asked him whether he had been informed that the United States had while he was at sea repudiated the Franco-British naval compromise, which Sir Austen championed just before his nervous breakdown last August, he replied in the negative, but when Lady Chamberlain started to qualify the statement he told her sharply: "Look here, don't allow them to draw you out on that subject," and to his interviewers, "I simply will not talk to you about politics, why do you bother with my politics when you have your own Presidential campaign here? Tell me about that."

He was asked, "Since you decline to discuss international politics, will you tell us whether you feel definite, lasting progress has been made since the war toward attainment of world peace?"

"That's the very thing I will not talk about. If that isn't politics, tell me what is."

"Sir Austen, since you represent the policies of the British Empire and in a sense are the guest of the American people, will you give them a personal expression?"

DISCUSSES WEATHER

"I don't know that I'm the guest of America," he replied. "In fact, I think we are to be regarded as equals. I don't want to talk about politics. I want to tell you how fine the weather has been on the entire trip and how we have enjoyed the trip.

"This is just a pleasure tour. Tomorrow we are going to have dinner with Douglas Fairbanks and Miss Pickford and tomorrow we sail for San Francisco, where we will be the guests for ten days of Mr. Crocker, a friend. We will go east by way of Canada, stopping at Banff, in the Canadian Rockies, and return here in November."

Lady Chamberlain expressed herself as highly pleased at Sir Austen's return to health.

"The trip has been just the making of him," she declared. "The change has left him so completely different to his entirely different personality."

BRIDGE PLAYERS

Upon leaving the steamer at the dock pier, Sir Austen shook hands farewell with his fellow-passengers. Other travelers on the President Adams said he proved thoroughly democratic during the voyage from Balboa, took part in the ship social affairs and was an enthusiastic bridge player.

In addition to Sir Austen and Lady, Lady Ivy Muriel Chamberlain, O.B.E., there is in their party their 16-year-old daughter, Diane; their son, Lawrence, 11; Miss Dorothy Gratchley, a friend of Miss Chamberlain; Percy Ernest Phillips, representative from the British Foreign Office, and a governess, Miss E. S. Murison.

DYER WRIT ESCAPED BY CLERGYMAN

Action Over Occupancy of Parsonage Held Up as He Occupies Pulpit

A few minutes' delay in the arrival of a process-server at the parsonage of Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church yesterday gave Dr. Frank Dyer, the fighting pastor, at least twenty-four hours more of unmolested occupancy.

The man with the legal writ arrived about 11 a.m. only to learn that Dr. Dyer was in his pulpit and could not be disturbed during the service, at least. The document is formal notice of a suit filed by the extension society of the church which seeks to oust the pastor from the church residence property.

The door call was answered by Bonar Dyer, son of the clergyman, who explained that his father was conducting services and no further attempt was made to serve the writ. Dr. Dyer is said to have declared he will not accept service of any legal papers in the church, and he said yesterday he knows nothing of the ouster suit except what he has read in the newspapers.

Asked what will be his attitude when service is obtained on him, he replied that will depend entirely on the advice of his attorney.

Both Dyer and anti-Dyer groups conducted services in the church yesterday, the antis worshiping in a small room in the rear of the building, while the Dyerites field forth in the main auditorium. Nothing of a disturbing nature was reported by either faction.

WORK HELD UP

The City Council has declined to start proceedings for the improvement of Vine street from Ivarene avenue to Yucca street until a majority property owners petition asking for the improvement is presented.

Caving Ground Delays Gusher Blaze Battle

Workmen excavating a chamber beneath the fiery throat of the Getty gusher at Santa Fe Springs, which has been aflame for fifteen days, yesterday were having difficulty with earth cavings in the subterranean room. The swift rush of gas and oil through the casing is causing vibration that loosens the earth before protective shorings can be erected.

The difficulty in staying the earth about the casing in the room where approximately fifteen men will be required to work with a drill probably will delay the attempt to quench the fire. It now appears the room will not be completed until late today.

On the drilling of the casing with special engineering equipment it is planned to divert the main flow of the gas and oil through a line laid in a 500-foot tunnel, thereby weakening the flames, and simultaneously injecting tons of mud on the mouth of the well to extinguish the fire.

Spanish War Veterans Off to Rally at Havana

Three hundred Spanish American War veterans left yesterday afternoon in a special section of the Southern Pacific Argonaut en route to Havana, Cuba, to attend the national encampment of the Spanish American War Veterans.

Superior Judge Galbreth, presiding in Department No. 35, a past commander of the veterans' organization, and Mrs. Galbreth are in the party. The veterans will be gone six weeks.

CITY HALL INSURANCE OBTAINED

Magnificent New Edifice Given Coverage for Low Rate on Coast

Fire insurance amounting to $3,187,800, which is 70 per cent coverage, is being placed on the new City Hall by the Board of Public Works under the direction of Commissioner Dunn. The policies are being widely distributed among a large number of companies. Showing that the City Hall is the most precious piece of property the city owns, the total carried on all other city buildings, exclusive of water, power and harbor department properties, is but $1,075,734.

The new City Hall being of the latest fire-proof construction is being insured a rate for three years of 50 cents on each $100 value. The rate on the old City Hall, because of its outworn construction was $1.86 on each $100 valuation. The new City Hall rate of 50 cents on each $100 value is the lowest rate given any municipal building on the Pacific Coast, Commissioner Dunn said, and is even lower than the rate charged for insurance on the forty-two-story Smith Building at Seattle. The annual premium on the Los Angeles City Hall is $5334. The cost of the premium on the old City Hall was $19,731 a year.

New Building Requested for Keeping Papers

Erection of a separate building to house the archives and activities of the County Recorder's office is recommended in the the annual report of County Recorder Logan, on file with the Board of Supervisors. The present quarters are inadequate for the business handled, he reports.

During the past year 559,336 documents were filed, an increase of 10,000 as compared with the previous year. The county's receipts from filing fees and other revenues of the office totaled $820,314.40, as against disbursements of $595,836.05, showing a profit of $224,478.44.

PARROT LOST

"Can Do," a Javanese parrot brought back to Los Angeles by Bess Marrin, 901 South Manhattan Place, disappeared in the vicinity of her home a few days ago and the entire neighborhood has been searching the district since. The bird was just learning to speak English. His favorite words were "Can't do it" and "Dumbell," and he can be identified by his continuous use of these words.

MILL CREEK FIRE REVIVES

Brush Flames Sweep Northward and Volunteers Called to Replace Tired Men on Front Line

After being under control yesterday morning, flames in Mill Creek Canyon broke out anew at noon and aided by lower humidity and slightly stronger breezes were again sweeping northward last night along Crystal Creek, according to reports from the San Bernardino National Forest headquarters.

Volunteer fire fighters were called for in San Bernardino, Redlands and Riverside to relieve hundreds of men who have been on the fire lines for several days and nights and with these re-enforcements it is believed all danger will be past in the next twenty-four hours. Angeles Forest officials in Pasadena sent fifty volunteers to the fire late yesterday and more are expected to go from Los Angeles and surrounding communities.

Approximately 2000 acres have been burned over by the San Bernardino fire and to date the blaze has been confined to a small area bounded on two sides by large firebreaks and on the other sides by the Santa Ana River and burned-over section.

The bodies of the two men burned to death Saturday when they became separated from the main group of fighters still were unidentified last night and are being held at Redlands mortuary awaiting an inquest, which will be held this morning.

Two other men were seriously burned following the new outbreak yesterday and rushed to the Ramona Hospital at Redlands where one was identified as Charles Black, an Indian, while the other's identity is not learned.

GAME STATION WILL BE BUILT

New Form to be Established in Vicinity of Chino

Project Will be Supported by License Fund

Work Will Parallel That Done at Yuntville

A game farm and experimental station to cost about $80,000 will be constructed by the California Fish and Game Commission in San Bernardino county, about five miles southeast of Chino. Construction work, according to Commissioner Clarkson, who announced the commission's plans for the new game farm, will begin at once.

The Southern California game farm, according to Mr. Clarkson, was made possible when the Los Serranos Country Club donated to the commission thirty acres of club land. Two main boulevards adjoin the tract and, according to game experts, it will make an ideal site for such a farm, as plenty of water is available.

MANY VISIT FARM

Records of the now operating Yountville, Napa county, game farm show that 60,000 sportsmen visited it last year and, according to the commission, many more should visit the new farm as soon as it is in operation. The Yountville farm is supported by the Fish and Game Commission without cost to taxpayers and the construction and operation of the new farm will also be paid for from commission funds without additional taxation.

The new game farm, according to Commissioner Clarkson, will include complete fencing of the thirty acres as well as seven and one-half acres under wire and the construction of buildings, pens, runways and incubator rooms.

The farm, it was announced, will not only rear and loose known California game birds, but will determine experimentally what other game birds are suitable for introduction into those parts of California where native game has disappeared. Birds from South America, Africa and Europe all will be experimented with at the new farm.

Plans already made for the new game farm list Hungarian partridges, pheasants of various kinds, tinamous, Chinese bamboo quail, California valley and mountain quail, grouse, ducks of all kinds, peafowl and wild turkeys for breeding.

In pointing out what is planned for the Los Serranos game farm, the Fish and Game Commission says that it intends to duplicate in a great measure the work now being done at the Yountville farm. This farm is one of the largest single game farms in the world, the construction of which was completed in the summer of 1926. There are eight acres under wire, covering 500 pens. There the division raises pheasants, quail and partridges and is experimenting with other wild game birds. Last year more than 3000 pheasants were distributed throughout the State and this year approximately 9000 will be liberated. The first brood stock of Hungarian partridges has been reared. So far birds have been liberated only on areas set aside as sanctuaries. Plants are made in numbers of not less than 100 birds in areas containing not less than 10,000 acres.

FUND FROM LICENSES

Statistics of the Fish and Game Commission show that a value to the State of California of $71,000,000 may be placed on the fish and game of the State. More than 500,000 hunting and fishing licenses were sold during the year. There are 26,000 miles of fishing streams in California and 10,000 lakes. The State has twenty-seven game refuges containing 2,000,000 acres of land and another 1,000,000 acres are contained in the national parks, monuments and Federal bird preserves.

Under the new hunting licenses act it is provided that one-third of all revenue from hunting licenses must be spent in the acquisition of land for game refuges and public shooting. This, according to the commission, will allow the State to obtain refuges for migratory waterfowl to offset the loss of loafing grounds caused by reclamation projects and the drying up of former flood areas.

In the State of California it is estimated that at present only 150,000 square miles of open land remains upon which hunting is permitted.

GROCERS WILL MEET

Los Angeles Will Be Represented at Memphis Chain Convention

Los Angeles will be represented at the national convention of Chain Store Grocers next week at Memphis, Tenn.

Arthur C. Jones, president of the National Piggly Wiggly Operators' Association, will address the convention, as will Edward Dale, vice-president and general manager of Safeway Stores; H. H. Lestico, local publisher and advertising counsellor to chain-store grocers, and H. R. Barnett, editor of the Chain Store Manager.

Redskin Chief Joins Great Line-up

Proud of Hoover Button

Big Tree, tribal ruler from East, receives Republican token from Bernice W. Hunter at picnic of Wigwam Club.

THOUSAND INDIANS PICNIC

Dozen Tribes Represented at Festive Gathering; Hoover Badges Much in Evidence

More than 1000 descendants of the first Americans gathered yesterday at Sycamore Grove Park for the first picnic of the Wigwam Club of America. A dozen or more tribes of Indians were represented at the affair and the frolicking redskins displayed their modernism by the program presented for entertainment and their interest in politics.

Very few of the tribesmen appeared in paint and feathers, most of them preferring the modish palleface garb. All spoke excellent English and, but for a bobbing feathered headdress here and there, the assemblage easily might have passed for an ordinary gathering. Many of the Indians wore Hoover badges but no Smith supporters were in evidence.

CHIEF FROM EAST

Prominent among the frolickers were Chief Big Tree and his squaw, Onondaga, rulers of the Iroquois tribe of New York State, who journeyed 3000 miles to attend the picnic, and Miss Dorothy Alexander of Glendale, whose grandfather, R. P. Stine, was a famous Indian fighter of half a century ago and figured prominently in efforts to capture Sitting Bull, when that chieftain was badly wanted by the government.

Chief Big Tree stated that he traces his ancestry back to the tribe that greeted Columbus in 1492. His grandfather was Red Jacket, the supreme chief among five confederate tribes along the Atlantic coast.

Modern picnic atmosphere prevailed throughout the day and the program followed conventional lines. An address of welcome by Edwin W. Richards was followed by an address by Thomas L. Sloan, Indian counsellor of Oklahoma City, who discussed Indian welfare.

VARIED PROGRAM

Thunder Cloud offered a singing and dancing specialty and a bow-and-arrow exhibition was presented by Irion and Silvermoon Cody. Others who took part in the program, all of whom are of Indian descent, were Miss Lola Pettengill, the Winsome Sisters, Karl Fisher and father, Blackhawk and May Montoya, secretary of the American Indian Women's History and Art Club. She was introduced by

BEACH CITY TO CONTINUE ADVERTISING

Santa Monicans Plan to Keep Up High Standard of Exploitation Work

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 30.—The Greater Santa Monica Club, which has been consolidated with the Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce for handling this year's civic-advertising campaign, has laid plans to continue this city's high rank in the field of community advertising, members revealed today, following a meeting presided over by Charles E. Hewes, chairman of the advertising committee.

Among those attending were City Commissioner Helton, T. A. Johnson, H. C. Henshey and the chamber secretary, John L. S. Cooke. Virgil B. Gillespie, who recently was appointed manager of the Santa Monica branch of the Security bank, was elected to fill the vacancy on the board of trustees of the Greater Santa Monica Club made vacant by the recent appointment of F. D. Gibbs, former bank manager and board member, to an executive position in the Security bank main office in Los Angeles, and his change of residence to that city.

As a pioneer in the community-advertising field Santa Monica established a high standard, according to advertising experts, and the Greater Santa Monica Club's methods of newspaper advertising have been widely copied.

COUNCIL PLAN FIGHT BEGINS

Office Opened in Drive for Amendment No. 19-A to Change District Representation

John W. Kemp, president of the District Representative League, announces that campaign headquarters has been opened at 429 Subway Terminal Building to work for the passage of Charter Amendment No. 19-A at the November 6 election, which provides for the election at large of Councilmen from the fifteen districts.

Marshall Stimson is first vice-president of the organization; Mrs. Dora A. Stearns, second vice-president, and Edna Porter Phillips, secretary.

In sponsoring the amendment, Mr. Kemp stated that the present form of district representation is unsatisfactory, and that the new amendment was drawn to eliminate its present defects, and to preserve its advantages.

Under the new plan, Councilmen will be elected to represent specific districts, as at present. They must live in the district which they represent, and their nominating petitions must be signed by electors residing within the districts. The entire city will vote for the Councilmen.

Instead of two-year terms, Councilmen will be elected for four-year terms in conformity with the present charter with regard to the election of Mayor, City Attorney and controller.

VARIED RESPONSIBILITY

It was pointed out by Mr. Kemp that under the present plan, each Councilman is required to vote for

Barking Dogs May Not Bite but They Get Two Families Into Court

"Dogs delight
To bark and bite."

And so there is a lawsuit, with plenty of affidavits, charges, assertions, countercharges and recrimination.

First there came to the Superior Court Robert Roy Weber and Clara Mabel Weber, his wife, to complain of Esther A. Wilkins and Howard Wilkins, her husband, that they are making life intolerable in Wapello Road.

Wapello Road is in Altadena. The Webers have their home there, between Marengo and Raymond avenues. It cost them $30,000, they say. The Wilkinses live in Wapello Road, too, next door to the Webers.

This is not the cause of the Weber complaint, however. They are dissatisfied, not with their neighbors, but with their neighbors' guests. The Wilkins house, they assert, is a boarding house for dogs, and the dogs bark so loudly that the Weber property has become unsalable.

The whole matter was laid before Judge Gates in Superior Court when the Webers applied for an injunction to restrain the Wilkinsons from entertaining so many dogs. With the plaintiffs, came a half-dozen or so other residents of the district, by affidavit, to relate how the dogs, "some fierce and all noisy," make the nights hideous in Wapello Road.

Not only do the dogs in the kennels in the yard bark "annoying staccato barks" all night, but puppies, kept in the bathroom, whine shrilly, according to the affidavits. Weber related how he had tried to sell his house at public auction, and said that only one person, out of twenty-five present, made a bid and that for only $25,000, because the dogs barked right through the sale.

Before Judge Gates the defendants resorted to recrimination. They related that even if they did keep a few dogs, the plaintiffs were in no position to complain, because they had a yardful of chickens and two goats. For a long time learned counsel wrangled about the demerits of dogs as compared with chickens and goats. Judge Gates finally stopped the argument and took the issue under submission.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

TWO great Britishers are, or soon will be, in Los Angeles—Sir Austen Chamberlain and Field Marshal Allenby.

This will be an opportunity for the people of this community to show that the poison that various agencies are trying to inject in Anglo-American relations has not hit us yet.

Hatred between England and the United States has no real basis in reality, and no reason for being. At present, it is like a lighted match; it can be blown out; and start a forest fire.

EARLY RAINS

Old-timers hold out the promise of early rains. Let us hope. About this time of year my tongue is always hanging out. Somehow or other, hot weather in September always seems like some kind of swindle.

Storms out here at Tujunga are a sight never to be forgotten—when the rain clouds seem actually to struggle and bleed in their battle with the black mountains.

YODEL

Some of the elite of the young men of our town have begun wearing short pants and bare knees during the late summer—turning Tyrolean by virtue of the fact that the mountains stand frowning over the town as though it were an Alpine village. That's all right; and it's a good custom; but I insist that, if they are going to turn Tyrolean, they must also yodel.

HUGGING THE REPORTER

Portes Gil began his career as President of Mexico by embracing the reporters. A good many other Presidents—some of whom have sat in the White House—could have followed this custom with advantage.

Some of the shrewdest advice that ever went down Pennsylvania avenue has come to Presidents from reporters. Sagacious politicians like Theodore Roosevelt have had what were virtually informal newspaper cabinets. It was the only place where they could get unselfish reactions.

Inwardly, it may be that Calles had a heart as warm as Gil; but Andrew J. Mellon or the Sphinx each was an emotional little cut-up compared with Calles's manner when interviewed. Ask me; I tried.

SHOOTING BURGLARS

The Fresno woman who shot her husband through a door under the impression he was a burglar, points a moral. Arsenals for the repulse of burglars are about as dangerous one way as another.

Nobody has a chance against a burglar. He is a practiced tradesman in killing.

IKE'S END

When you see lions killed in the movie news reels, one shot stands the King of the Jungle on his head. But at the lion farm, they had to fill Ike with a dozen steel bullets. I fear there are more hunters on the job of killing those movie-reel lions than we see in the camera.

SWEENEY GRAFT CASE UP TODAY

Grand Jury Plans Finally to Act on Charges

Convicted Gas Company Man Now in San Quentin

After more than a week's deliberation the Los Angeles county grand jury is today expected to reach a definite decision as to whether or not an effort shall be made to press the charges of graft and corruption among certain city officials made by Edward E. Sweeney during his trial on embezzlement charges.

Since Sweeney failed to keep his promise of making further revelations and forthwith went to San Quentin prison to serve his term of from two to twenty-four years, the grand jury has been forced to rely entirely on the transcript of his testimony as material for its investigation. Before his arrest Sweeney was land and tax agent for the Southern California Gas Company. He was accused of taking approximately $200,000 from his firm but asserted he used it in lobbying.

The transcript has been in the hands of the criminal complaints committee for more than a week for study. It also has been perused by Ellis A. Eagan, deputy District Attorney in charge of grand jury matters, who after his examination intimated that unless further evidence can be obtained it will be almost impossible to obtain indictments.

The grand jury also is expected to take definite action on the charges of Mrs. Christine Collins that she was imprisoned in the psychopathic ward of the General Hospital, when she refused to accept as her son Walter Collins, a youth whom the police had brought here from De Kalb, Ill. The youth since has admitted he is Arthur Hutchins of Cedar City, Ia., and officers believe the real Walter Collins was slain on the Northcott ranch near Riverside.

Funeral Plans for Kent Held Up by Inquiry

Funeral arrangements for Arnold Kent, motion-picture actor, who died Saturday from injuries suffered when he was struck down by an automobile Friday night, while crossing Beverly Boulevard, will be held in abeyance pending the decision of the Coroner today on conducting an inquest.

Kent received a broken back, compound fractures and deep lacerations about the head, when struck by the car driven by H. F. Curtis of 5483 Fernwood Drive. The fatally injured man was taken to Hollywood Hospital, and following death the body was turned over to the Coroner for investigation. Police investigators exonerated Curtis.

Kent came to Hollywood several years ago from his native Italy, after winning some success in that country and Germany in film work under the name of Lido Manetti. He was 28 years of age, and was making a great impression in motion-picture work at the time of his death. Augustine Bercato, life-long friend of Kent, will make funeral plans.

Y MEN'S CLUB TO MEET

The second annual conclave of the Y Men's Club of Southern California will be held at Ontario next Saturday and Sunday. A program is being planned by the Ontario Y Men's Club for the entertainment of the many guests. R. Bradshaw is chairman. The theme of the conclave is "Living," based on Edgar A. Guest's poem. Dr. Lincoln A. Ferris will be the speaker, using this theme as his subject at Saturday night's banquet. Leo Calland of the University of Southern California will be the chief speaker for Sunday's sessions.

Hawaiian Trade to be Discussed

How to sell Los Angeles products in the Hawaiian Islands will be discussed by Max Linder, Honolulu resident manager of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, at a luncheon meeting at noon Thursday in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

INCOME TAX RETURN AT ISSUE IN COURT

Frank P. Orsatti, local real-estate operator, is scheduled to appear today before United States District Judge Henning on a charge of falsifying his income-tax return. The case is to come up for setting for trial on two indictments.

Orsatti will be represented by Attorneys Claude I. Parker and Ralph W. Smith.

IT'S WEST LOS ANGELES NOW

Vast Territory Adopts New Name After Survey, and Choice Gets Approval of Whole Area's Leaders

The name West Los Angeles has been adopted by interests in the territory lying between Mulholland Highway on the north, National Boulevard and Venice Boulevard on the south and between Fairfax avenue and the Pacific Ocean, according to an announcement yesterday by George P. Larsen, manager of the University branch of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

The area covered comprises some seventy-five square miles and conforms generally to the area included in the maps of the Sawtelle branch of the Engineering Department of the city of Los Angeles. This area lies entirely within the city limits of Los Angeles and includes the districts of Sawtelle, Beverly Crest, Beverly Estates, Beverly Park, Beverly Ridge, Beverly Terrace, Castellammare, Cheviot Hills, Highland Hills, Holly Vista, Holmby Hills, Huntington Palisades, Pacific Palisades, Miramar Estates, Bel-Air, Brentwood Heights, Santa Monica Canyon and Westwood Hills.

STUDIED NAMES

The name was adopted by the board of governors of the chamber's university district on recommendation of a committee headed by A. W. Nelson. This committee, Mr. Nelson explained, carefully studied all suggestions submitted to it, but none fitted the whole district as did the name West Los Angeles. In selecting the name, he explained, one had to be selected that did not conflict with any now existing as identifying any particular section of the territory, but merely as a name for the district in a collective sense.

That the name has the approval of everyone in the district is indicated by editorial comments from the various publications in the district as well as expressions from developers and various interests located in that territory, Larsen said.

GIVE APPROVAL

Comments approving the new name have been received by the University branch of the chamber from the West Los Angeles Clearing-house Association, of which F. L. Slusher is president; Alphonso E. Bell Corporation, through Claude A. Wayne, secretary; the Pacific Land Corporation, Santa Monica Land and Water Company, through Louis Evans, vice-president; the California Botanic Foundation and many other organizations.

FILIPINOS MEET

Registration and Voting Urged at Mass Gathering of Islanders

Los Angeles Filipinos who are American citizens were urged to register and vote in the coming Presidential election at a mass meeting yesterday afternoon in the Southwest Building auditorium.

Plans for the commemoration of Rizal Day, the thirty-second anniversary of the death of Jose Rizal, Filipino hero were outlined by Primo E. Quevedo, local director of the campaign. Rizal Day is next December 30, with present plans calling for services to be conducted in the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

FLYER DODGES DEATH IN CRASH

Jimmy Mitchell Gets Off With Skinned Nose

Fence Ruined But House in Path Still Intact

Plane Wrecked After Missing High-Tension Wires

A skinned nose is the only injury Jimmy Mitchell has to show for a spectacular airplane crash at Atlantic avenue and Telegraph Road yesterday afternoon in which he figured as pilot.

With the motor of his plane dead Mitchell attempted to make a landing on the narrow strip of smooth ground adjacent to the section quarters of the Union Pacific. He barely cleared the high-tension wire which crosses Telegraph Road at that point and in attempting to go under the low voltage line, directly in front of him, crashed into the high lattice fence in front of the home of John Thiessem, Union Pacific section foreman. The plane stopped within thirty feet of the house after ripping out a section of the fence. The landing gear of the plane and the lower wing were demolished.

After the crash Mitchell hopped out and, after discovering he was uninjured, set to work on his plane. He said it was his second "dead-stick" landing for the day, caused by a faulty gasoline feed line.

Mitchell keeps his plane in one of the California Airways, Inc., hangars on Telegraph Road near Atlantic avenue. In the morning while trying his engine on a test flight above the field it suddenly went dead and he glided the plane back to earth without damaging it.

In the afternoon, after putting in a new gasoline feed line, he took the plane up again. He circled out east from the field and still was at a comparatively low altitude when the engine died on him a second time. He at first headed for the California Airway's landing field but, seeing he did not have sufficient altitude, tried to set his plane down on the narrow strip of ground along the Union Pacific's section fence.

"It could have been worse," said Mitchell, surveying the wrecked plane.

MET BY DESTROYERS

Four destroyers of the crack Thirty-second Division, the Paul Hamilton, Thompson, Reno and Farquhar, commanded by Commander Riebe, met the President Adams at daylight yesterday and escorted her into port as America's courtesy to the British Foreign Secretary. While the liner was at anchor in quarantine, Commander Glassford, Jr., executive officer of the flagship California, came abroad to present to Sir Austen the compliments of Admiral Pratt, commander-in-chief of the United States battle fleet. Later, he was greeted by Geoffrey Fisher, British Consul at Los Angeles; George L. Eastman, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and other civic leaders.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, K. G; P.C.; M.P., is 65, and is said to have behind him one of the most notable careers in the history of British State affairs. Upon graduation from Cambridge he became private secretary to his father, the late Joseph Chamberlain, then president of the Board of Trade. Sir Austen entered Parliament in 1892 when only 29, and in 1895 held his first Cabinet office as Civil Lord of the Admiralty. He became Minister of War in 1914 and was for the second time appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1921. He was appointed to his present office in 1926.

In 1925 he was created a Knight of the Garter, chiefly for his work as Chancellor of the Exchequer and is the only commoner, outside of the late Sir George White, upon whom the Knighthood of the Garter, highest and oldest order of chivalry in the British Empire, has been conferred.

By requiring each Councilmanic candidate to look beyond the borders of his own district in seeking office, Mr. Kemp said, those in office will have to take cognizance of the needs of the entire city, as well as those within their districts.

As the charter now provides, he said, a Councilman need display little interest in civic matters which do not affect those within the area he represents.

ACTION ON BONDS SET FOR TODAY

Council Due to Authorize Advertising for Bids on Dam Disaster Issue

The City Council today is scheduled to adopt the resolution authorizing formal advertising for bids for the first series of bonds to be issued to pay off the personal and property claims resulting from the collapse of St. Francis Dam. The first unit of these bonds to be sold amounts to $500,000. Next Friday has been tentatively suggested for the rec pt and opening of bids. The legally definite date will be fixed by the Council. The ordinance authorizing the issuance of these bonds has been adopted.

Claims to the amount of $500,000 have been settled by the city, the claim adjustments being handled for the city by City Attorney Stephens. The claims have been paid, the banks co-operating with the city by cashing the warrants and waiting for their money until the bonds are sold.

City Attorney Stephens is constantly at work adjusting claims and as soon as another unit of $500,000 or $1,000,000 has been adjusted and paid another series of bonds will be authorized by the Council and sold. The total damages from the disaster may reach $10,000,000.

The interest on the bonds is not to exceed 6 per cent. The bidders will fix the interest rate in their bids and the Council is hopeful that the bonds can be sold to bear an interest rate as low as 4½ per cent.

LOT FILLING PERMIT MAY BE ORDERED

Board of Public Works Recommends Ordinance to Council for Action

Private property owners no longer will be permitted to fill in their property where such filling interferes with the natural course of storm water, except by special permit issued by the Board of Public Works if the City Council adopts an ordinance recommended by the board.

The ordinance was suggested by City Engineers Shaw, who declared that the present plan of filling in property without regard for natural water courses is causing damage to adjacent property and in some instances is a menace to health. No permit is now required.

The plan suggested for the ordinance is to require a permit on payment of a fee and the engineer will determine if some sort of storm drain or outlet for the water should be provided before the ground is filled.

PEGASUS

1946-56 WALL ST. LOS ANGELES U.S.A.

SUPER POWER

The PEGASUS AERONAUTICAL MOTOR

The Pegasus Aeronautical Engines is a radial air-cooled, nine-cylinder motor, developed and manufactured by the Rocky Mountain Steel Products, Inc., of Los Angeles.

It is designed and built in accordance with established engineering and aeronautical practices of today, combining every advanced feature in the construction of commercial and military air-cooled motors.

The Pegasus Engine is, in many vital respects, far ahead of present-day aeronautical motor construction. Designed in every way with a view to future aero requirements, provisions have been made to permit installation of additional electrical equipment, such as engine-driven generators and electric starters.

Other equally advantageous features include:

Built-in main oil lines, which are cast into the crank case.

Protected mounting of the magnetos.

Improved and simplified oil and fuel pumps.

Enclosed rocker arms and push rods, with quick detachable covers.

Special air-cooling of the exhaust valves.

Single piece master rod.

Special heat-resisting aluminum alloy piston and cylinder heads.

Steel cylinders with integral cooling fins.

Pegasus Engines are easily installed, as all accessories and drives are grouped at the rear of the motor, permitting them to pass through the mounting rug. This also facilitates removal of engine from the ship without disconnecting the accessories, not only assuring ready accessibility, but greatly simplifying maintenance.

SIMPLIFIED MAINTENANCE

Sim Crabill says:

"Airmen know well the vital need of fine quality in airplane motors. Experienced advertisers appreciate that the quality of their advertising literature must be equal to the work in hand."

ONLY excellence in design, the most exacting analysis and selection of materials, and precision manufacture that admits no flaws can produce airplane motors of reliable performance.

And it is performance that counts in advertising literature. That's why we maintain a Service Staff, which offers sales counsel by highly qualified experts, ideas, copy and art for printed advertising of all kinds, including supervision of comprehensive direct-by-mail campaigns.

Customers without advertising departments of their own, or who wish to add our specialized ability and experience to theirs, have in our service assurance of performance that makes the advertising investment return dividends. Let's get acquainted.

FEATURES OF DESIGN

CRANK CASE. The Crank Case is of special aluminum alloy of high tensile strength, and consists of three major parts. The main case is a single piece carrying the cylinders and nacelle mountings. The rear case carries all accessories and drives thereon. The front case covers the timing gear case and carries the valve copper gasket.

CRANK SHAFT. The Crank Shaft is of the built-up two-piece type, mounted on roller and ball bearings. The bolts and carries the valve timing gears. The rear end carries all accessory drives.

CONNECTING RODS. The Connecting Rods consist of a single piece master rod and articulated rods of the cylinder bolting type. All rods are machined and finished all over.

VALVE GEAR. The Valve Springs, Rocker Arms and Push Rods are enclosed. The valves are operated by a mechanical ring cam and quick camshaft gear drive. Each cylinder has two valves, the exhaust valve being sodium-filled. The rocker arm box-covers and push rod shrouds are so designed that they are easily detachable, and can be quickly removed without the use of tools.

CYLINDERS. The Cylinders are of steel, with cooling fins formed integral. The cylinder heads are of a special aluminum alloy and are screwed and shrunk on, using a special form of thread.

PISTONS. The Pistons are made of a special aluminum alloy, having exceptional heat-resisting qualities. The piston pin floats in both the rod and piston. Aluminum alloy plugs at the ends of the piston pin prevent the cylinder walls from being scored.

FUEL SYSTEM. The Pegasus engine is equipped with a special fuel pump of a new design engineered for us. The fuel relief valve and by-pass valves are integral with the pump-body, thus creating a complete unit.

LUBRICATION. The engine is lubricated by a duplex oil pump. Oil from this pump is forced through a filter to the crank shaft, which distributes the oil to all points requiring forced feed lubrication. The scavenging side of the pump drains the crank case, returning the oil to the supply tank.

Four of the main buildings, the stages, are 212x165 feet and 45 feet in height. In each of these four buildings are two sound - proof stages, or eight stages in all, each with its own equipment, apparatus rooms, test laboratories and projection rooms.

HUGE ORGAN

On the second floor of Stage One is the largest Wurlitzer organ ever constructed, built especially for Fox-Movietone productions to produce any effect that can be possibly used in the making of sound pictures. The other buildings include the administration building, carpenter shops, air-conditioning buildings for the heating and refrigerating system to keep the stages at a definite temperature, and other structures incidental to the main stages such as cutting rooms, fan rooms, organ-blower rooms, power house, transportation building, generator building, cooling tower, electrical building, dressing rooms, foundry, paint shops, prop department, drapery, directors' offices and garage building.

"The walled city is a dream come true," Fox said yesterday. It is a permanent home for Fox Movietone pictures—a city unique among the production centers of the world and a realization of three years of costly experimenting."

CONTENTS OF CITY

Into this walled city go 2,302,-713 feet of lumber, 488,000 feet of floor area, 2,100,000 feet of reinforcing steel, including thirty-six great trusses weighing ten tons each; 240,-000 square feet of pavement for streets, 6600 tons of cement, 32,000 tons of rock, 24,000 tons of sand, 51,200 pounds of nails, 45,000 feet of water and sewer pipe and 6200 feet of carpet.

STRAY DOGS TO LIVE ON FAT OF LAND

Ground Will be Broken at Site of Animal Shelter This Afternoon

Ground-breaking ceremonies for the city's new $40,000 Animal Shelter, as it is to be known, instead of the older term of "pound," will be conducted at 3 p.m. today on the site at the corner of Ann and Naud streets. Mayor Cryer, President Bonnelli of the City Council, President Delorey of the Board of Public Works, all members of the Humane Treatment of Animals Commission and department heads will be present, according to Mrs. Warren McIntyre, president of the commission.

The site is 150x170 feet and the structure is to be of Spanish type with tile roof on the administration building, fronting on Ann street, which will contain general offices and a free clinic, an innovation in Los Angeles humane work. Any person unable to pay for treatment of sick or injured pets may have them treated at the clinic.

The kennel room will be entered by a wide hall through the administration building, and two floors will be devoted to dogs, each containing large sanitary wire cages. The second kennel floor will be equipped with runs for exercising the animals.

Service rooms, kitchen, supply room, animal bath, a large cat room and lethal chamber will be at the rear of the kennel rooms. Isolated entirely from the rest of the building will be an observation room for dogs suspected of having rabies.

In the rear of the property will be locker and dressing rooms for employees and a garage with wash rack and repair kit. The corrals and stables for stock and the forage and harness rooms will take up remainder of the space.

Completing the quadrangle will be an ornamental gate. The wall, fronting on Ann street, will be set back from the property line, reserving ground space for future growth. Where possible, the site will be landscaped and, when completed the structure is expected to be the most complete of its kind in the West.

The plans have been prepared by Superintendent of Construction Brittain.

HOLLYWOOD MARRIAGE SUCCESS

Couple Proves Romance Can Endure

Edythe Chapman and James Neill

HAPPY marriages in Hollywood? Just talk the matter over with Edythe Chapman and her husband, James Neill, prominent figures in screen and theatrical circles, and they will tell you all about it. They ought to know for they have weathered thirty years together, are still in love with each other and plan many more happy years together.

The Golden Rule in their quest for marital happiness is just being pals. They have no set rules but here are a few formulas which have proved successful in their case and might in others:

Perfect confidence in each other.

The thought that each would be incapable of doing anything dishonest.

Never contradict each other.

Find recreation which both enjoy.

Never disagree on religion and politics.

Unselfish interests.

And last but not least, never be sarcastic or injure the other's feelings.

"The most important thing is not to injure the other," Miss Chapman said. "Every wound leaves a little scar which cannot be healed by a make-up kiss, so we always think first before making one of these little scars."

Moreover, wherever you see Edythe Chapman you are bound to see James Neill and vise versa. Ten days is the longest they have ever been separated. The Neills were married at Cincinnati, O., in 1897, a year after Miss Chapman became leading lady in her husband's stock company which was then known throughout the country.

It was seventeen years ago they landed in Hollywood for pictures and during that time they have seen picture players married and divorced, but they continue inseparable.

Incidentally Miss Chapman, during her long screen career, has become known as "Hollywood's mother" for there is hardly an actor or actress of any importance for whom she has not assumed the role of mother. She is now playing as Clara Bow's mother for the second time in three years at the Paramount studio.

LICENSING ORDINANCE UNDER FIRE

Constitutionality Raised in Application for Writ in Federal Court

The question of the constitutionality of the Los Angeles city ordinance relating to the granting of licenses to solicit business within the city limits will arise today in the court of United States District Judge James during the hearing on a writ of habeas corpus, sued out in behalf of Ted Buczkowzli, who was fined $250 in Municipal Court for soliciting without a license.

It is asserted in the petition of the defendant that he represents the Chicago Fine Arts Association and took orders to enlarge pictures. The fine against him was upheld in Superior Court. He now seeks the writ on the ground that the ordinance is void because it imposes a burden and tax on interstate commerce, and that it is unconstitutional as it violates the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution by taking liberty and property without due process of law. Other causes are cited in the petition.

PROJECT TO BE ABANDONED

The City Council's Public Works Committee has recommended that in view of a 65 per cent property owners' protest petition which has been filed against the proposed improvement of Effie street from Coronado street to Waterloo street that this project be abandoned.

Angeleno Answers Attack Made at Paris

Gives Facts and Figures to Housing Congress

Belgian Socialist Refuted by M. S. Siegel

How the matter-of-fact reading of a report on the progress being made in housing and social betterment in Los Angeles and California stemmed an attack made on the United States and its laws by a Socialist Senator from Belgium during the International Housing and Town Planning Congress in Paris, is revealed in a report by M. S. Siegel, chief inspector of housing and sanitation and a delegate to the Congress.

Siegel submitted his report of the proceedings of the congress to Dr. George Parrish, City Health Officer, disclosing that Senator Leon Wettinck, Socialist from Jenseppe, Sure Meuse, Belgium, gained the floor at the congress and made a bitter attack on the United States.

HE GOES ON FLOOR

In rebuttal, Siegel stated, he went on the platform on invitation of Dr. Kai Hendrickson of Copenhagen, chairman of the congress, to talk on housing progress in Los Angeles.

"Under the rules of the congress," Siegel reported, "the attack could not be directly answered. Letting the facts of progress made here carry their own weight, I outlined our history of social and industrial laws, minimum working hours and wages for women, food and sanitation inspection service, workmen's compensation acts, juvenile protection laws and social services.

"Dr. Mimbolla, Peruvian Minister to Switzerland, verified my statements with the result that the Socialist from Belgium found his attack on our social order dissipated. It was a demonstration that actual figures and facts of progress outweigh any number of theories and generalizations.

FOOD PARAMOUNT

That housing the poor of a country is not an important issue to its government, but that the problem of feeding them is the paramount issue was argued by M. Henri Ruilier, president of the general council of the Seine and Mayor of Suresnes, in a paper read before the congress, according to Siegel's report. It was further pointed out by Ruilier, Siegel said, the worst that can happen from lack of housing is overcrowding.

Consideration as to whether laws will be enacted to compel landlords to remedy sanitary conditions in their buildings revealed that besides the delegates from America, England, Germany and South America, others held the idea as a visionary Utopia, Siegel stated.

Premier Poincare of France addressed the congress and told how his government plans to appropriate 250,000,000 gold francs for construction of houses for the poor, according to the report.

Younger, who is said to have asserted that he is a relative of the Younger brothers of bandit fame, will appear today before United States District Judge McCormick on the charge of violating the Dyer Act; that is, transporting a stolen automobile from one State to another. Younger is to appear for sentence, having previously pleaded guilty.

SHOOTING QUIZ ON TODAY

Autopsy Will Determine Who Fired Shots That Killed Officer in Sawtelle Liquor Raid

An autopsy will be performed today, it was stated, to determine whether the bullet which struck Officer Brinnegar in the right shoulder during a gun battle Saturday night caused his death and if it was fired from the revolver of W. F. Beard, who was slain by the officer. The inquiry will be held at the Price-Daniel undertaking establishment in Sawtelle.

The shooting occurred in Beard's house at 2033 Butler avenue, Sawtelle. Details of the affair, which were hazy Saturday night, were explained late yesterday by Detective Lieutenants Stevens and Wilson of the police homicide squad following a thorough investigation.

LIQUOR IN CAFE

The battle between the two men occurred while Officer McRae, Brinnegar's partner, was booking Mrs. Mollie Beard at the Sawtelle police station for possession of liquor in her cafe at 1609 Sawtelle Boulevard. According to McRae, he and Brinnegar had found liquor in Mrs. Beard's cafe. She was placed under arrest but was left in the cafe in charge of Policewoman Vaughn. The officers then went to the Beard home. Inside they found, they said, several gallons of liquor.

Brinnegar remained in the house while McRae went back to the cafe to take Mrs. Beard to the police station.

About half an hour later McRae said he returned to the Beard residence. Beard's automobile was at the curb.

When he entered the house through the front door he found Officer Brinnegar dead on the floor of the dining-room and Beard in a dying condition.

BEARD CONFESSES

Just before Beard died McRae said he made the admission that he and Brinnegar shot one another.

Brinnegar, who was a member of the police department for the last four years, leaves his widow and three daughters. Their home is at 1248 West Seventy-eighth street. The officer was 32 years of age.

Beard, 36, leaves his widow, Mrs. Mollie Beard, who was taken to the County Jail yesterday to be held for trial on the liquor-law violation charge, and two daughters and a son. The son, 16 years of age, is said to be visiting relatives in Atlanta, Ga.

According to police records, Mrs. Beard was arrested July 11, this year, and fined $75 for possession of liquor, and on February 9 of last year for possession of gambling device as a result of which she paid a $50 fine.

AN UNFAIR PROPOSAL

In declining to accept the invitation to join with France and Britain in their naval limitation pact our government has made the only reply it could consistently make to such a proposal.

The Franco-British agreement makes cruiser and submarine restrictions which are unacceptable to our government because they would give Britain a distinct and unfair advantage over us in these branches of naval strength. Other features of the accord are equally objectionable.

What is proposed to America by way of limitations is in line with, and nearly similar to, the British proposal with respect to cruiser armament which, because of Britain's stout insistence upon it, broke up the Geneva naval conference. The British project then contemplated rigid limitation of eight-inch-gun ships, but provisions for larger tonnage in the so-called small cruisers. The limitation proposed by the British delegation on this class of cruisers was so high that the American delegation considered it in effect no limitation at all. This same proposal is urged upon us now in a new and even more objectionable form. It still limits large cruisers which are suitable to American needs, but places no limits whatever upon cruisers carrying guns of six-inch caliber or less.

We need large cruisers because of our enormous coast line and because our possessions and dependencies are far apart, while those of Britain, in port-to-port sailings, are comparatively close together. As for submarines, the United States would gladly abolish them altogether, but if they are to be continued as instruments of warfare it is the belief of our government that they should be limited to a reasonable tonnage or number. This is not provided for in the proposed Franco-British pact.

That Britain should have joined with France in the new naval pact kept rigidly secret until every detail had been worked out, is significant, though not necessarily suspicious. For us to have participated in this cut-and-dried agreement, with conditions so manifestly to our disadvantage, was not to have been expected, and it is surprising that either France or Britain should have entertained the idea that we might be hoodwinked or cajoled into joining it, considering our firm stand at Geneva on the very matters set forth in the new document. The proposed new arrangement would not have reduced the actual naval strength of Britain or France in the least, had we accepted it, but it would have hit hard at the United States. Our government, in its rejection of it, is conserving the best interests of American defense.

With the matter of general disarmament our refusal to adhere to the Franco-British pact has nothing whatever to do. The United States, as frequently stated by President Coolidge, stands ready to discuss this project at any time, and, in fact, will urge its discussion in the near future, as Mr. Hoover stands with the present executive for equitable arms limitation.

Those who have criticised the administration for its stand at Geneva should be able to see in the Franco-British proposal the kind of thing our government has been up against all along. For Britain and France to have made a secret agreement to our disadvantage and without consulting us and then to undertake to sell us this spurious brand of "naval limitation" is out of line with the past spirit of international co-operation toward disarmament. Our government will not compromise its position by accepting any such proposal.

SMITH IN THE NORTHWEST

Following Gov. Smith's invasion of the Northwest in the interests of his campaign for the Presidency, Chairman Raskob and his train of dutiful echoes are engaged in their customary pleasing and harmless pastime of claiming everything in sight in the way of electoral votes from our upper left-hand tier of States.

It is true they are unable to cite any special set of new political conditions to lend plausibility to this claim; rather do they base their roseate prognostications upon the undisputed fact that Smith drew large crowds and generous applause at most of the points he visited. It might be ill-natured to point out that any good vaudeville show does the same thing; but the fact is that crowds and applause are notoriously unreliable as an actual gauge of political strength, as the Bryan campaigns demonstrated.

In the absence of any obvious and compelling reasons for a political upset, the past records of the States in question furnish a more reliable index of what is likely to happen in November. In that record there is little real comfort for the Smith prophets.

Of the States visited, Montana, most vigorously claimed for Smith, has gone Republican five times and Democratic four in the last nine elections. It went Republican in 1892. The free silver issue threw the State to Bryan in 1896. In 1900 the Republican strength had made material gains and four years later, the Roosevelt vote swamped the Parker showing. Taft carried the State in 1908. In 1912 the Republican and Bull Moose vote totaled 40,968, though Wilson won with a vote of 27,941. The State went to Wilson again in 1916, but in 1920 Harding swamped Cox there. The 1924 election saw Montana still in the Republican column with a big margin for Coolidge.

Butte, where the outstanding demonstration of the Smith northwestern tour was staged, is the copper metropolis of a Democratic stronghold county, though even there the tables occasionally are reversed with Republican victories. Central and Eastern Montana are essentially agricultural and have a preponderance of population congenially akin to Republican-hearted Iowa, Wyoming, the Dakotas and Minnesota. Indeed, in the present campaign, the Republican contenders for the gubernatorial and senatorial offices loom with impressive strength. Under ordinary conditions Montana is Republican.

In North Dakota the Democrats and People's Party fused in 1892 and the latter party's Presidential aspirant defeated Harrison in that State by a little less than 200 votes. That sort of combined strength, however, was unavailing for Bryan in 1896 and McKinley carried the State. In the succeeding three national elections, North Dakota went Republican, but switched to the Democratic column in 1912, when the regular Republican and Bull Moose candidates divided the normal Republican vote. The Wilsonian "out-of-war" emotion gave North Dakota to the Democrats in 1916, though a Republican Governor was elected. North Dakota resumed Republican allegiance in 1920 despite the fact that the State was more than flirting with Boss Townley's Non-Partisan League and in that year elected a Republican-Non-Partisan Governor. North Dakota went for Coolidge in 1924 though the La Follette candidacy was attracting the elements which had found the Non-Partisan League and other Socialistic eruptions to their liking.

South Dakota, of more conservative disposition than its northern relative, was Republican in 1892, went over by a slight majority to Bryan, on a Democ-Populistic combination in 1896, but was back in the Republican column in 1900, and has remained there ever since except in 1912, when it went Progressive.

Wyoming was Republican in 1892, gave Bryan a small victory in 1896 on a Democ-Populist combination along with the free-silver argument, but went over to the Republican side in 1900, where it remained for the next two Presidential elections. The Progressive defection was too much for it in 1912 and it went for Wilson, though the Republican and Bull Moose votes totaled 23,792 as against the Wilson vote of 15,310. The State gave its electoral vote to Wilson on the 1916 war issue, but chose a Republican Governor in 1918. Wyoming was Republican again in 1920 and in 1924.

Minnesota has the same use for Tammanyism as Paddock has for a nail in his shoe. The State has given its electoral vote to every Republican Presidential candidate since 1872 excepting in 1912 it went Progressive for Roosevelt. It has trifled a little with fusion politics and Non-Partisan League vagaries, but despite a predilection on occasion for Democratic Governors, is acknowledged Republican in national politics.

As serious political prophecies, the Smith claims in the Northwest sound rather like a graveyard whistle.

BAIT

Some imagine that the best way to start a subdivision is for an enterprising realtor to pick out a promising plot of ground, erect a revolving searchlight, haul the populace out in busses gratis and dispense lunches. This system has its advantages.

But a careful scrutiny of realty enterprises shows that centers of activity just naturally grow for the most part. If you want to start a new town, get a sack of jumbo peanuts and stand by the side of the road at a likely spot. Soon a hot dog will come and squat down beside you. Before long a wagonload of oranges will come and camp on your preserve. Then an oil station will arrive and begin to fill the tanks of those who wait. And presto! Before you know it, a new community center is on the map and lots may be laid out with success. It all begins by baiting some spot with bread and butter!

A strange thing about it all is, that a most unlikely neighborhood, as far as topography and real estate values are concerned, may be selected by the peanut vender. But he seems able by some divining rod or occult power to smell out where to extend his arm to the best advantage. The fruit vender is a pioneer of new territory. A hot dog has unerring instinct and rarely loses the scent where people pass.

The humble Japanese with their open-air markets have developed some of the best locations in Southern California. They may start with jungles or swamps, and presently a dense population will push them out into new conquests.

The school, the church, the bank, follow the fruit stand. The perfume of fresh roasted peanuts, or of half a fried chicken, will soon catch a crowd.

Populations have a way of following a water course. They will swing around a hill and take the line of least resistance. The lowly marsh is sometimes faster to rise in the world than an eminence.

FINE FEATHERS

By James J. Montague

The blue jay is at heart, I'm told,
A thief, a tyrant and a scold.

The eggs of other birds he eats
Despite their sad pathetic tweets.

He has no peace of mind at all
Except when he can fight or brawl.

Some source of discord he must find
Although it be with his own kind.

He has no soft and soothing song
But screams and chatters all day long.

He is, to put it in a word,
A very coarse and brutal bird.

But he has such a jocund air
Such lovely raiment does he wear

Of such a gay resplendent hue,
His overcoat of white and blue.

Although I know his soul is base
I still admire his easy grace

And rather would the blue jay see
Than far more moral birds than he.

For though you think it right or not
Fine feathers do help out a lot,

If their exteriors are swell
We fall for birds and men as well.

The LEE SIDE O' LA
BY Lee Shippey

MANY great and famous people visit Southern California every year and the tourist tide includes interesting people by tens of thousands. Yet the most interesting tourist we have met in quite awhile was Dan Wooten, who bosses the railroad water tank in the Rock Island yard in the little town of Belle, Mo., who arrived here with his wife the other day—for the purpose of seeing California flowers in their native soil, and selecting seeds to take home with him!

Nine hundred and ninety-nine men in 1000, finding themselves in Wooten's shoes, would have decided they had no chance to be in any way distinguished from those who might as well not have lived. With only enough education to get by, with an injury which bars him from many activities, and with only the most modest of small parts in the human comedy, Wooten has won something like national distinction without ever dreaming it. All he was trying to do was a little more than he was paid for, just to brighten up the corner where he was.

Worth-While Achievement

Wooten was a big, good-natured Missouri hillbilly till an accident weakened his legs. Then the Rock Island Railway gave him charge of its pumping station at Belle. The pumphouse and tank stood in a rectangle about 300 feet long and 25 feet wide which was lovely like a junkyard. It was cinders garnished by old railroad ties, broken bottles and used cans.

Wooten had a good deal of spare time, though his damaged legs made it impossible for him to work very fast. He began cleaning up a little every day, and bringing in soil, and planting flowers.

A few months later the division superintendent came by and rubbed his eyes. The water tank stood in a lovely little park with a concrete walk leading through it.

"Mr. Wooten," he said, "I tip my hat to you. I'm going to have every other tank man in this division take a day off and see what you've done. The example you've set is going to result in the changing of dirty spots to beauty spots all over the Rock Island system."

Love Me, Love My Job

One of our suburbs has a big, shiny negro garbage collector who is proud of the big, shiny truck he drives, and lately he has taken to combining business with joyriding. Every collection-day morning he calls for his sweetheart and gives her a fine ride all about the town, with pauses for inspection before all the very best houses. And then, to make it still more a memorable treat, they always stop, in season, at a little lunch stand, from which they ride on immersed in joy and watermelon.

Takes a Mutt to Get That Way

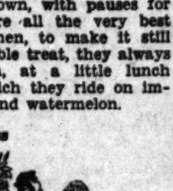
Alterations

Our extra-girl friend says that some of the theater signs don't go far enough, that they really ought to read: "Closed for Alterations—in Salaries."

Ritzy Plus

If you are one of those smart Angelenos who use the coined word, Ritzy, without a very clear idea what it means, let us translate it into American words of three syllables. Ritzy means Beverly-Wilshirely.

We believe the Ritz Hotel on Place Vendome in Paris is as Ritzy as any, but we imagine there are a lot of expensive adjuncts to our new Beverly-Wilshire Hotel which the manager of that establishment wouldn't even understand. To begin at the door, the lobby of the Beverly-Wilshire is much more imposing than the lounge of the Paris Ritz and has furniture just as artistic. The dining-room and ballroom are very lovely, and so much gold leaf is used in decorations that the decorator brought his own safe to keep it in. Then there is not only hot water, but running ice water in every kitchen and bathroom in the apartments and built-in electric refrigerators and ice-makers. There is more cubic footage in the basement and sub-basement of this building than in the ordinary height-limit building, though there are only 350 hotel and apartment rooms in the spacious superstructure. Walter G. McCarty, who built the hotel, says building, grounds and furnishings represent $4,000,000.



SOME REFLECTIONS

BY J. A. GRAVES

The managers of the two great political parties in America announce that it will take $3,000,000 to finance the present Republican Presidential campaign and $5,000,000 to finance the present Democratic Presidential campaign. Other authorities say that $20,000,000 will be spent by both parties. Much of this money will be wasted. Much of it will be paid to venal politicians—political dead-beats—for their supposed influence with the voting masses. Much of it will be paid to newspapers, many of them with but little character and less influence. Some of it will be stolen by corrupt politicians and their followers.

The money so spent in electing a President will be returned to the winning party in patronage, including contracts for public works, franchises granted, special privileges conferred, and in divers and sundry methods which corrupt party workers will provide, no matter how honest a President may personally be. Should a dishonest President be elected, the going will be easier for the looters of the public treasury.

The business of governing the country has become so complex, so many heads of departments are required, that no President can guard against corruption. He is like the head of a banking system which has hundreds of branches. He must rely upon subordinates. In making his appointments, he is compelled to yield to party workers who conducted his campaign. Right there is where the curse of politics enters. Men are not selected for governmental positions on account of their fitness but as a reward for party services. Heads of departments in making appointments, when they are vested with the appointing power, are governed by the same principles. That many appointments must be approved by the Senate and the House is but a fragile safeguard. The members of these bodies all have axes to grind, and they trade votes to accomplish their designs. Of course, the money spent by the losing side in the election is forever lost. It gambled and lost.

These expenditures are but in keeping with the extraordinary extravagance of the age. Nobody seems to count the cost of anything. Too much wealth is a greater curse than abject poverty.

It seems that much of the wealth of the world, more than our share, is drifting to Los Angeles. That is no reason why our people should invent new ways for wasting public and private funds. Fifty years ago, a man who owned a carriage and span, or even a good horse and buggy, was considered a nabob. Today, nearly every man and woman owns an automobile, and many of them several. Many of our people are indulging in flying machines, or private yachts, with all their accruing incidentals. The film industry is responsible for much of our wealth and more of our extravagance. Wealth does not always bring contentment or peace of mind. Tom Mix, a movie star, in describing his marital misfortunes, told the whole story when he said that when he and his wife were receiving small salaries and living in a humble home, they were happy and contented. With the coming of wealth, there came to them both discord and unhappiness.

I am going to vote for Randall for United States Senator, not that I have any confidence that he is in any manner competent to fill the bill, or that I have any respect for him, but because I have less confidence in, and less respect for Johnson. Randall, after a colorless career of several years in Congress, became a Los Angeles Councilman. That he has held his own with that bunch is to his credit, although his San Fernando Valley constituents are much dissatisfied with him. It is also to his credit that the notorious Sweeney did not charge that he was one of the bribed.

With either Randall or Johnson in the Senate, what a fall, in personnel and character, in that body, has taken place since the days of Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Pinckney and Hayne, or even from the days of Frye, Hale, Lodge, Hoar, Sumner, Blackburn, Morgan, Aldrich, Culberson, Teller and Johnson P. Jones. There were no Johnsons, Norrises nor La Follettes in the Senate in Webster's time. The greatest contrast, however, is between Col. E. D. Baker, a Senator from California when the Civil War broke out, whose first speech delivered in that body, in reply to Judah P. Benjamin, who contended for the constitutional right of a State to secede from the Union, is the equal of any speech ever delivered in the Senate by Daniel Webster, and the incompetent, blustering and bulldozing Hiram Johnson. Our own Stephen M. White, Thomas R. Bard and George C. Perkins were far superior, as men and statesmen, to Johnson, who is both a false alarm and a traitor to the Republican party, under whose banner he is now sailing, and securing an immense popular vote.

The corrupt and rapacious invisible government of Los Angeles has a wonderful opportunity for graft in the settlement of the claims for damages resulting from the St. Francis Dam disaster. In saying this I cast no reflections on the City Attorney. Our invisible government has a way of working that completely deceives the most honest public official. It would not surprise me if all the suits for damages against the city of Los Angeles, brought at Bakersfield, in which the most outrageous claims for damages are made, are settled without trial. Thereupon, the invisible government will boast of its success in settling these claims, when it will, without doubt, pay many times more than the claimants were entitled to.

Of course it is very gratifying for us to say that building permits in our county are running into so many millions of dollars a month. It is a fine thing for the architects, contractors, material men, artisans and laborers, that building should be brisk, but building can be overdone, and I am much afraid that we are overdoing it.

In my opinion, many portions of Los Angeles county are more than two years ahead of their building requirements. We are multiplying our office holders so rapidly that this may not apply to public buildings. Anything can be, and frequently is, overdone. Witness our real estate boom back in the '80's and that which prevailed here for several years past until recently. Witness our stock boom, which culminated in disaster to so many thousands, a few months ago.

A Serious Question

BALBOA (Cal.) Sept. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Dr. Blaisdell of Pomona College is quoted in The Times September 18 as saying that the great ages of the world are those in which men and women got together for discussion and consideration of the great problems of life and living—the days when the schoolroom was but the stepping stone to understanding of the larger problems of life.

The question now is, are we giving sufficient thought to this important problem or are we taking it for granted that the education of the youth of our country as carried on today will bring the best possible results? Do many of us know how it really is carried on?

In the same issue of The Times there is a picture illustrating "Arithmetic made painless." The idea having been gotten from the comic strips. One can imagine some of the many "art" teachers in the elementary grades getting ideas from the "comics" or children getting ideas about spelling ("wanna," "gotta," etc.,) but arithmetic seems to be in another class.

There was a time when arithmetic was not painful, when every pupil in a class was called upon to recite in mental arithmetic every day and his brain was exercised by skillful questioning and by personal contact with the teacher which makes for understanding. This kind of teaching gave our country some of its greatest men.

Doesn't Like Foreigners

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In this heated discussion of names, foreign and American, may I suggest, it is not the "'sky" or the "'wits" or the sound of the name "'stein" which we Americans object to. It is what they represent.

About five years ago we bought our home in a district supposed to be free of foreign invaders. The neighbors on either side converse to one another in their native tongue, and to English-speaking people with a dialect that is not understandable. One family has resided in our country about thirty-five years. They cannot speak our language; they will not vote, and our government is the butt of their criticism and jokes.

These people are typical of the foreigners who come to our country to reap its prosperity, but who will not be absorbed, while we and our traditions are being submerged and lost in this ever-increasing wave of immigration.

Every country at some time or other has been populated by foreigners, but there must be a limit if we are to retain any semblance to the beautiful America our forefathers entrusted to us.

America for Americans, guided by a true ideal American, whom we know has the good of our nation at heart—Herbert Hoover.

S. E. BARBOUR.

A Job for Al

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] A lucrative occupation is open for Al Smith after his overwhelming defeat—that of seer, or mind reader:

"Senator Owen and his kind are not sincere. They know that this Tammany cry is a red herring across the trail. I know what lies behind all this and I shall tell you. I refer to my religion."

Likewise when Republicans oppose Smith on farm aid, tariff, etc., he knows they do not mean it; they mean his religion, seeking to "inject bigotry, hatred, intolerance into a campaign."

It is a wonderful gift. There has been no "shower of lying statements broadcast through the mails," that is, outwardly; but Smith knows how to find the lies under the surface. He calls this broadcast shower a "whispering campaign," which seems queer, until you learn that the "whispering" is the force that conveys the unexpressed bigotry to Al, and to him alone. He knows. PASTOR SETS VALUE ON LITTLE THINGS

Dr. Norman B. Henderson, pastor of First Baptist Church, preached yesterday on "The Vital Small." He said in part:

"There is nothing which victimizes our thinking so much as our madness for bigness. The quantitative test is still the test by which most of us measure life and things, yet science has taught us that the real test of greatness is the test of quality. Size, therefore, makes little difference to the man of science. He will tell us that within an atom, invisible to the human eye, there is reproduced an entire solar system. He is reminding us that the tiniest drop of water is like a Venice through whose course there is a wonderful traffic. He reminds us that in every drop of blood there is a battle between the assembled hosts of red and white corpuscles. He discloses to us that in the tiniest germ there is the potentiality of either death or life. Jesus taught us the glory of the 'Vital Small' when He said, 'The Kingdom of God is like unto a mustard seed.' This Kingdom of God as righteousness, joy and peace, begins like a tiny seed sown in the soul of the human heart, and it will, like that seed, grow into tremendous proportions if we will but trust the mysterious laws of its being."

SUGGESTION'S POWER THEME FOR SERMON

A sermon on "The Power of Suggestion" was preached yesterday by Swami Dhirananda at Mt. Washington Educational Center. The speaker said in part:

"The value of suggestion is recognized in all fields—from psychotherapeutics to spirituality. But suggestion becomes a mental imposition when it is uncharitably deliberate or aggressively frequent. It is then that it impedes growth. The former reason makes intolerant expressions wrong, though used for correction. The latter reason makes hypnotism harmful, though in some cases it may be used as an instrument of medical cure without injury. Not so much the imparting of information as creating an atmosphere and giving suggestions are the real problems of pedagogy. Each soul has its dignity no matter whether its habitation is in a hut of mediocrity or palace of talents. If it needs change it should be approached with respect. Suggestion with sympathy or love is the secret of real education and training. Religious preaching with pomp or with a sword or with a view to insure material rewards for people from the unseen should rather adopt as methods soul-satisfying suggestions of the ideal in every way. Christianity has done good to the world to the extent that true Christians have suggested the universal ideal by living in Christ rather than by preaching Him through dogmas."

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL TO OPEN

With a series of thirty-two lectures, the fall semester of the Institute of Religious Science and School of Philosophy, Inc., will open tomorrow evening, it is announced by Ernest S. Holmes, dean.

The lectures will be given at the institute headquarters, 2511 Wilshire Boulevard, Tuesday and Thursday evenings from tomorrow to November 22, covering the general topics of mental science, religious science and metaphysics, psychology, comparative philosophies and religions and practical use of the creative faculties of mind.

WALKER'S NONDRINK REASONS EXPLAINED

"Will Mayor Walker stay on the water wagon after election?" is a question discussed by Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, Jr., in his sermon yesterday at Glendale Baptist Church. Mr. Brougher said in part:

"Some people say that Mayor Walker has declared himself to be through with alcoholic drink just to get his gang and cohorts in good for the coming election. Mayor Walker himself declared that he was through drinking liquor because his health was better without it. He said he didn't like the headache that came the morning after the night before. He also stated that he had attended a banquet of Methodists and found that prohibitionists could be hilarious and jovial and not long-faced. If Mayor Walker continues to use good sense, he will remain on the water wagon. Alcohol is a poison and is not conducive to good health. A sober man always knows when he is having a good time. The happiest people on earth are Christian people who are teetotalers."

LIQUOR APOLOGISTS HIT BY DR. BROWN

"Delusions" is the theme of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. Bruce Brown at South Park Christian Church. Dr. Brown said in part:

"There are a lot of delusions being fostered that may get us into a deal of trouble. One of the most pernicious of these is that the prohibition law is the cause of our many disorders. Think of the remedy being proposed, that we make the selling of booze legal and easier! In an unprecedented era of lawlessness when the foundations of society are threatened, shall we permit leaders to set the example of disregard for fundamental American principles? What a carnival we would have with free liquor and our highways filled with drunken drivers!"

REVIVAL EXPECTED IN CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

Rev. W. C. Izett of Union Church preached yesterday on "Modern Women and the Church." He said in part:

"The immediate effect of the intense battle of emancipation, on the part of modern women and the church, has been to wreck the spiritual lives of thousands of young people, for, throughout the ages, women have molded the spiritual lives of the children. Modern women have freed themselves from the bonds of sex in modern social life, but they have lost God. In losing God they have lost their God-given power to lead modern youth to God. The strongest anchor, in fact the only one, men and children have had to hold them to the right path has been the mystic relationship women and mothers have had with God. Who is to hold humanity true to a divine ideal if modern women descend to the level of modern men in religious worship? The hopeful sign I see in the heavens is the avidity with which modern women are taking hold of education. Somehow I believe that with her mysticism modern woman will be able to guide unreasoning youth in a sane knowledge of eternal things, and I am looking for the greatest wave of Christian education the world has ever seen."

VISIT TO SEQUOIA BASIS FOR SERMON

"Big Trees" is the topic of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. John Snape at Temple Baptist Church. Dr. Snape said in part:

"This summer I looked upon the gnarled branches and towering height of old Gen. Sherman in Sequoia National Park. That tree is said to be 4000 years old. When Moses was floating in the bulrushes, it was a sapling, growing where it now stands; when Christ was born, it was a tall giant of 1500 summers. The 'big trees' teach us many lessons. They are old, they are beautiful, they are enduring, they are dependent upon one another. They have no tap root. Their roots support one another. They stand because they stand together. It would be easy to trace the influence of trees on literature, on philosophy, on romance, on health, on history, on religion. The Bible is full of beautiful teaching about trees."

MINISTER PRAISES PIONEERS' HEROISM

Preaching yesterday at the Universalist Church on "Increasing Life's Values," Dr. Sheldon Shepard emphasized the victory of definite, persistent endeavor. He said in part:

"Every worth-while achievement is accomplished in the face of seemingly insurmountable difficulties. The attainments of all men have some counterpart in our own lives, if we, too, push on and arrive. The man who sets his face toward the impenetrable swamp, or puts his foot out on the unknown, forbidding desert, is but a representative of all of us, facing forbidding prospects and stepping out on untried paths of the day. That same invincible spirit which leads an explorer to his goal is necessary to carry us to the places in life toward which we have set our souls."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE AS LESSON-SERMON

"Christian Science" was the subject of the lesson-sermon yesterday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

The citations which comprised the lesson-sermon included the following Bible selections from Matthew, 10: "And when He had called unto Him His twelve disciples, He gave them power against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sickness and all manner of disease . . . These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying . . . Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give." Also was included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Christian Science text-book, the sinner, reclaims the infidel, and raises from the couch of pain the helpless invalid. It speaks to the dumb with words of Truth, and they answer with rejoicing. It causes the deaf to hear, the lame to walk, and the blind to see."

(Osborne Process, U. S. Pat. No. 1,633,283. Other Pats. Pending)

SO MANY dealers throughout Southern California are prepared to give their customers this free Pan-Am Motor Cleaning Machine service that lack of space prevents printing their names. If your own service station doesn't have this machine—ask any Pan American service station to direct you to the dealer in your neighborhood who can give you this service.

Make it a habit to have the Pan-Am Motor Cleaning Machine used on your car once a month when you change oil. Let the service man show you the accumulation of gritty muck and abrasive particles that it washes out of the motor, crankcase and oil lines! Then you will see why the once-a-month use of this machine increases power and lengthens the life of a motor.

Only the Pan-Am Motor Cleaning Machine can do this! Other methods such as "draining" and "flushing" leave 68% or more still in the motor. The Pan-Am Cleaning Lubricant used is 100% lubricating oil and will not "cut" or dilute fresh oil.

The sign of the 4-leaf clover means "good luck" to every motorist who uses Pan American Petroleum Company's products . . . PAN-GAS, "a barrel of pep in every gallon" . . . PAN-AM Motor Oils," the perfect seal for that barrel of pep."

Opera Tea

The Artland Club will open the season of its activities with an Opera Tea for the members of the club next Sunday, from 4 to 7 p.m. at its new location, the former Ebell clubhouse, 1719 South Figueroa street.

Roland Paul, well-known musical authority, will speak on the high lights of the local grand opera season. Other well-known artists will appear on the program.

The committee in charge will make this the beginning of the social events planned for Artland Club.

Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Whitmarsh of 671 South Trolo street, gave a beautifully appointed dinner party for twelve of their friends in the main dining-room of the Chapman Park Hotel, Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. The dinner was given on Mr. and Mrs. Whitmarsh's forty-seventh wedding anniversary. The table was beautifully decorated with colorful flowers and charming favors.

Home Again

Mrs. J. W. Hendrick who with her attractive young grand-daughter Miss Suzanne Stephens, made an interesting World Tour, including India, has just returned. At present Mrs. Hendrick is with her daughter, Mrs. Moye Wicks Stephens at 920 King's Road, Hollywood, but expects later to go to Pasadena, where she will pass the winter with her friend, Mrs. Lewis Curtis Torrance of 1295 Oakland avenue.

Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Jane Melville Jones to Henry Baird Plummer was solemnized at high noon Wednesday in All Saints' Church, Beverly Hills, with Rev. Arthur J. Evans officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas Blackiston-Jones of Hawthorne avenue, Hollywood, while Mr. Plummer is the son of Mrs. Charles Henry Plummer of Los Angeles.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a gown of white velvet trimmed in princess lace, the veil of old Alencon lace fashioned into a cap effect and held in place by orange blossoms which had been worn by her mother and she carried her mother's marriage handkerchief and a shower of orchids, camellias and lillies of the valley.

Mrs. Ellsworth Dudley McEathron was her sister's only attendant, wearing a chiffon frock of orchid tones with hat to match and carried pink roses.

Alex R. Plummer was best man and Richard Wing and Matunew Pinehart ushered.

A wedding breakfast for the members of the two families and bridal party at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony after which Mr. and Mrs. Plummer left for their honeymoon, including Lake Louise, Banff and British Columbia, and they will make their home at the Warwick in Houston, Tex.

Rush Week

"Rush Week" among the sororities at University of Southern California was observed by Kappa Delta Sorority whose members entertained prospective pledges at daily social functions at the sorority house, 2711 Kilendale Place, beginning with a southern dinner last Monday night, with appointments all typical of plantation life. Miss Frances Hawley was in charge of this rushing event, which was especially delightful because of its program of clog dancing and old negro spirituals.

A house of cards motif was used in both the afternoon tea and dinner Tuesday. Decorations, bridge prizes and refreshments all carried out the symbols of heart, spade, club and diamond, the latter representing Kappa Delta Sorority pin which has that form. Miss Ruth Anne Byerly was in charge of the tea, while Miss Edwina Thomas completed arrangements for the dinner.

Informality and gaiety were much in evidence Wednesday afternoon at the Kappa Delta house, when a circus tea and dinner, planned by Miss Norma Larson, provided delightful diversions. A fashion show was in charge of Miss Virginia Arnold Thursday. The final event of the rushing program was the formal dinner Friday evening in charge of Miss Luella Hoel. An unusually interesting program was given by Miss Josephine Campbell, talented member of Kappa Delta who graduated from the University of Southern California last June and who has just returned from a summer's trip in Europe.

Ruhr District Progress

The coal mines of the Ruhr district of Germany are now almost entirely worked by the most modern machinery. It is said that less than 15 per cent of the product is mined by hand at the present time. Soon the district will be supplied with gas produced at the mines and piped to the consumer.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

by Dr Frank McCoy

author of "The Four Ways to Health"

SELF-POISONING

Anyone suffering from autointoxication (self-poisoning) will feel times of great depression and tiredness; he will have a poor circulation, an unhealthy appearance of the skin, a coated tongue, a bad breath, and perhaps sometimes fits of melancholia or headaches.

In many instances I have examined patients who had previously been through exhaustive tests and diagnostic procedures without any disease having been discovered. I usually find that these patients are suffering from some perfectly definite toxic condition from a lack of proper elimination.

The body is continually absorbing food and discharging waste materials. When these waste products accumulate more rapidly than the eliminative organs can dispel them, a dangerous toxemia or blood-poisoning must result. If any one of the eliminating organs is not working properly, it may cause a similar type of blood poisoning. For instance, if the liver is continually overworked manufacturing bile, it may have difficulty in destroying the toxins which it ordinarily removes from the blood.

Some times drugs that are taken for relief of symptoms, such as excessive perspiration, will interfere with the normal discharge of toxins from the body and produce this type of trouble. Autointoxication is also frequently brought on by allowing the body to become overly tired so that there is not enough nerve energy remaining to properly stimulate the organs of elimination.

The poisoning from fecal material that has been retained too long is really not included in the term "autointoxication" since the interior of the colon must really be considered outside of the body. I have explained this type of poisoning in my article on constipation, which I will be very glad to send to any one interested who will write to me in care of this newspaper, and inclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Plenty of sleep is necessary to rebuild the strength of the nervous system, and it is advisable to use vigorous exercises, accompanied by deep breathing, in order to stir up and dislodge the toxins that have accumulated in the body. The skin may be stimulated by cold shower baths which should be used twice daily and followed by vigorous friction rubs. An acid fruit fast of from five days to two weeks should be employed and followed by a well-balanced menu as outlined weekly in my newspaper articles. Warm enemas of one quart of plain water should be used morning and evening for the first two or three months to prevent the absorption of additional toxins from the colon.

The success of the treatment depends on building the general health and vitality and the use of therapeutic measures to speed up the elimination through all of the excreting organs.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: T. B. asks: "What is locomotor ataxia, and what is the cause and cure—if there is a cure?"

Answer: Locomotor ataxia is caused by some interference with the nerve supply going to the legs. This occurs principally in the lumbar region of the spinal cord. A cure is possible in the early stages, and in today's mail I read a letter from a correspondent who has been entirely cured through following the advice she received through this health service. This patient reports that before starting the treatment she could not walk at all and that four leading physicians in her home town had declared her case hopeless. Her cure was effected through following proper dietetic and hygienic rules, and no other treatment than this was advised. Special instructions will be sent to anyone upon request, accompanied by a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, care of this newspaper.

Q.: May J. writes: "I am a high-school girl and as I live in the country I find it necessary to take my lunch. Would you please suggest some good food combinations to be used in making sandwich fillings? Should brown bread always be used? Also, should milk never be used with meals? Is it all right to drink milk between meals, for example, when one returns from school?"

A.: None but genuine whole-wheat bread should be used for sandwiches, with such fillings as ground nuts or nut butters, minced eggs, minced ripe olives, cheese or chicken, supplemented by leaves of lettuce, cabbage, or finely chopped celery. Do not make the mistake of using a glass of milk with a sandwich. And do not drink milk between meals, but use it as a meal itself and in combination with some one of the raw acid fruits, such as oranges or apples, or with one or more of the nonstarchy vegetables, such as string beans or spinach, etc. Keep in mind that milk is a real food, and not just a "drink" to be used whenever you feel thirsty.

CHEF WYMAN'S Suggestions for TOMORROW'S MENU

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

CHEESE SOUFFLE

Beat half a cup of butter to a cream and work into it one cup of sifted flour, place in a double boiler and add two cupfuls of milk. Stir and cook until thick and smooth. Remove from the fire and beat in the slightly beaten yolks of six eggs and three-quarters of a cupful of grater Parmesan cheese, add a seasoning of salt and paprika, and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of six eggs. Pour into a buttered earthenware or glass baking dish and bake twenty minutes. Serve at once.

CHUCK STEAK

Have the butcher cut an inch and a half steak all the way across the end of a saddle of lamb. Season with salt and pepper, dip in olive oil, and place in an oiled baking pan. Set in a hot oven, turn twice while baking and bake until tender. Place on a hot platter, garnish with lemon slices and water cress and spread over the cooked steak four tablespoons of creamed butter mixed with the juice of half a lemon and two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley.

CREAM OF CORN

Boil one cupful of water and one can of corn for ten minutes, and rub through a sieve. Place in a saucepan four tablespoonfuls of butter and four tablespoonfuls of flour, and rub smooth, stir in four cupfuls of milk and stir and cook until smooth; add the corn and a seasoning of salt and white pepper, heat well and just before serving beat in one tablespoonful of butter broken in small bits. Serve with croutons.

CHICORY SALAD

Wash and break into small pieces enough of the white hearts of chicory to cover six salad plates, cover the chicory with alternate sections of oranges and a grapefruit and pour over all a lemon French dressing.

APPLE PIE

Line a deep pie tin with a good pastry and fill with peeled, cored and sliced apples, mixed with a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of sifted flour, half a cupful of seeded raisins, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, and two tablespoons of butter broken in small bits. Cover with pastry, make three slits in the crust and bake in a moderate oven forty minutes. Brush with beaten egg, sprinkle with sugar and return to the oven for five minutes.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

BY MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 2 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

WALKING AND TALKING HAVE DIRECT CONNECTION

Mrs. F. H. E. writes: "I wish you would give me your opinion of my boy. It worries me because he is so slow in talking. He is nearly 20 months of age and only says a few words, though he understands perfectly. I try to get him to talk but he won't try. When he wants anything he points to it and whines. If he doesn't get it he cries.

"He is a heavy baby and did not walk until past 16 months of age. He doesn't walk very well yet and I put stiff-soled shoes on him to help support his ankles."

Answer. The late walking, whatever its cause, is the outstanding reason probably for the equally late talking. The two go hand in hand. Walking is one of the "coarse" body movements, and during the time the baby is perfecting this, which is usually between the twelfth and sixteenth month, he is so busy that talking is allowed to lapse. Mothers often notice that the baby chatters more before he begins to walk than directly afterward, which is quite natural.

Your baby did not begin to walk until 16 months, for some reason, and now you are making it even more difficult that it should be by the use of stiff-soled shoes. Instead of supporting him they are actually impeding his free movements, and anything which does this is a handicap to his speech. The child should never wear clothes, or shoes, or have on bed covers, or be harnessed into any arrangement that restrains him. He should learn to walk with slot-soled, wide shoes, and fall, if he must, until he learns balance. Children with speech difficulties are given training in all rhythmical movements, walking and hopping and skipping in time to music so that their motions become co-ordinated and timed. Difficult speech is likely to be jerky, and in its worst stages as in stammering it is decidedly so.

Perhaps a little indifference to the baby's wants will lead him to find some use for speech. So long as he gets what he wants with no more effort than pointing and yelling he won't make very much progress toward the more difficult use of language.

Do take off those stiff-soled shoes. Make walking easy. Keep the child unhampered so that he can walk, or run, or bend, or kneel, and thus learn a free use of his body.

When he finds that words, and not actions, will bring him things he wants, his use of words will quickly develop.

REPLACING COSMETICS WITH Natural Loveliness

Underneath powder and rouge lies a radiant skin. Cleanse with palm and olive oils THIS WAY to find it

THE American girl's complexion is the wonder of foreigners on our shores. The average American girl with her fresh, radiant skin would rate as a raving beauty in many foreign countries.

And that is because she knows the value of natural loveliness. Because she has discarded the artificialities that once threatened our national beauty. She knows the value of "that schoolgirl complexion!"

It is really very simple, if you will only try it for a week. Just do this nightly. Wash the face gently with the soothing lather of Palmolive Soap. With your two hands massage its unguent oils into the pores, gently freeing the day's accumulation of make-up and soil. Then rinse, first with warm, then cold water. Dry by gently patting with a soft towel. Add a dash of good cold cream if dryness threatens, that is all.

Get genuine Palmolive, that is the important thing. Substitutes are never "just as good." Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, Illinois.

The LAST WORD

By ALMA WHITAKER

NEARLY A TRAGEDY

One of the penalties of being a capable independent character is that there is always some weak lean-tomortal around that undertakes to be a clinging vine.

Strong, capable people just naturally attract weak incompetent ones, and particularly do strong, capable women attract weak lean-to men.

Emily was strong, capable, independent. At a very early age she was self-supporting, beginning as a telephone operator in a hotel and rising to managerial positions. She was not only able, but proud to support her gentle, clinging, rather vain and foolish mother.

And like all capable girls, she was slow to fall in love, but when she fell, she fell hard. Her lover was a good-looking, husky, but not very bright young man, and although she didn't know it, Emily's love for him was largely maternal.

It soon became quite evident that George was going to let Emily do it. Very soon after their marriage, George lost his job and it was up to Emily to find him another. That sort of thing has been going on for ten years now. Emily has jeopardized her own good positions by getting George jobs in the hotels and apartment-houses she has managed.

All that saved her in the last position was that she secured a better one, to manage a brand new apartment-house—and so resigned from her other job before they asked her to leave—and take her useless husband with her.

She was sensible enough not to get George a job in the new apartment-house, but that only made George sore—so he spent his time loafing around home and quarreling with mamma, who at 60, still demands expensive beauty treatments and cries if she cannot have them.

No one seeing the competent Emily on her job could ever guess what she is up against at home. But lately Emily has been looking very thin, nervous, irritable and losing a lot of sleep. The big apartment-house is a highly responsible and exacting job.

One day last week Emily failed to go home. She walked around Griffith Park all night, finally dropped with exhaustion, and was taken to a hospital in the early morning by some laborers who found her. It seems that Emily had discovered that George was carrying on a cheap and messy flirtation with the girl in the grocery store. Emily had endured all things—but this was too much.

Emily's foolish, ultrafeminine mama is having a wonderful go of hysterics. George is looking sullen and stupid. Emily wants to die. She is sick to death of her lean-to clingers.

But the strong ones aren't allowed to die and shed their clingers as easily as that. Fortunately, the apartment-house owners are sympathetic and mean to win Emily back to health—and pluck. Some friends have had a talk with George, who has agreed to go away and work in the country for a spell. The mother is gradually being convinced that she, too, has duties and responsibility.

It may be that Emily's temporary breakdown was just the tonic George and mother needed.

"Perhaps it was all my fault," sighs Emily. "I liked being capable and independent. I even liked having them dependent on me so long as they behaved reasonably. I will wager lots of strong capable fathers have been responsible for raising weak, dependent children. When I get well, I am going to try being a bit dependent myself for a change."

GUIDING YOUR CHILD

THE STERN FATHER

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Unfortunately the stern father is not a myth.

He is the parent who carries on the traditions of fifty years ago, dominating his house and ordering the lives of all the living souls therein. He is responsible for sending his children out into the world as truly crippled in their fitness for life as if he had done them a physical injury.

In every walk of life this type of man is to be found. In his home he gives vent to the irritations which he keeps from the public eye during business hours. The mother of the family warns the children to be quiet and not to annoy Dad when he comes home. His children may not respect him, but they fear him. He is proud of the fact that while his wife may put up with back talk from the youngsters it takes just one look from him to make them jump.

From such a father the child learns to cringe before authority. His subservience degrades him in his own eyes and he feels inferior to his fellows.

The humiliation to which he is subjected at home expresses itself in unfortunate ways. He may compensate for being bullied at home by bullying, in his turn, the younger children on the playground.

His excessive timidity may make him unpopular with children of his own age so that they take every opportunity to browbeat him and make life miserable. If life is too hard for him at home and on the playground, he may try to escape by spending his time reading and day dreaming to an unwholesome extent. Lying may readily become a means of averting punishments which are too severe. Having been disciplined by fear rather than by the cultivation of his own values, his behavior is apt to be governed by the thought of what he can get away with.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Absent-minded

If you are inclined to leave packages, pocketbooks and umbrellas around promiscuously, why not see that they are always tagged with your name and address, so that if they are lost you stand some chance of their being returned? If you are shopping, write your name and address on your package as soon as purchased.

Appetizing Smells

Unless the culinary odors are objectionable, such as when cooking onions, cauliflower, sauerkraut, etc., don't try to disguise them. Is there anything nicer than to enter a home where you are invited for dinner and smell that delightful odor of good things being cooked? It fairly creates an appetite even if you had none upon arrival.

House Cloths

Many housewives enjoy the cloth flour sacks for house cloths, but find the colored letters objectionable. Apply pure lard freely to all the letters and trademarks and rub it in well. Then soak in tepid water for two or three days. Put in boiler with soap flakes and boil. The sacks will come out beautifully white.

Gordon Geiger, San Quentin, first degree robbery; seven years to life.

MOSQUITO MENACE AROUSES PROTEST

But Sacatela Drain Will End Nuisance, City Officials Say

The City Council having received protests against mosquitos in the vicinity of Whitehouse Place started an investigation to see what if anything could be done for the disturbed residents of the district.

The Council's Health and Sanitation Committee has reported to the Council that the construction of Sec. No. 3 of the Arroyo de la Sacatela storm-drain system will remove stagnant waters from this district and abate the mosquito nuisance.

DESCENDANT OF PIONEERS SUCCUMBS

Teofilo Valdez, 74 Years of Age, Had Spent All of His Life in Los Angeles

Teofilo Valdez, 74 years of age, a direct descendant of early Los Angeles Spanish settlers and a native of Los Angeles, died at his home, 1616 Hudson avenue, Hollywood, early yesterday morning following a short illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament tomorrow at 9 a.m. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Valdez had been a real estate broker for the last thirty years. He operated a ranch in Laurel Canyon previous to entering the real estate field.

Born in the old Nadeau Block on Spring street, Mr. Valdez all his life had been identified with the development of Southern California.

His grandparents came here from Spain and his father, Jose Valdez, owned the Rancho LaBrea, an 1100-acre tract which now is Sherman and its surroundings.

He leaves his widow, Magdalena Valdez, two daughters, Mrs. Martina Miller and Lizzie Corrigan, and five sons, Teofilo, Frank, Jose, Thomas and Eugene, all of Los Angeles. He also leaves eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Bresee Brothers Undertaking Company, 855 South Figueroa street, is in charge of funeral arrangements.

VICTIM OF ATTACK BY LION DIES

El Monte Farm Manager Succumbs at Hospital as Result of Clawing

John Rounan, manager of the Gay Lion Farm in El Monte, died at the California Lutheran Hospital early yesterday morning as the result of having been clawed by one of three lions that escaped from their cages and attacked him and a farm guide, Joe Hoffman, last Wednesday.

Two of the beasts were shot and killed. Rounan was mauled severely before Hoffman was able to kill the lion with a rifle. Rounan's body was taken to Pierce Brothers Mortuary. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Phone Campaign to Boost Annual Session of Bar

A statewide telephonic campaign designed to focus the attention of members of the State bar upon the first annual meeting of the organization at Pasadena the 11th, 12th and 13th inst. is to commence this morning.

Every one of the 10,250 members of the bar throughout the State will be contacted and asked the direct question, "Are you going to attend the first annual meeting of the State Bar at Hotel Huntington, Pasadena, the 11th, 12th and 13th inst.?" and an effort will be made by those doing the telephoning to induce him to attend.

Members have been assigned a certain number of names of other members to call.

It is believed by the board of governors that this method will bring to Pasadena the largest number of lawyers ever gather together at one time in California.

GUY BATES POST WILL ACT HERE

"Play's the Thing" Due at Biltmore Latter Part of the Month

The evening of the 29th inst. at the Biltmore Theater, Guy Bates Post and a distinguished company of players will begin a limited engagement in Ferenc Molnar's saucy and brilliant comedy, "The Play's the Thing," which was one of the outstanding successes of New York two seasons ago.

The play has been translated into English by P. G. Wodehouse, well-known fictionist, humorist and libretto writer.

Produced almost simultaneously in New York, Germany and Hungary, the piece achieved an instantaneous success and has only lately been done in Italy.

Conspicuous in Post's support are Hazel Whitmore, Lionel Belmore, Garvin Muir, A. J. Herbest, Claude Allister and Ralph Nairn.

Several of them were in London and New York productions. Post's last appearance here, five years ago, was a brilliant success with a score of curtain calls from an audience composed of the elite of Los Angeles. He has just returned from a world tour in Tasmania, New Zealand, Australia, South Africa, Hindustan, finishing with an extended season in London.

Popular Appeal in "Tarnish"

Entering its second week at the Hollywood Music Box, "Harnish" has shown evidences of popular appeal that class it as one of the dramatic high lights of the opening season. Dixie McCoy, who made the production, did well in the selection both of the play and the cast appearing under her management. Recruited from the ranks of the picture gallery, those interpreting the Emery drama have acquitted themselves admirably.

Albert Gran, appearing on the stage for the first time in the West, is amusing as the temperamental Adolph Tevis, and Virginia Valli as his daughter gives a performance that stamps her most favorably for real dramatic worth. Pauline Garon makes good with a vengeance as the vamp and Barton Hepburn gives a sympathetic portrayal of the young lover. Others whose work stands out are Maude Turner Gordon, Duane Thompson, Fan Bourke and Mattie Edwards.

RUSSIAN OPERA PROMISES MUCH

MARIA JERITZA

"Fedora" With Jeritza Will be Attraction

Grasping the opportunity to secure the world-famous Mme. Maria Jeritza for an extra and fourth performance, the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association has arranged what seems to be a sensational performance for Los Angeles. They have prevailed upon Mme. Jeritza, Edward Johnson and Giuseppe Danise to give their already celebrated performances of Giordano's exciting Russian opera, "Fedora."

Although this causes the association to abandon the scheduled performance of "L'Amore Dei Tre Re" and to make a slight change in the first-week sequence, the opportunity to secure "Fedora" with this brilliant cast decided the change, it is stated.

Mme. Jeritza is to open the season in "Tosca," and in addition to this opera and "Fedora," will be heard in "Turandot" and "Carmen." "Madam Butterfly" and the golden-voiced Rethberg, is to be given as the second performance Friday, replacing "L'Amore Dei Tre Re" and "Fedora" Saturday night, when "Madam Butterfly" was originally scheduled. Although season-ticket subscribers are in no way affected, it is announced purchasers of single tickets for "Madam Butterfly" or "L'Amore Dei Tre Re" may make the exchange at the box office.

The new schedule, therefore, for the entire season will be as follows: October 3, "Tosca;" October 5, "Madam Butterfly;" October 6, Turandot;" October 8, "Fedora;" October 9, "La Cena Delle Beffe;" October 10, "Carmen;" October 11, "Faust;" October 13, double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci," and October 15, "Andrea Chenier. "Fedora" has been one of the many sensations of the San Francisco season, being equaled only by "Madame Butterfly" with Rethberg" and "The Jest" with Lawrence Tibbett, it is said.

"Although this change costs the association nearly $7000 more than the original budget," declared Merle Armitage, manager. "President Gurney E. Newlin and the entire executive committee believe the public of Los Angeles will respond."

Pretty Newcomer Plays Lead

Betsy Lee

the rechristened "Bubbles" Steifel, is heroine to Reginald Denny's hero in "The Night Bird," a Universal film which comes to Pantages today.

"SHOW GIRL" PACKS WALLOP

There's a wide variety of stage entertainment to choose from at the Hillstreet Theater this week, but chances are ten to one that the stage entertainment you'll receive the proverbial "wallop" from, will be of the screen variety . . . incorporated in that peppy production of back-stage life, "Show Girl," starring Alice White, adapted from the story by J. P. McEvoy.

There is not a great deal to the plot. Briefly, it deals with a dancer in a night club, who breaks into print through a scandal involving the manager of the club and her dancing partner, a Spaniard. The numerous offers to star, in vaudeville, pictures, and what-not that follow, take a subtle crack at some present-day methods.

No matter how flimsy the plot, Director Al Santell has accomplished miracles with it. There is not a single dull moment, from the rather informal introduction of the Dugan family to the dizzy whirl of a finish.

It is doubtless that a role more suitable could have been selected for Miss White's initial starring vehicle. She is brimming over with personality and when it comes to curves . . . "She could show General Motors a few things" . . . according to one of George Marion, Jr.'s many wise-cracking subtitles.

The supporting cast is a noteworthy one, including such favorites as Kate Price, Donald Reed, Charles Delaney, Jimmie Finlayson, Lee Moran, Gwen Lee and others.

This week's vaudeville offers but two outstanding acts, one presented by Florrie Le Vere, the other by a team billed as Monroe and Grant and occupying the unauspicious position of first on the program.

If you enjoy the rest of the vaudeville chalk it up to these two, because they certainly do their best to put you in the right mood.

Their act is a weird, but amusing, thing in which a spring-board truck offers any number of comedy possibilities.

Florrie Le Vere's act is a well-known one to patrons of vaudeville. Assisted by the well-known composer, Lou Handman, Miss Le Vere's program "Celebrities," consists of impersonations of various screen and stage stars.

Although the offering is identical to the one presented last year, it seems to have lost none of its original appeal.

Others acts include Norwood and Hall in "And She Believed Him," a one-act skit by James T. Duffy; Stewart and Olive in a series of tap and soft-shoe dances, and Hayes and Cody in "The Two Extremes," an act of wise-cracking and whatnots.

A miniature musical comedy with some scrattered good points is "Ship Ahoy," featuring Demar and Lester.

Vitaphone Skit Added to Bill in Hollywood

Inaugurating a policy of presenting the newest in talking pictures, Sid Grauman has incorporated a novel Vitaphone comedy-drama, "A Regular Business Man," on the sound program in connection with the showing of "White Shadows in the South Seas," soon to leave Grauman's Chinese Theater.

The talking comedy-drama has a cast composed of Robert Ober, Marjorie Meadows, Lucy Beaumont and John St. Polis. It is described as one of the most entertaining of the late products of the talking divisions of the studios.

Along with other audible features on the program is a rollicking Movietone comedy, "The Interview," featuring Clarke and McCullough of vaudeville and musical-comedy fame. Latest sound pictures of current world-wide events are presented in Fox Movietone News.

Students and world travelers, as well as many theater patrons, are praising Sid Grauman's exotic prologue, "The Tropics," which introduces native artists of the Pacific islands to presage the showing of "White Shadows in the South Seas." Grauman's South Seas village in the forecourt at the Chinese is thronged with sightseers all day long.

Executives to See Premiere

When the curtain rises upon "Sensation," the new comedy-drama by Rita Kissin, directed by Henry Kolker, tonight, the play will be viewed by two former bosses of the author.

It was Cecil B. De Mille who gave Miss Kissin her first opportunity to write publicity features. He permitted her to go as an extra on the "Ten Commandments" location so that she might absorb the correct atmosphere for the special stories which were afterward syndicated throughout the country.

Irving Thalberg, executive of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is the other former boss who will view Miss Kissin's play with special interest. As general manager of Universal, he gave Miss Kissin her first position in a scenario department.

"Sensation" is a timely comedy featuring aviation from a new angle. In the cast are such well-known actors as Alma Tell, Ben Bard, David Tearle, Mary Carr, Geneva Stone, Raymond Lawrence, Elsa Lorimer and Margaret Kolker.

De Mille will be accompanied by Mrs. De Mille and Thalberg by Norma Shearer.

Columbia Signs for Electrical Sound Rights

The first motion-picture contract to be signed by radio-telephoto went over the wires to New York City Saturday afternoon, when Jack Cohn consummated a deal by which Columbia Pictures Corporation is licensed to use Western Electric equipment in the making of sound pictures over a period of years.

The arrangement entitles the firm to employ apparatus for recording on either records or film, such as serve the Warner and Fox companies, it is stated. Which maner of reproduction will be adopted permanently has not yet been determined.

"Submarine," the Frank Capra picture for Columbia which is being presented for a special run at the Embassy Theater in New York, will be the first to be synchronized, it is expected. Many of the twenty-six productions still to be made this year at the studio here will have both sound and dialogue.

Trio Reunited Here by Duffy

The production of "The Best People" with Marion Lord and the Henry Duffy players at the Hollywood Playhouse, starting Sunday, is in the nature of a reunion for three of the participants.

Marion Lord, Florence Roberts and Earl Lee will be seen in the same roles they acted in Henry Duffy's production of the comedy in San Francisco, which ran twenty-six weeks. Moreover, Miss Lord and Miss Roberts were together fourteen months in the Australian tour of the play under Duffy's management.

Miss Lord will be seen as Millie, the chorus girl; Florence Roberts, who returns after an absence of several months, will play Mrs. Lenox the mother; Earl Lee will have the chief comedy role of George Grafton, the family friend.

Leo Carrillo and his associate players are saying farewell this week to audiences at the Playhouse. "Lombardi, Ltd.," which is in the tenth and closing week of its lengthy engagement, will give its final performance Saturday night.

FAWCETT TO SAN PEDRO

George Fawcett is now having a taste of night work combined with location change. This for "Fancy Baggage," which John Adolfi is directing for Warners. Fawcett, one of the featured players in the cast, will wind up this engagement in scenes which will be photographed at San Pedro, where two nights of shooting are on the schedule. The actor plays a self-made American business man of hard-boiled exterior, but is all indulgence for his daughter.

COMEDIENNE SCORES IN NEW SONGS

Irene Franklin Headlines at Orpheum; Gamble Boys Harmonize

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Lacking any challengers, Irene Franklin, the American comedienne, left the stage of the Orpheum Theater yesterday afternoon the undisputed champion star of the new bill of varieties. She had given in the period immediately preceding her exit, detailed descriptions in song and pantomime of one Chester, the cowboy from Liggett's; of a night-club hostess in the throes of a tirade against somebody; of her husband's first wife (she was not overly fond of the lady;) of another lady whose plaint ran, "You took me from the gutter but you put me back again;" of a flapper mother and her jazz-baby lullaby; and finally of a little girl.

Beyond these notations, and the additional one that she sang in her usual dependable manner (I had never heard Miss Franklin, but I just knew it was her usual dependable manner, she has been at it so long,) there is little to be said. Jerry Jarnigan accompanied her at the piano.

The Gamble Boys and Violet Bache, with Del Faust, appeared in an offering called "Newer Than Ever" (I presume that is the prize contender of the year for noncommittal-title honors) which took the form of a revue, generally speaking. The Gamble Boys, lifting the style and material of Paul Whiteman's Rhythm Boys, subjected "From Monday On," "Mississippi Mud" and "Ramona" to the test of close harmony—and pleasingly so. Violet Bache, a swarthy Latin type despite her name, clacked her castanets, tangoed around and bent her body backward out of shape. Del Faust, like Ralph Olsen the week before, threw his body hither and yon with considerable abandon.

Ben Ryan and Harriet Lee, in "One and Won Is To" (another title which might be mildly described as "different") revealed themselves as two amusing horseplayers handy with their fists and the lingua Americana. Ryan talked out of the corner of his mouth and Miss Lee rasped in the higher register.

Rosalind Ruby, "the Shop-Girl Prima Donna," had more the appearance of a prima donna than of a shop girl, to do her full justice. Miss Ruby, bathed (especially for the occasion, I doubt not) in a ruby light, exercised a soprano voice of power and precision on "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life," the Victor Herbert melody now in its recrudescent stage; "C'est Vous" and "Diane," the motion-picture theme-song which not one of all those vocalists it has been my varying pleasure to hear sing has pronounced correctly.

William Desmond and Company provided an acceptable sketch entitled "The Right Man," which allowed the star to don the habiliments of an old actor. The scenery used with this presentation had a lean and hungry look. It was too familiar, closely resembling that which surrounded Margaret Anglin at the same house recently.

James Kelso and Belle De Monde, in a turn devoid of a single smart line, exerted a winning influence through sheer personality and two voices which blended sweetly. George Jones and Stanley Hull strummed ukuleles and stumbled over one another; and Mack and La Rue, late of the local "Spider" troupe, defied the disability clause in their insurance policies with their antics on skates.

Next Week to Bring Jolson

"State Street Sadie," the lively miss who outwits a Chicago gang leader in the Vitaphone talking picture of the same name at Warner Brothers Theater in Hollywood will bid good-by to these parts Sunday. So also will Larry Ceballos's revue, "Gorgeous," with its lighting effects and, in fact, all of the current bill.

This engagement has been cut short in order to make way for Al Jolson's "The Singing Fool," which opens a week from today.

Larry Ceballos will have a new revue. He is employing a complete new cast of principals, including such popular musical comedy stars as the Brox Sisters and Bailey and Barnum.

Loew's Host to Youthful Cast

The entire cast of youthful Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stars appearing in "Our Dancing Daughters" are to appear in person at Loew's State Theater this week, it is announced.

Joan Crawford and John Mack Brown will take their bows from the stage tonight, and on Thursday night several others of the cast's principals will be there in person. These latter will include Nils Asther, Dorothy Sebastian, Anita Page and Edward Nugent.

METROPOLITAN'S BENEFIT

A throng which filled the house and stood back of the partitions at the Metropolitan Theater, Saturday midnight, witnessed a performance given on the stage for the benefit of the sufferers of the Porto Rico and Florida hurricanes. Receipts ran between $9000 and $10,000, it was reported last evening. Among those who appeared were Joan Crawford, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., William Desmond and Victor McLaglen.

LEE'S ANY-DAY-NOW HOPE

Rowland V. Lee, with everything ready, to the final nail driven for the interesting sets constructed for his current Paramount vehicle, the "Wolf of Wall Street," will start direction any day now. George Bancroft will have the stellar role, with Baclanova and Paul Lukas featured.

THESE MODERN MAGICIANS

Harry Gribbon is another actor who is turning night into day and vice versa. Gribbon is off to Laguna with the other principals in "The Mysterious Island" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and will be engaged in all-night work for certain sequences.

NEW HOME FOR VENTURA ELKS

Society Dedicates Building Next Tuesday

Grand Exalted Ruler Honor Guest

Spanish Design Mixed With Modern Equipment

VENTURA, Sept. 29.—Two more days and Ventura will see completed the beautiful new Elks' home, so long looked forward to by the local chapter of the lodge and by the city. Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the new temple will be opened for a public reception, which is to last until 10 p.m. On Wednesday evening, following the reception to the general public the Elks will gather for a banquet and meeting with Murray Hulbert of New York, Grand Exalted Ruler of the lodge.

The first class of candidates to be taken into the lodge in the new home will be initiated on Thursday, the 11th inst.

When the public is admitted to the new temple, it will see not only one of the most beautiful buildings in Ventura county, but one which for unity of design and tastefulness of decoration is surpassed by few lodge buildings anywhere. The architectural motif is ancient Spanish, but the mood of the furnishings is quite modern.

Entering the building through the main doors at the east, facing onto a spacious patio, the visitor enters a high-walled lobby with a wood ceiling. Massive beams carry out the ancient effect, as do the brass chandeliers and the wrought iron railings under the mezzanine balconies and up the broad, winding stairs.

At each end of the lobby are raised platforms. The one on the north leads into the card room and the other opens into the rose-tinted ladies "lounge" and the stairs to the mezzanine floor and lodge room above.

Facing the lobby from the south platform is a huge fireplace, set as a memorial to the memory of the late John Lagomarsino, Sr., with an appropriate inscription of the brotherhood. At the other end of the hall, past the canteen and the lower billiard room, is the card room. Here, too, the high ceiling, narrow windows, and heavy beams emphasize the ancient Spanish design. But the traces of the card suits, clubs, diamonds, hearts, and spades, on the beams, the fresh green tint of the walls in the lobby, the vari-colored hue of the furnishings and the bright, rich designs of the long, heavy drapes are quite modern, although in good taste with the ancient motif.

The mezzanine floor is occupied chiefly by a banquet hall and kitchen.

On the third floor is probably the most interesting of the rooms in the new temple, certainly the one most valued by the Elks. It is the spacious lodge room, and occupies practically the entire top floor of the building. Fronting a thirty-eight-foot stage, before which is the raised platform of the Exalted Ruler. The broad tiers and central floor, with the platforms of the various chairs, are laid with heavy blue carpet. At the back are two apertures, one designed and the other opening into a vestibule at the head of the double stairs. High, deep blue drapes hang at the sides from Spanish halberds, which are used over the windows throughout the building.

A feature of this lodge room, as well as the entire building, is the ventilating system. The fresh air, forced into the room through ventilators under the seats by a huge motor under the building, is calculated to clear the room of foul air every fifteen minutes.

HOG MARKET STRONG

HANFORD, Sept. 30.—In auction sales held at Hanford, Tulare, Fresno and Visalia during the past week by the California Farm Bureau Marketing Association there were twenty-six cars, or 2563 hogs, sold for 172 consignors, who received $42,019.35 cash. Eleven calves were also sold for $185. The top price, $11.15, was paid for hogs at Fresno.

BAN OUTDOOR ADVERTISING

HANFORD, Sept. 30.—Removal of bill boards and commercial advertising from city-owned property has been ordered by the Hanford City Trustees.

ARGUMENT ENDS IN DEATH

Mrs. Fred Schlosser Admits Shooting Husband During Quarrel Asserledly Based on Drink

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept 30.—Acting to protect herself, she said, from the threats of her drink-crased husband, Mrs. Alvera Schlosser, 32 years of age, late last night shot and killed her husband, Fred Schlosser, 38, an employee of the Richfield Oil Company at their home on Arrowhead Road.

The slaying, Mrs. Schlosser said, occurred only after a half-hour argument in which she attempted to escape the abuse of her mate. "We argued for half an hour," she said. "I tried to quiet him but could not. He followed me into the house where I got by revolver. Then he followed me out. I was so mad and frightened that I guess I didn't know just what happened. I must have fired when he swung as if to hit me."

Mrs. Schlosser's shot struck her husband in the heart. As he fell, she said he cried, "Well, you've done it. I hope you are satisfied."

"'I am sorry, Fred,' I told him, she said.

"Will you forgive me before I die?" her dying husband asked.

"I told him I would forgive some things," Mrs. Schlosser said she told her husband.

She then ran to a telephone and called police and a physician. Schlosser was dead when the police arrived. Dry eyed, Mrs. Schlosser calmly recited the incidents that led up to the slaying.

A month ago, she said, she had her husband arrested for intoxication. At that time, he promised to quit drinking, Mrs. Schlosser said. "He left home early today," she continued. "We had bought a new automobile and I was so happy. When I saw him drive in tonight, I knew he was drunk. He began to berate me. He cursed and threatened me.

"The argument kept up for half an hour. When I ran into our house to get away, he came right on."

Mr. and Mrs. Schlosser have lived in San Bernardino for five years. While her husband worked as a painter, Mrs. Schlosser operated a filling station known as Alvera's Place. Mrs. Schlosser is held in the County Jail on a tentative charge of murder pending a Coroner's inquest, called for 10 o'clock tomorrow by Deputy Coroner Dennis Ralphs.

MOLASSES MAKES ALCOHOL

Anaheim Distillery Using Forty Tons Daily for Product Being Used Widely Over Coast

ANAHEIM, Sept. 30.—Forty tons of molasses per day are necessary to keep the Anaheim plant of the United States Industrial Alcohol Company going. For it is from the molasses, shipped from Hawaii, that the alcohol used in varnish and paints and a thousand and one other articles in daily use by men and women of all classes, is extracted.

Thirty chemists, mechanics and workers are kept busy the day long at the huge plant, which is the smallest operated by the company. They compound some forty-seven formulas from the raw stuff as extracted from the molasses. These formulas are then tanked and shipped to wholesale jobbers for distribution all the length of the Pacific Coast in the United States.

Because the orange industry uses so much alcohol in the manufacture of by-products from orange and lemon culls, the location of the plant in an orange belt is particularly advantageous, it was stated by H. J. Maduell, one of the two managers of the plant.

The raw molasses is placed in receptacles to ferment when first received. After fermentation has taken place, it is distilled into the various formulas. The solid material has no sale value, but because of the many chemical ingredients which it contains, is being experimented on with a view to extracting further from it.

That none of their product goes toward the making of illicit liquor is the assertion of both Maduell and J. J. Burkhardt, managers. Everything is kept securely locked and two government officers are on duty all day and one at night to prevent anything from being removed.

There are six plants in the company's control, located at Baltimore, Peoria, Newark, New Orleans, Buffalo and Anaheim. The local plant is under the control of W. W. Haughey, whose office is in Los Angeles.

COUPLE CELEBRATES GOLDEN WEDDING

UPLAND, Sept. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mehl, 736 East Ninth street, pioneers of the district, last evening celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a reception to friends at the First Mennonite Church.

Participating in the entertainment program were the church choir and soloists and a brief address by Rev. Hostettler, pastor of the church. Members of the church presented the couple with a pair of golden candlesticks.

Children of Mr. and Mrs. Mehl are Mrs. Warren Phillups, Mrs. Clarence Cooper, Miss Florence Mehl, Ernest C. Mehl and J. Willis Mehl.

The church was lavishly decorated with flowers for the reception.

KINGS GRAPES AT PEAK

ARMONA, Sept. 30.—Fresh grape shipments are at the peak with approximately 125 cars of Muscats a day being shipped out of Kings county.

"WEINIE" THANKFUL FOR CART

Partly Paralyzed Dog Tied to Little Wheels to Aid Her in Getting About

VENTURA, Sept. 30.—"Weinie" is walking again. "Weinie" is a dachshund dog from the Park kennels at Thousand Oaks. She nearly died from autointoxication and her hind quarters were paralyzed, so that she was able only to ile pitifully on her side. Then she was brougt to Dr. W. E. Harrison, manager of the Small Animal Hospital, here. Her condition was told him. I little rubber-tired cart was made by Herman Rother at a local garage and the trained fingers of the veterinary strapped the lame little body into the contrivance.

That was several days ago. This morning a reporter visited the hospital—and "Weinie." He found a bright-eyed dog full of the joy of living, romping around the hospital after Dr. Harrison, jumping her front legs free of the floor to snatch at tidbits held over her head, the hind legs taped to the car trailing behind.

But the cart is so arranged that the hind quarters are getting lots of exercise and movement. In a few days the necessary strength will probably be restored and "Weinie" will probably romp on four feet instead of two and a pair of wheels.

"Does she appreciate it?" Dr. Harrison was asked.

"Does she? I've handled many of these cases and never saw one yet that failed to greet me with a delighted yip years afterward. This is my first vehicle of this kind, however. But she knows what it's for," he answered.

Noted Artist Shows Pictures

SOUTH PASADENA, Sept. 30.—Antonin Sterba, Chicago portrait painter, and Mrs. Sterba, recognized as an accomplished harpist and composer, are occupying the home of the late Guy Rose at 507 Garfield avenue.

Mr. Sterba, who is chief instructor in the advanced life classes at the Chicago Art Institute, has been granted a year's leave of absence.

He has brought many of his best-known paintings with him, including a self-portrait, recently shown at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, Washington, D. C. Other portraits which he is exhibiting at his local residence include the portrait, "Paula," which was exhibited at the Sesquicentennial Exposition, and "Milan Lusk," shown in the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts.

A Czecho-Slovakian by birth, Antonin Sterba received his early training in Chicago. He later studied in Paris under Benjamin Constant and Jean Paul Laurens.

Mrs. Sterba played first harp for the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and for four years she taught in the Chicago Conservatory of Music. She was a pupil of Edmund Schuecker in Vienna.

REV. HOMER VOSBURGH FINISHES WORK HERE

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 30. After more than four years as pastor of the Huntington Park Baptist Church, Rev. Homer Vosburgh finished his duties here with the local church today at noon, preaching his farewell sermon at this time. No services were held at the church tonight. Dr. Vosburgh expects to supply a pulpit in one of the northwestern cities for a few weeks, and will then probably return to New York State, from where he came on accepting the pastorate here. He tendered his resignation three or four weeks ago. Mr. Vosburgh had been ill for some time, and is now recovering.

HOOVER GETS RARE SUPPORT

Aged Woman Forsakes Politics of Lifetime to Vote for Republican Candidate

REDLANDS, Sept. 30.—Mrs J. I. Steward, mother of Mrs. T. Ferguson, who is the wife of the Park Superintendent of this city, will celebrate her 99th birthday tomorrow and at that time she will forsake the Democratic party, which she has followed all her life. She has always been a Democrat has voted at every election since women were given suffrage and she says she is going to vote for Hoover because she knows he is the best man.

She first saw the light of day in a little Maine village. In 1853 she made the then long journey to California via ship to Nicaragua, crossing over the mountains and finally using a sailing vessel to San Francisco, then up the Sacramento on the little steamer plying that river to the town of Sacramento.

Here she was met by her boyhood sweetheart. They were married and started their journey into the mines, their conveyance being a four-mule team and double-box wagon with a spring seat.

This was loaded with supplies for the store which Mr. Steward was then running. Their trip was a real wedding tour, as they had to stop over in every settlement, where a group of men lived in order to have a dance. These dances would last nearly all night, every man wanting the next dance. Women of her character were a rarity in those early days and their trip up to Hangtown and Honey Lake Valley was one long celebration. Her early days in Northern California were filled with the usual experience of the early pioneer.

For thirty-two years she has been living in Redlands. Seventeen years ago her partner of many joys passed away and she has been living with W. T. Ferguson ever since. A sweet and placid disposition has endeared her to a great many friends and intimates, old and young bearing her in great esteem.

Grandma Steward, as she is known to her intimates, made a 1600-mile trip to Northern California, her old stamping ground, this summer without mishap and with considerable pleasure. She is celebrating her birthday by a dinner with friends in San Bernardino today and will join in a family celebration at Riverside Monday evening. Her only rule for longevity is lots of sleep, one cup of coffee every morning and a placid disposition.

TWO NEW BILLS BEING ADVISED

Bar Association Sponsoring Constitutional Changes

Club Plans to Keep Judges Out of Politics

Elaborate Plans Framed to Relieve Congestion

PASADENA, Sept. 30.—Amendments to the constitution of California which would assure judges of a reasonably permanent tenure of office and would eliminate court congestion will be considered and passed upon by the Bar Association of California at its annual meeting at the Hotel Huntington October 11, 12 and 13, it was announced today.

The first amendment to be considered by the delegates will be the so-called "Commonwealth Club Plan" for the selection of judges. This provides for the retention in office, subject to ratification by the people, of incumbent judges, the filling of vacancies by the Governor and ratification of his appointments by the people.

This amendment would result, according to its sponsors, in relieving incumbent judges of the necessity for making a political campaign for re-election.

The second proposed amendment is designed to relieve congestion and make the judicial system of this State more flexible. Both amendments were drafted under the direction of the Judicial Council, and will be on the ballot at the November election. They will permit the Legislature to create new divisions of the District Courts of Appeal whenever the condition of Appelate business requires such action and relieve the District Courts of Appeal of Appellate jurisdiction in appeals from Municipal Courts.

While the proposal has not been put in the form of a constitutional amendment, the State Bar Association will also discuss the advisability of creating courts of criminal record with a view to expediting justice.

Saragosa Held on Robbery Charge

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 30. Joe Saragosa, 19 years of age, arrested in Los Angeles ten days ago, was brought before Judge Edward Miller yesterday, where he was given preliminary hearing and then bound over to Superior Court in the sum of $2500. Saragosa is charged with burglary.

Early one morning after the Frank Couillard barber shop in this city had been burglarized of several cartons of cigarettes, Saragosa was arrested in Los Angeles, with cartons of cigarettes under his arm. Police Sergeant John Priestly had taken a number of finger prints of bottles at the barber shop which had been handled by the burglar. They compared with those taken of Saragosa at Los Angeles. Saragosa was brought to this city, and it is stated by Chief of Police Will Hultquist that he made a written confession of the theft here. He was then charged with burglary by the owner of the barber shop.

Walnut Crop Below Average

FULLERTON, Sept. 30.—Packing houses here this season will ship approximately 750 tons of walnuts, a survey today disclosed. A crop, 75 per cent normal, will be harvested, it is anticipated. While last year's crop was twice as large as that expected to be obtained this season, the average crop over a period of years is about 25 per cent higher than this year's. The Fullerton-Placentia Walnut Association house here will pack 600 tons, while the American Fruit Growers, Inc., will ship 150 or possibly 170 tons, according to estimates.

KIDDIES REMEMBER INJURED POLICEMAN

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 30.—A veritable shower of flowers and candy descended today upon Tom Flanagan, "school cop," who had both legs painfully, but not dangerously injured last week when his automobile collided with a truck near Clover Field. Flanagan, who knows every tot in the McKinley school by name, or has something cheerfully acceptable to call a few hundred whose name he may have forgotten while herding them through the traffic to safety, received a whole flock of childishly scrawled notes of condolence along with the blossoms and edible delicacies.

POLICE MUST LACE BOOTS

State Traffic Officers Given Orders to Abandon Use of Preferable Footgear

SANTA ANA, Sept. 30.—State traffic officers are going to have to fumble with their boot laces on these cold winter mornings in the same old way.

Some of them who have side-stepped this discouraging ordeal by adopting aviators' boots were told today by Capt. Henry Meehan that the straight-laced "higher-ups" demand a return to the laced boots required by regulations.

The recent order requiring officers to abandon automobiles and return to motorcycle mounts was softened somewhat, however, by official permission to add side cars to their machines. This will enable the officers to work in pairs more conveniently.

ALHAMBRA SCHOOLS ON NEW SYSTEM

Acceleration Course for Students Capable of More Rapid Progress

ALHAMBRA, Sept. 30.—A new department in the Alhambra city schools has been inaugurated. It is an "acceleration class" for students capable of progressing more rapidly than the average pupil. The class has an enrollment of thirty and has been started at the Granada grammar school under the direction of Miss Jane A. Kerwin. Its members are pupils in the first half-year of the fifth grade.

The plan is to give the students the first half-year of the fifth-grade work during the first-quarter period of the school year, the second half of fifth-grade instruction in the second quarter and enter the children in the sixth grade in February. Then they will resume the average pace of others in the sixth-year course.

Careful study of the progress made by these students will be made and the records kept. Results of mental tests were used to determine which of the students were qualified for the acceleration class. They will be required to do the same work expected of those in the regular classes.

According to Forrest V. Routt, Superintendent of Schools, the method is expected to save about 50 per cent of the approximate sum of $100, which is the estimated cost of carrying a student through a grammar-school grade.

The institution of the acceleration class gives the Alhambra elementary schools three types of instruction, the opportunity classes for slower students, the regular classes for the average pupil and the new class for advanced children.

REDLANDS MAN IN UNIQUE BUSINESS

REDLANDS, Sept. 30.—N. C. Heron, one of the real old-timers of Redlands, is in the city today from Los Angeles, his present residence. He is a brother of George Heron of Crystal Springs on the road to Yucaipa. Years ago Mr. Heron became interested in the manufacture of eucalyptus oil. He has now developed an industry known as the Heron Company, of which he is president. Manufacturing the past year nine tons of pure eucalyptus oil in America and eight tons in Australia, where his son is manager of the company.

In Los Angeles, at One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street and Central avenue, Mr. Heron owns eighty acres of trees from which he obtains material to make his product. At Napoma, in San Luis Obispo county, he has control of a 900-acre tract for a like purpose.

Mr. Heron has not been in Redlands for quite a number of years. He expressed surprise today at the numerous changes made and the improvements now going on.

OPEN HOOVER HEADQUARTERS

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 30.—Hoover headquarters in Santa Monica will be opened early next week at 516 Santa Monica Boulevard, in the Bliss Building, according to an announcement today by Judge Fred H. Taft, president of the Santa Monica Bay Hoover Club. The centralized headquarters will handle affairs for all Republican candidates.

ENGINEERS IN FALL MEETING

San Diego Convention to Open Wednesday

Aviation Important Topic to be Discussed

Various Major Subjects in Long Schedule

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 30. — Bringing to a climax the work of many weeks, the local section of the American Society of Civil Engineers today is engaged in receiving and assigning to various hotels the officials and visitors arriving for the seventy-sixth annual fall meeting of the society, which will open Wednesday and continue until Friday. Its guests will include some of the notable figures in the engineering world of America today.

The program covers a wide range of subjects from the newer problems which aviation has brought into the engineering world, to highways, city planning, irrigation, sanitary engineering, dam construction and water and flood control. A preconvention meeting was held this morning at 10 o'clock at the El Cortez Hotel, with those members of the board of direction who had arrived Friday. More members are expected to arrive today, and the regular delegates will arrive tomorrow and Tuesday by train and motor. Headquarters are at the El Cortez Hotel.

Meetings will be held today by the publications and technical expansion committees, and the membership committee of the board of direction. The regular sessions of the board of directors will be held tomorrow and Tuesday and on Tuesday there will be an informal local sections conference.

The main meeting and formal opening of the fall meeting will be held Wednesday, starting at 10 o'clock, and is considered the most important of the three days' session. The theme of the convention is aviation and Wednesday's program will be devoted to discussions on the various phases of engineering problems that are found in this new industry. Talks by members of the naval aircraft squadron will feature the morning session. Rear-Admiral J. M. Reeves, commanding the aircraft squadrons, battle fleet, will talk on "The Eyes of the Fleet," and Commander Kenneth Whiting on the U.S.S. Saratoga will speak on "Aircraft Carriers." The technical side of aviation will be dealt with in the afternoon.

NEW ORANGE POOL SETS HIGH MARK

Growers Jubilant Over Gross Received, Bringing Total to $279,766.73

ORANGE, Sept. 30.—Citrus growers affiliated with the Orange Mutual Citrus Association were jubilant today over returns received for the second Valencia pool which promises to go down on record as one of the largest paid by the local association for the 1928 season.

Checks aggregating $166,521.02 were being forwarded to the growers today, according to L. F. Finley, manager, who declared that amount represented the net returns for the second pool which ran from July 1 to August 15. The payment brought the total net returns paid by the association to date to $279,776.73. The first pool brought net returns amounting to $113,255.71.

The third pool, which closed this week, may shatter the second pool record providing the market remains favorable, according to Finley. Approximately 250 cars of Valencias will be shipped by the association this season, which is less than last year but the returns, owing to the short crop, will be considerably higher. Besides the Valencia shipments, the plant will ship about fifty cars of lemons.

Finley declared that the outlook for next year is exceedingly rosy. He predicted the association would ship at least 700 cars, handling the largest crop in its history.

Temple City is New Name of Postoffice

TEMPLE, Sept. 30.—Temple City is to be the official name of this community beginning October 1, according to an order of the United States Postoffice Department.

For some time local organizations led by the Chamber of Commerce have been trying to find a name which would eliminate the confusion due to the fact that there are eleven other postoffices in the country having the name of Temple. In addition there are many streets and districts in Southern California bearing the same name.

Anticipating the postoffice order the Pacific Electric Railway has already changed car and station signs to Temple City.

To Postmaster Fred W. Brinker the change will come as a welcome relief. No longer will he be obliged to handle letters addressed to Templeton, south of El Monte; Temple street in Los Angeles, and the Angelus Temple, mail intended for all of which addresses has been received here.

The district serviced by the local postoffice has a population of 3000, with 550 on the rural route operating out of this office.

BANK CLEARANCES GAIN

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 30. Bank clearings as announced by the Huntington Park Clearinghouse Association are increasing. During the past month the total reached $2,667,241, as compared with $2,604,869 in August and $1,974,450 in September of last year.

LONG BEACH BANDITS BUSY

Nitroglycerine and Convenient Tools Used in Removing Door of Automobile Dealer's Safe

LONG BEACH, Sept. 30.—Safe blowers operating in Long Beach last night were at least $467.53 richer today as the result of blowing open two safes and prying off the door of a safe cabinet. Their chief victim was Spencer Kennelly, Inc., automobile dealers at Sixth street and American avenue, where they gained entrance by forcing a window. Here they drilled into a vault and blew open the outer door with the use of nitroglycerine, forcing their way through two additional doors, by means of tools taken from the company's auto repair shop. The burglars secured $381.

At the office of E. Ralph Clark, Inc., 445 American avenue, they blew open a safe belonging to H. B. Robertson, real-estate dealer, occupying space in the office, but obtained no money. Next they turned their attention to a safe cabinet belonging to the Clark company, from which they obtained $26.53. A desk in the Auto Tire Company, 443 American avenue, was also pried open but police late this afternoon had not located officials connected with the store and were unable to ascertain the loss, if any.

QUESTION CONTENT OF WINE TONIC

Official at Chino to Investigate So-called Medicine

CHINO, Sept. 30.—Whether wine tonic is a tonic to the system or out-and-out wine made and sold in violation of the Wright Act is the question that may have to be solved by the District Attorney's office.

The wine tonic came to the attention of Chino authorities unexpectedly, when they presented a motorist with a "ticket" for speeding across newly painted signs warning motorists to slow down for school children.

The officers looked into the man's automobile and discovered a bottle of fluid marked "wine tonic," manufactured and sold as such. The bottle was one one-third empty. It was said at the time the man did not appear intoxicated but during the interim between giving him a ticket and time for appearing in court, it was learned that he was taking a treatment for habitual drunkenness. County chemists were given the tonic to determine its alcoholic content.

It is intimated that if it is found to contain intoxicants, charge of illegal sale of liquor under the Wright Act may be filed against the person who sold it, and the manufacturer may be caught in the net also. Report of the chemist is to be turned over to the District Attorney.

COUNCIL ACTS IN LONG BEACH

LONG BEACH, Sept. 30.—Wine tonics, some forty-five brands of them, composed mostly of California wines with a high percentage of alcohol and a touch of one kind of medicine or another and sold legally in drug stores throughout the United States are not wanted in Long Beach. At least that is the decision reached here by the City Council after some 150 protests to that body had been registered by juvenile authorities and others. And now a city ordinance is in the making that will prohibit the sale within the corporate limits of the city of any so-called wine tonic, whether for medicinal or other purposes. The ordinance, rushed through to a first reading a day after the Council had received the protest, is not going to have smooth sledding, however, according to a ukase of Long Beach druggists today, who declared that, collectively, they will protest any further action of the Council on the proposed ordinance.

Members of the Retail Druggists' Association were aroused today over complaints that the sale of wine tonics to school children and high-school students is making drinkers of Long Beach youths and that the tonics are being used as the chief attraction for so-called "pep parties" among high-school students.

"Tonics and bitters handled in the drug stores of Long Beach comply in every respect with the Federal and State laws on the subject. Our druggists are reputable business men and the children of our members are attending the public schools.

"We are as much interested in their welfare as any of the gentlemen who are asking Council action in the matter," William Middough, president of Council, said.

Police recently convicted operators of a soft-drink establishment who, it was asserted, sold wine tonics by the drink as a beverage, but no effort has been made by the city, to date, to ban the sale of tonics in drug stores and other places for so-called medicinal purposes.

Druggists all over the Pacific Coast will watch with interest, it was said today, the action of Long Beach in adopting an antiwine-tonic ordinance and the working of that ordinance.

FALLING TREE WRECKS AUTO

CHINO, Sept. 30.—A queer trick of fate in which Mrs. C. H. Bickmore narrowly escaped with her life, and in which her sedan was crushed like an egg shell, was unexplainable today.

A tall, heavy eucalyptus tree, apparently tired of life, was the cause. Mrs. Bickmore had returned to her home from a shopping tour. She parked her sedan in the driveway near the eucalyptus tree, and stepped out of the car with an armload of groceries. At that precise moment the eucalyptus tree crashed to the ground falling directly on the automobile crushing it beyond repair. There was no wind blowing, and cause for its falling remains a mystery. The tree was one of the old landmarks left by Richard Gird, one-time owner of famous Chino rancho.

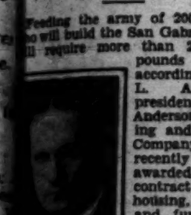
WELL-FED CREW WILL BUILD DAM

Millions of Tons of Food on Camp List

Good Meals Will Draw High Class of Labor

San Gabriel Orders Read Like Army Supply



Feeding the army of 2000 men who will build the San Gabriel Dam will require more than 25,000,000 pounds of food, according to W. L. Anderson, president of the Anderson Boarding and Supply Company, which recently was awarded the contract for housing, feeding and furnishing recreation for the men to be employed in constructing the great development. Contracts for the dam will be awarded within the next month and work is expected to be started in January.

In awarding the contract to Anderson the Board of Supervisors followed Masoleon's theory that an army travels on its stomach. It is proposed to establish a model camp which will be operated under the direct supervision of the county. The guarantee of proper food and housing is expected to attract the high-type of labor for the big job. Under the terms of the contract Anderson will be paid at the rate of $6 a day per man.

FIRST STEPS

Anderson yesterday began preliminary work on plans for assembling the vast amount of food and housing equipment which will be required over a six-year construction period.

According to Anderson's estimates, based on a basis of 2000 men, 12,000 meals will be served during the six years and 200 cooks and waiters will be employed. Figures released yesterday by Anderson's commissary department include the following supplies:

Flour 1,000,000 pounds, fresh meat 1,000,000 pounds, sugar 1,000,000 pounds, pies 1,100,000 pounds, canned goods 4,000,000 pounds, bacon and ham 1,000,000 pounds, eggs 1,000,000 pounds, vegetables 4,000,000 pounds, grapefruit and oranges 1,000,000 pounds, butter 500,000 pounds, milk 500,000 pounds, cereals 800,000 pounds, coffee 400,000 pounds, ice 1,000,000 pounds.

Here is a sample of Anderson's menu for the San Gabriel workmen:

Breakfast—Stewed raisins, sliced oranges, chilled grapefruit, cream of wheat, shredded wheat, Kellogg's all bran, fried ranch eggs, young pig sausages, grilled bacon, American fried potatoes, hot snails, fig bars, hot cakes, maple syrup, dry toast, milk, coffee.

Dinner—Cream of tomato soup, Waldorf apple salad, green onions, boiled leg of pork, dressing, French fried, roast of beef, boiled navy beans, creamed turnips, mashed potatoes, pineapple cream pie, rice custard pudding, assorted fresh fruits, fresh buttermilk, iced tea, coffee.

Supper—Combination salad, green onions, chilled radishes, grilled sirloin steaks, stuffed bell peppers, Boston baked pork and beans, asparagus hot rolls, Lyonnaised potatoes, vanilla layer cake, cream puffs, fresh peaches, iced lemonade, fresh coffee.

SIX CAMPS

Anderson, who is a specialist in this, is now operating six camps scattered over California and New Mexico, and is housing and feeding men daily. Before the public learned the extent of the San Francisquito Dam disaster, his equipment was on the ground ready to house and feed 2000 persons. Anderson has served 2,000,000 meals annually for the last five years. Among motion-picture concerns in Los Angeles with companies on location use his service, which is said to be that of the famous Harvey House during its palmy days.

Contractors generally have indorsed the Supervisors' plans for building the San Gabriel dam workmen. Camps in the past have been a source of the contractors' existence and with the county supervising the feeding and housing of the workmen, the contractors are in position to center their entire activities on building the big dam, it is asserted.

MAN'S LEAP AND LIMP MYSTERIOUS

Police Seek Jumper Who Vanished From Window of Apartment House

An unidentified man leaped from a laundry window of the Strath-more Apartments, 843 West Ninth Street, yesterday, apparently fracturing a leg, according to witnesses, and limped hurriedly away. A search of the neighborhood by police failed to reveal the man or reason for the strange act.

Police records of the case say that Manager Sergeant of the apartment-house notified the janitor that she had seen the body of a man hurtle past a window. Another occupant reported seeing a man dragging himself down an alleyway, apparently nursing a broken leg.

Officers A. J. Collins, investigating the case, found a gold watch of Swiss make, a belt buckle, a bottle of perfume, the picture of a woman in a frame and some house keys, near where the man was reported to have alighted. The watch, addressed from Lake Arrowhead to K. H. Lee, 402 Justicia Street, written in Japanese, also was found. A servant by that name at the house was discharged from the apartment-house service.

VENTURERS MEET

A business meeting of the Advertising Club at 634 South Figueroa street will be held Thursday noon, Clarence R. Snethen, secretary announced yesterday. The latter also said, will consider amendments to the club's constitution.

FRIENDS MOURNING FOR CENTENARIAN

Mrs. Elizabeth Goodrich

FINAL RITES FOR PIONEER TO BE TODAY

Mrs. Elizabeth Goodrich, 104 Years of Age, Will be Honored by Friends

The body of Mrs. Elizabeth Goodrich, 104-year-old "Grandma Goodrich" of Montebello, will be laid to rest today in the Whittier Heights Cemetery with a host of relatives and close friends of the pioneer participating in the last rites.

Mrs. Goodrich died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ada Kennedy, 723 South Maple avenue, Montebello, Saturday following a three months' illness. Natural infirmities of old age were given as the cause of death.

Funeral services preceding services at the cemetery will be conducted in the Moritz funeral parlors, Montebello, today at 2 p.m. Members of the Montebello Women's Club, of which Mrs. Goodrich was an honorary member, will attend in a body.

Sixteen years ago Mrs. Goodrich came to Southern California from a ranch in North Dakota, which she homesteaded alone and managed until she was 82. She was born in 1824 at Beaver Dam, Pa., going in a covered wagon to Galesburg, Ill., to become one of the first settlers there when she was 18. She was married and had four children. They and eight grandchildren and seventeen great-grandchildren are living.

Always a pioneer, Mrs. Goodrich continued her way from Galesburg to Dewitt, Iowa, into the Dakotas and finally to California.

Forty-five pounds of cake and ice cream were awarded to Mrs. Goodrich on last Mothers' Day for being the oldest known mother in the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

Besides Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Goodrich leaves a sister, Mrs. Martha Shannon, 84, of Eckley, Colo., and a brother, Frank W. Goodrich of Sagas.

EUROPEANS WAKE UP ON 1932 GAMES

Zack J. Farmer Home to Report Olympics Program Arouses Much Interest

A growing enthusiasm among European patrons and participants in the Olympic Games scheduled for 1932 at Los Angeles is reported by Zack J. Farmer, secretary-manager of the California Tenth Olympiad Association, just returned from Europe.

"Hardly was the dust of the Amsterdam games settled when it became apparent the members of the International Olympic Committee expect a surprising sports and cultural exposition at Los Angeles," said Mr. Farmer. "And every day there is further indication of the increase of that expectation."

Every indication points, according to Mr. Farmer, to a general indorsement at the November elections of Proposition No. 2, which will confirm the legislative appropriation of $1,000,000 toward financing the World Olympic Games in this city.

Club Meets on Campus to Help Hoover's Cause

Having the objective of organizing all students at the University of California at Los Angeles who are supporters of Hoover in the present Presidential campaign, and of encouraging students to vote in November, the Hoover-for-President Club will meet at 1 p.m. today to elect officers.

The Hoover Club, which was organized last Wednesday, has planned an extensive campaign on the campus, committees having been chosen to carry on the work. Katherine Stone is chairman of the sticker and button committee, being aided by Carol Ford and Helen Busse, while James Simsarian, chairman, and Virgil Cazel will obtain speakers. Publicity is under the chairmanship of Katherine Wilson, with James Simsarian and Frances Coudit assisting. The registration committee which will attempt to get all eligible students registered is composed of Marie Criggs, chairman; E. Kingsley Smith, Ruth Tiedman and Wesley Bagley.

Charles Crail, temporary chairman of the U.C.L.A. Hoover-for-President Club, also is arranging intercollegiate debates and meetings with the Hoover clubs at Occidental College, and the University of Southern California.

JAPAN'S NAVAL NEED OUTLINED

Visiting Expert Comments on Anglo-French Pact

He Declares Limitations Would Favor British

America and Nippon Must Have Larger Craft

Commander Shuichiro Higuchi of the Imperial Japanese Navy and one of Nippon's foremost naval strategists, graphically outlined the effect the Franco-British pact would have on world naval affairs on his arrival here yesterday on the S.S. President Adams.

Great Britain's proposal to limit 10,000-ton cruisers and build smaller cruisers in unlimited numbers; and to restrict construction of large submarines and not to limit submersibles of less than 600 tons; would seriously cripple the tactical value of every navy except that of Great Britain, Commander Higuchi said.

"Japan and the United States, for instance, have widely scattered naval supply bases and relatively small merchant marine fleets," he pointed out. "It is imperative, therefore, that they build large cruisers and submarines with the greatest possible cruising radius."

BRITAIN HAS BASES

"Great Britain has numerous bases all over the world, where her submarines and cruisers might base and obtain supplies; therefore, smaller ships are adopted to her needs. Likewise, she possesses the world's greatest merchant fleet. If she secured limitation of eight-inch guns, 10,000-ton cruisers, then every fast merchant ship on which she could mount six-inch guns would be a potential cruiser.

"France's needs are for fast cruisers with maximum cruising radius and gun power and she also needs large submarines," he concluded. "If France signs the proposed naval compromise with England it will not be because she wants to build smaller cruisers and little submarines."

Commander Higuchi has just completed a six months' naval observation tour of Europe and the East Coast of the United States. He declared that he found a thoroughly friendly spirit for Japan in all American business and social circles that he had visited and the two dominant nations in the Pacific are assured lasting peace.

SUBMARINE EXPERT

Commander Higuchi is regarded as Japan's foremost submarine expert. During the World War he was decorated for heroism for gallantry in action while an officer aboard the Japanese destroyer Sugi in Mediterranean convoy work and as added honor was given command of the captured German submarine U-125 which he took back to Japan.

There her design was copied and her main features embodied in the huge new I-type Japanese minelaying submarine cruisers just completed at Kobe. Commander Higuchi relinquished command of the I-4, last of the type, just before he departed on his present observation tour.

He will visit California naval establishments before sailing for Japan in mid-October aboard the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Korea Maru.

Rail Chairman Finds Western States Prosper

Improved business conditions in the States served by the Union Pacific Railroad from Omaha, Neb., west, and an indication that the next quarter will see a substantial increase over the same period of last year, were noted by Carl Gray, chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific, who is making a brief stop here on an inspection of the western division.

"We describe the present business conditions as normally good," said Mr. Gray, who arrived in the city yesterday, "and look for an improvement during the next few months, which would appear to indicate that the Presidential election is not interfering with the general prosperity."

In the Northwest States Mr. Gray said, the farmers are getting good returns on their crops, and that the live-stock men are particularly prospering. The lumber industry is also greatly improved, he said.

HELL TIE SELF TO BEDSTEAD

Film Art Director Walks in Sleep Due to Nightmare Over Tong Strife

Liell Kingsley Vedder, art director for Harold Lloyd, is going to chain himself to bed. Designing Chinese sets for the film comedian's next picture involving a tong war has become a nightmare to him. In fact, he had an actual nightmare that he was caught in the midst of one of these ancient wars.

The result was that he walked in his sleep and the story about it became known yesterday. Vedder was discovered in his pajamas in front of the Colehurst Apartments, Vine street and Santa Monica Boulevard, in the wee small hours of the morning by Motorcycle Officer A. Bigmann. The latter took Vedder back to earth and the tong war was over.

But the sad thing about it was that Vedder had locked himself out on account of the night latch and he and Officer Bigmann spent some time in getting him back.

CITY SKIMS SEWAGE TO BAN GREASE

New Screens Being Placed at Beach Plant to Remove Objectionable Matter

While all objectionable features connected with the city's outfall sewer at Hyperion are almost at an irreducible minimum, City Engineer Shaw announces, experiments are now being conducted at the city-owned outfall beach that are designed to eliminate every possible sort of objection. A crew of men is at work on a "skimming" process that is designed to remove every trace of grease that has been finding its way into the ocean water in small quantities.

Important improvements are being made to the north plant of the outfall sewer. The Board of Public Works last week received bids for three screens to be added to the equipment of the north plant. The bids ranged from about $105,000 to $112,000, but the screens are highly intricate pieces of machinery twelve by fourteen feet and are to be installed in the north outfall plant to act as auxiliaries to the screens already in place. When they are installed the south outfall plant will be shut down for much needed repairs and some of the machinery in place in the north outfall will also benefit by a short repair shutdown. The screens in the north outfall plant have been in place for three years, but as they are required to operate twenty-four hours a day, while most machinery works but eight hours per day, their life has been computed at nine years.

The city owns a stretch of beach a mile long and a quarter of a mile wide at Hyperion. Here it has erected two plants of Spanish reinforced concrete type with inclosed grounds handsomely landscaped. The two plants have a capacity of 420,000,000 gallons daily. The south plant, which is the older of the two, cost $268,279 and the north plant $367,929.

WIFE FEARS MATE SLAIN FOR MONEY

Police Here Asked to Quiz New York on Reported Death of Spaniard

Mysterious circumstances surrounding the death in New York City of Antonio Rico, wealthy Spaniard and formerly of this city, yesterday led his wife, Mrs. Efigenia Rico of 315 North Alvarado street, to appeal to police to request a thorough investigation of the case by New York authorities.

Mrs. Rico stated that she believes her husband was murdered for his money, much of which he was in the habit of carrying about with him.

Her husband left her and her 10-year-old daughter five years ago, Mrs. Rico told police. Recently she was sent a newspaper clipping by a friend in New York, stating that Mr. Rico had died of gas asphyxiation there. She also learned, she said, that several persons had been posing as his relatives before and after the date of his supposed death, February 28, last, and that New York police turned the body over to a man who represented himself as Rico's brother.

These facts were believed to be significant of foul play, as Mrs. Rico stated that here husband had no relatives outside of Spain, except herself and daughter.

Local police at once notified New York police authorities and requested full details of Rico's death be sent here as soon as possible.

Home Etchings Proven Real Rembrandts

To have in one's possession six or seven prints believed to be of only average value, then suddenly to discover that they are genuine Rembrandt etchings, is what might reasonably be termed a thrilling discovery.

That is what happened to Carl C. Abel, woodcarver of 9139 Sunset Boulevard. Fifteen years ago in his home town in Denmark, Abel picked up a number of etchings at a small antique shop wherewith to adorn the walls of the home to which he was bringing a bride. Neither he nor the dealer, apparently, had the slightest idea of the value of the prints. Abel simply bought them because he liked them, and it was not until a month ago, when he was visited at his studio by A. C. Wiboltt, an artist, that he recognized what he had in his possession.

Wiboltt was certain of their origin but had his opinion confirmed by Erwin H. Furman of the Print Rooms, 1748 Sycamore avenue, who is a dealer in etchings. Abel said that he bought the pictures for two kronen apiece, or about 50 cents, and already he has disposed of them for many times that amount, some of the prints being worth over $100 each. Of one, which depicts an artist drawing from a statuary bust, there are said to be only twelve other impressions known in the world from the plate.

OCCIDENTAL STUDENTS TO MEET FOR HOOVER

As a result of increasing interest being shown in the national political campaign by students at Occidental College, an organization meeting of Hoover and Curtis supporters has been called for this afternoon in Alumni Hall. Representatives from the district Republican campaign organization are expected to be present with Miss Gladys C. Towles scheduled as one of the speakers. Harold E. Jones, who is sponsoring the organization of the group, is the editor of The Occidental, official student body semiweekly.

EXECUTIVE AND SALESPEOPLE NOTICE

I have two executives and 10 salespeople at once, on high-class residential property, with ornamental iron work and wrought iron gates, etc. all in and paid for; large lots at prices ranging from $900 up. Short time sales; no interest; insurance, real co-operation, most liberal commission being paid on this class of property. Call at once at the true of people who are "fed up" on the usual ballyhoo stuff and who have a proper desire to serve their clients and themselves by selling legitimate property at prices that will permit a profit to them and satisfy the purchaser. F. B. HOWARD, 632 S. Vermont.

SALESMEN

AND SALESWOMEN

MAKE $50 A WEEK

PART TIME

No matter what line of selling you are engaged in, you can make $50 a week and up by "cashing in" on the by-product of your effort.

You come in daily contact with people who are thinking along the lines we are operating—namely: Financial Independence through small monthly savings, and who would appreciate your bringing THE FORTUNE COLONY'S Plan to their attention. This is done through the medium of a 32-page book entitled "An Independent Income," which they read and understand, and understanding — buy.

Independent Life-time Incomes are provided thru THE COLONY'S Plan of Income Estates. The lands are handled thru Trust and payments are made to a local bank. The income begins right from the start and the development is spon sored by a group of 25 prominent men, who would grace the directorate of any Los Angeles Bank.

Write today for a complimentary copy of our book on Independence. Read it yourself and if the plan appeals to you as fair and sensible, we will show you how, without interfering in the least with your time you can add at least $50 to your weekly income. Full-time workers are making five times that amount. This applies to both men and women.

Just write a post card to IRVIN D. QUICK, Secretary, 607 So. Western Avenue, Los Angeles, and say: "Mail me a copy of 'An Independent Income' and your proposition to part-time workers."
